Invites You To A Fun Evening

By Jeri Harvey
Post Staff Writer

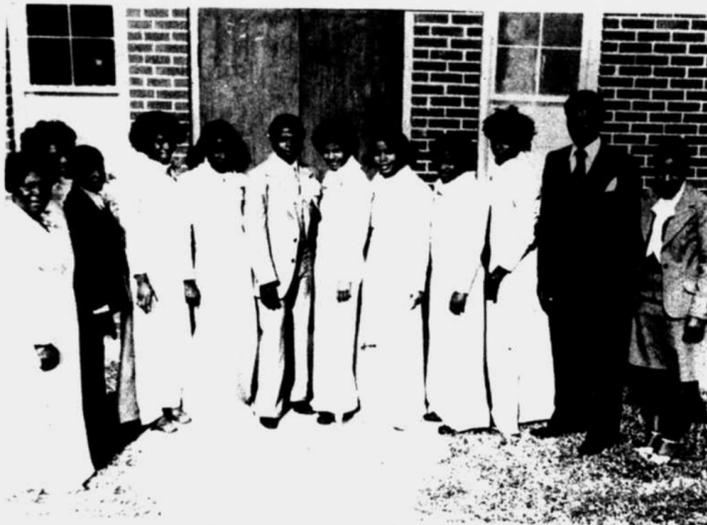

The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is inviting you to "A Party With A Purpose"...a fun evening of comedy and music followed by an elegant party. It is the third annual theatre party held by the group to raise funds for diabetes research.

This year's affair is "JACQUES BREL IS ALIVE AND WELL AND LIVING IN PARIS." Show time is 7:30 p.m. Sunday evening, November 13, and Dana Auditorium on the Queen's College campus is the place.

After-theatre Party in the foyer of Dana Auditorium and some terrific door prizes will also be given away: -a weekend at a Villa on Hilton Head Island -deluxe accommodations for two at the Radisson Plaza with dinner in the Reflections Room.

Ticket contributions are $10 per person. You are also invited to become a Patron of JDF at $25 per person - a tax deductible contribution.

According to a JDF spokesman, there is hardly a family that diabetes does not touch. JDF has become a strong, viable local and national voluntary health agency whose main goal is to fund research into the cause and cure of diabetes. The public is being asked to continue supporting diabetes research by attending this gala affair and encouraging friends to attend also.

Black Experience Booklet Ready

"The Black Experience in Revolutionary North Carolina," a new booklet in the N.C. Bicentennial Pamphlet Series, is now available. The 121-page softcover booklet, written by Dr. Jeffrey J. Crow of the Historical Publications Section of the Department of Cultural Resources, outlines the growth of slavery in colonial North Carolina, studies patterns of white control and black resistance, and describes the participation of blacks in the Revolutionary War and the impact of the Revolution on the slaves.

who openly encouraged slave rebellion. Also included is a genealogically important appendix listing the names and services records of Tar Heel blacks who fought in the Continental Line or militia. The illustrated booklet, 13th in the series of 16, is available for $1.50 at the Archives and History-State Library Bldg., or by mail from the Historical Publications Section, Department of Cultural Resources, 109 East Jones Street, Raleigh, 27611.

"The study...attempts to examine the nature of life for black Carolinians," Dr. Crow writes in the preface. Dr. Crow relied extensively on public records, such as court documents, to research the booklet. The scarcity of manuscripts dealing with plantation life in North Carolina reflects the make-up of the state's population-mostly small farmers who owned few, if any, slaves.

Dr. Crow emphasizes that although slavery was "firmly rooted in the Old North State by 1800, its growth lagged behind the development of slavery in other southern colony-states."

The booklet shows that although many Afro-Americans served on the patriot side, many more joined the British
