CIVIC CENTER FUN... The PI PHI CHAP-TER of the OMEGA PSI PHI FRATERNITY sponsored a real super get down affair last Friday night at Charlotte's Civic Center.

The function was the Q's annual "Mardi Gras," where some of the guests dressed in competition for one of several prizes given away "to the best costumed individual and-or couple."

This grand party began around 9 p.m., eventhough most of the people started filtering in around 10. Before the majority of the guests really got an opportunity to find their tables and settle down, they were rocked and rolled by the big sounds of Opus 7 from Winston-Sa-aggregation played all the latest tunes in a style that was better than the original sounds in some instances, and as good in the others.

The mood for the evening was a very gay one, that afforded the participants the opportunity to chat with friends, dance the week's frustrations away, and frolic with their mates.

Bill Davis, offensive line coach for South Carolina State College and his lovely wife Ozzietta were among the guests. Ken Harris, Republican candidate for Mayor of Charlotte was there. Art Norman, newscaster for WSOC-TV was also on hand along with, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Johnson, Henry Wallace and Carolyn Davis who will be wed very soon, Judge Clifton Johnson, Vinson Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Cousar, Eddie McGirt, head (football) coach at Johnson C. Smith University and many more friends, enjoying what the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity had to offer.

Oren McCullough, Tennyson Johnson, James Dixon, and all of the other Q brothers did a fantastic job in organizing their biggest Mardi Gras yet.

FAREWELL JAM...Some old Johnson C. Smith friends and WCCB co-workers gathered recently for a bon voyage bash at 1027 McAlway Road.

The party was given for Ruth "Dee" Edwards who's taking a position as assistant Traffic Manager at a TV station in her home town of Charleston, South Carolina.

Some of the people that enjoyed the folly, but didn't enjoy the reason for having it, were Terri McRae, Vaudrey Funderburke, Amy Lovelace. Dean Coley, Howard Ballou, Debra Gates, Robbie Thompson, Betsy Hardy, Debbie Brice, Ron Johnson, Thomas Jackson, Daniel Stradford, Clara White, and Oliver Blue.

The group really got off til the early morning hours to the contemporary sounds furnished by Cunningham and White.

DID YOU KNOW...While the dust still stirs over famous rock singer Elvis Pressley's untimely death, one man is taking it as just a matter of fact, Arto R. Aaron.

Toe, as he is called by his friends, has had opportunity to cash in on Elvis' death, but he refused.

Elvis trained under Arto when he was a soldier in the 25th tank battalion at Fort Hood, Texas. Got any more goodies, Toe?

DISCO FUN...The CHARLOTTE BRANCH OF THE NAACP held a gigantic fall disco last Sunday at The Gallery on East Morehead Street, with WGIV's Ron Cunningham at the helm.

The event was a definite success, thanks largely to the efforts of Al Rousseau and his wife June, C.J. Cowan, Kelly Alexander Jr., and the Gallery staff.

Free albums were given away through the courtesy of the promotion people at Columbia and WEA Records.

Among the participants in this dance function were William Fox, Brenda Hankins, Gloria Talbert, Harold Osborne, Kevin Stone, Emma Ragin, Lester Harrell, Calvin Meaks, Bobby Leake, Jennifer Williams, Kim Alexander, Robin Paige, Dianne Roberts, Alvin Pewter, Gloria Norman, Jerry Starks, Cynthia Bownan and Phil Hodges.

YOUTH PROGRAM...The Youth Department of The Mecklenburg General Baptist Association sponsored a "Mecklenburg Contest and Fall Fashions Galore" program recently at the Greenville Neighborhood Center, 1130 Spring Street.

Susie Norton was the mistress of ceremonies for the program that inlcuded participation by Elaine Wallace, Gayle Wood, Greta Miller, Doris Mobley and Rev. F.A. Griffin.

Sandra Smith narrated "Fashions on Parade" featuring church, school, casual and after-five fashions.

Creative dances were done by Rovanda and Leslie Whitaker.

The success of this program was due largely to the efforts of people like Doris Mobley, Perrie M. Norman, and Ona Taylor.

In reference to having been on council for the past 18 years, 14 as mayor pro-tem, candidate Whittington referred to his record on certain issues of interest to the black community. As stated during general election two years ago, he never opposed district representation. He did oppose the plan the citizens of Charlotte eventually passed.

"Those of us opposed to district representation on April 19 felt it was too much too soon. A small segment of the population got thier own petitition and drew their own plan. I opposed having the majority of council members not elected by the majority of the voters. The 4 - 3 plan was the plan I favored," he further explained.

The Belmont Regional Center received a negative vote from Whittington who disclaimed any opposition to the center but to building the new structure that he recalls was 'several hundred thousand dollars above the budget." "I thought the money would be better spent using the Johnson Y facility that already existed.

The voting record of Jim Whittington verifies a positive nod toward affirmative action, allocation of funds for public housing and various issues of concern to the black community. On a level of leadership initiative for the black community, he referred Named Chairman to his support of black admi-minstrative level city employees, while saying that most programs are initiated on the federal or state government level, leaving local government to either except or deny said program.

Think about

Think about how your family would get along without you. And your income. Could they continue to live as you'd want them to? More than likely they'd face a hard financial struggle as well as an emotional one. But by thinking about the possibility of dying, you can decrease the possibility of that happening. For example, if you don't already have a sound physical fitness program, now's the time to get started.

And if you don't already have a sound life insurance program, now's the time to give your agent from North Carolina Mutual a call. It'll bring you peace of mind. Because it'll bring your family security. téasier.
