

THINGS I FIND MOST DELIGHTFUL.....

Behind every successful man is a surprised woman. Chuck Boozer and Pamela Hart in the mornings....Fred and Lamont Sanford on TV in the afternoons....Either the Atlanta Braves or the Baltimore Orioles in the evening.... Playing golf with my son, Bob, and my good buddies, John Harris, Robert Morris, and Herman Thomas.Pretty Girls.....Watching old movies on television like "Little Caesar," the original "Scarface," "Gone With The Wind," "Hang 'Em High," "The Revengers," etc.

Vacationing in Williamsburg, Va.....Jazz at the Kool Jazz Festival in the Hampton, Va., Coliseum.....The CIAA Basketball Tournament....Fried Fish, with cole slaw, cornbread and the works.....Pretty Girls.....Springtime and all of its colorful greeneries....Golf at Crystal Springs, a challenging course that induces high scores.....Golf at Kings Mills, an even more challenging golf course that induces higher scores....

Eating at J.B. and Peggy Rose's spacious home in Kannapolis...Arguing with James Peeler, the photographer.....Dining at the Fish Market or the Regency Inn.... Good friends like Nancy Cooper, State Alexander, Bob Harris, and Bill Rollins of WPEG.....Tom and Ruth Chiles.....Charles and Ruby Williams.....Janie Deese..... Charles and Lothell Ramseur.....Adam Turner.....Jean Brannon.....D.G. Martin.....Jimmy Grier.....Creola Robinson.....Alfred Glover and Earline and Jim Massey..... The soothing sounds of Jazz Artists and the entertaining sounds of blues great, B.B. King.....T&T.

What does the above have to do with sports?....'Cuse Please!

HERE AND THERE.....The addition of George Rogers makes the Washington Redskins one of the most feared teams in the National Football League....Would you believe that an all-star team of CIAA athletes defeated an all-star lineup of AGC players in Elizabeth City recently....The score was 127-105.

Attendance to the National Basketball Association games set a new record this year. More than 10 million fans were counted. The mighty Boston Celtics were the top draw, having played before 1,273,915 paid fans to Chicago, Houston, Dallas, Detroit, the Los Angeles Lakers and Philadelphia were the other NBA teams to play before more than one million people at home during the regular season.

SUDDEN THOUGHT.....If three wrongs doesn't make a right, wonder why Yankee owner George Steinbrenner gave Billy Martin a fourth opportunity to fail? With the exciting new Mets fast becoming the "favorite" of the New York newspapers, Steinbrenner probably thought the Yankees needed Billy to get them back on the front pages. I disagree. In my opinion, the problem with the Yankees is that they need to learn to run the bases better, hit the baseball more often and turn in some outstanding plays on defense. Until they do, George's horse better run like hell in the upcoming races..

Look for former NBA great Don Chaney to become the head coach of the Los Angeles Clippers before the playoff season runs its course. He won nine of 16 games as an interim skipper.

The USFL continues its decline in TV ratings. Last Sunday's contest between Jacksonville and Birmingham was the lowest ever, with a very poor 2.6 rating. In the meantime, the Yankees and White Sox were being watched by 7.7 percent of the nation's households and 6.1 percent were viewing the Philadelphia-Milwaukee NBA game.

Earlier predictions are that the contract packages for NFL first-rounders will drop in value from 10 to 20 percent this year. A year ago, the first-rounders averaged $168,000 in base salary, $903,000 in bonuses, and 19 received low interest loans averaging $514,000.

Tampa Bay Bandits' owner John Bassett may have offered a good suggestion. He wants to continue the spring football schedule and to include teams in London, Mexico City, and Tokyo. Needless to say, he was voted down Monday by the other USFL owners.

Billy Martin may not have endeared himself with the Yankee players. He advises curfews will be honored, attendance at practice games will be mandatory, no golf or public appearances will be made on game days and jackets and ties will be worn on planes.

Calvin Peete is currently holding down the Number Two position among the PGA money leaders. He's pocketed $289,030 in four months. Jim Thorpe is 79th among the leaguers with $34,614 in earnings and Jim Dents has won $18,116 and is 116th in the order.

The odd makers have Milwaukee favored by 3½ points to take the Philadelphia 76ers in the NBA series. The two teams split six games during the regular season. At this writing, the 76ers have a 2-0 edge in the best of five series.

John Love informs that the Par Busters will compete in the Mecklenburg 4 Ball Tournament here this weekend. They will journey to Birmingham, Ala., the weekend of May 18-19. The next weekend will find the Par Busters playing in a Pro-Am event in Atlanta, Ga.

McCullough Inducted Into Athletic Hall Of Fame

By Audrey C. Lodato
Post Staff Writer
West Charlotte High School basketball coach, Charles A. McCullough, was one of several former track stars recently inducted into North Carolina Central University's Athletic Hall of Fame.

A three-sport participant while at NCCU, McCullough played baseball and basketball while attending the university on a track scholarship. He won a number of national championships in the 1950s, among them the CIAA Championship in 1953, 1956, and 1958; the NAIA and Pennsylvania Relays in 1956; and the NC-AAU Championships three times. McCullough also won most of the local meets.

His athletic career included the following: undefeated in regular season competition in 1951-52, 1952-53, 1955-56, and 1957-58; established high jump records at Camp Lejeune, South Carolina State, Hampton Institute, and N.C. Central; established record at Winston-Salem relays; 1956 Olympic trials, sixth place; member of All Army Track Team and Third Army Championship Basketball Team, Fort Gordon.

He was named "Coach of the Year" in Charlotte-Mecklenburg in 1961, '63, '66, '68, '81, and '85.

McCullough has been basketball coach at West Charlotte for 25 years. The school has won two state championships and last year was the city championship team.

McCullough's wife, Delauris, teaches math at Independence High School. A son, Charles Jr., is a junior at UNCC. Their daughter, Cynthia, is a UNCC graduate.

NCCU's Athletic Hall of Fame was started a year ago. The first year's inductees were Olympians and champions of international caliber. This year, national champions were inducted. A total of 47 former sports stars and athletic program patrons were inducted at a banquet on April 20. Included were two groups of women: "pioneers" from the 1930s and '40s, and the 1983-84 championship basketball team.

Andrea Stinson Named "Female Athlete Of Year"

By James Cuthbertson
Post Sports Writer

North Mecklenburg's Andrea Stinson is the 1985 Charlotte Post "Female Athlete of the Year."

The young lady presently has the best of two worlds.

She is a sophomore standout on the softball team where she is batting .490 with eight homeruns and 20 runs batted in to lead the Vikings to third place in the conference.

"I like playing softball," said the soft spoken young lady. "I never keep track of my statistics. I just go out and play."

"She is as good at anything she plays," said softball coach Leroy Holden. "Whether it is volleyball, basketball, or softball, she plays it very well. She was a standout track star in junior high school."

Andrea, who lives in Davidson, was a standout in three sports at Alexander Junior High in Huntersville.

She is participating on the AAU Junior Olympics team that won a trip to Virginia with some clutch shooting over the weekend.

Five-foot, ten-inch Stinson is also the 1985 "Miss Basketball" for The Charlotte Post.

She was a forward and averaged 21.0 points and nine rebounds per game while leading her team to the semifinals of the State 4A Tournament.

She was recently named to the All-State team.
