Mail Will Not Be Delivered Without Stamps

Postmaster O.B. Sloan Wednesday reminded customers that effective Sunday, November 17, the U.S. Postal Service intends to discontinue delivering mail on which there is no postage.

Postmaster Sloan said the new policy was instituted because of the high costs being incurred by the Postal Service in its attempt to deliver such mail. Officials estimate that such costs total approximately $18 million annually.

In announcing the new policy last month, Postmaster General E.T. Klassen said, "it is unfair to burden the vast majority of mailers with costs created by the few who mail without prepayment of postage."

After November 17, letters mailed without postage will be returned to sender if there is a return address.
