

WBTB To Air "Support Your Local Gunfighter"

James Garner and Suzanne Pleshette star in a comedy-western, "Support Your Local Gunfighter," about a runaway bridegroom who is mistaken by a fued-ridden small town for a notorious gunfighter, on "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies," Tuesday, March 21 at 9 on WBTB, Channel 3.

Jack Elam, Joan Blondell, Harry Morgan, Marie Windsor, Henry Jones, John Dehner and Chuck Connors co-star. Smooth-talking cowboy Latigo (Garne) sneaks off a train in the hamlet of Purgatory to escape his intended bride (Miss Windsor) and her ten bridesmaids, who intend to set themselves up in a little business after the wedding.

Latigo finds Purgatory lives up to its name. The town's two leading families, the Bartons and the Ames, are in the middle of a bloody feud. The Bartons collar Latigo, assuming that he is the gunfighter hired by their rivals. The Barton family would like to enlist Latigo on their side, except for pretty Patience Barton (Miss Pleshette) who would prefer gunning him down on sight. Matters are further complicated when the real gunfighter (Connors) and Latigo's jilted fiancée turn up in town.

Return Public Library Books

Thirteen may be a lucky number if it leads to the return of library books to public schools in Charlotte-Mecklenburg. All CMS library books are labeled on page 13 in the bottom margin.

In an effort to have "long-lost" books returned, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools, Charlotte-Mecklenburg public Libraries and the Charlotte-Mecklenburg PTA Council are cooperating in "Operation Book Return" during National Library Week, April 2-8. No fine will be levied on "long-lost" books.

An estimated 16,500 books are lost each year from public school media centers, according to Mary Arden Harris, Media Center Program Specialist.

In some cases, students have transferred to new schools and don't realize they can turn in books at the new school and that they will be sent to the appropriate school, she says.

Students who have been graduated and are away at college may have library books at home. Former students or their parents are asked to return such books to any public school or branch of the public library. Books will be returned to the proper place. PTA volunteers will help sort books in order to send to the appropriate school.

The return of public school and library books will benefit the whole community by saving tax dollars for replacing books and by making the books available to patrons, explains Mrs. Harris.

ALTAR BOUND-Soul singer Aretha Franklin will be married April 11 to actor Glynn Turman with her father, Rev. C.L. Franklin, officiating at his New Bethel Church in Detroit, Mich., according to the latest issue of Jet magazine. Jet reported that Miss Franklin, 36, and Turman, who appeared in the films 'Cooley High' and 'A Hero Ain't Nothing But A Sandwich' met two years ago after she broke up with long-term friend Ken Cunningham. Between them, they will have seven children, three by his previous two marriages and four by her previous marriage to Detroit's Ted White.
