Raynard Stephens Is Considering Gardner-Webb And Winston-Salem

Gardner-Webb or Winston-Salem State University are the two schools that Garinger's Raynard Stephens is considering attending.

"I am really interested in Gardner-Webb," he said. "I talked to the coach and I liked the school."

Stephens is going to concentrate on a major in computer science or communications.

and helped to give me the initiative to assert myself on the court as well as off the court."

"She has always taught me to do the best in everything that I do," he revealed.

"And my father encourages me also by helping me with different phases of my game," he continued.

"The most important thing I learned from basketball was that you should try to excel at all times," he said. "You have to try hard and give it all that you have got."

This philosophy came from his mother and father, Lewis and Catherine Stephens, and from his coach, Bruce Jreutzer.

The Wildcat played basketball with the Milton Road Salvation Army Boys Club and was cut from several junior high teams before making the Garinger junior varsity as an 11th grader.

At 6-5 and 170 pounds, he was a cinch to make the varsity.

"Lack of a good point guard hurt us," he informed. "We also didn't develop a killer instinct. We would be ahead and still manage to lose the game."

Stephens averaged 12.5 points and 11 rebounds per game as a senior.

His best game came against West Mecklenburg when he scored 18 points and pulled down 12 rebounds and had five assists.

"My role on the team was as a rebounder," he said.

The Wildcats were 13-11 overall and 8-10 in the conference.

Before he made the varsity, he was a member of the best Garinger junior varsity in history.

The team was 16-4 and finished second to the Independence Patriots.

Of coach Bruce Kreutzer Stephens, he said, "He helped me with my outlook on basketball, helped me to continue on the road to college,

Football Standout

Hickory-Lenoir-Rhyne head football coach John Perry has announced the signing of another prep football standout to the Bears' program.

Chris Hartsell, a 6-0, 190 pounder from Albemarle High School in Albemarle, will be slated for duty in the defensive secondary this fall.

Hartsell was an All-Rocky River Conference quarterback his senior year and was named to the 1984 WBT radio all-state football team.

Hartsell is a fine track performer as well and earned all-conference honors his junior and senior years at Albemarle High. He was also named Rocky River Conference Most Valuable Player in track his senior season.

Aside from athletics, Hartsell is an excellent student. He was a member of the National Honor Society in high school and has been awarded an honors scholarship at Lenoir-Rhyne.

action. Known for her "reckless driving," Granny will be attending many of Petersen Publishing special events this summer to film background shots for projects that include a music video and a television special.

Ironically, Sway, who has been acting since the age of 12 (mostly in commercials, with a bit part in the movie Rhinestone), isn't a Granny herself. Still she dressed the part, with a flourish, winning the title of "Little Old Lady from Pasadena" over 100 other quaint grannies who auditioned for the role.

"I just can't wait to see all those beautiful, custom and muscle cars at the First Annual Hot Rod Magazine Super Cruise-South," said Granny, when asked about her upcoming trip to Charlotte.
