Robert Hinson Jr.
.....On loan from Duke Power

City Hires New Development Coordinator

The City of Charlotte and Duke Power Company jointly announced the appointment of Robert E. Hinson Jr., to the position of Development Coordinator for the City. Hinson, 39, senior industrial power representative with Duke Power, will be "loaned" to the City for 18 months to coordinate Citywide economic development programs.

"We think it is a good opportunity for local government and industry to work closely for the benefit of all citizens," said Fred West, vice president of Duke Power's Charlotte Division. "Good economic development for Charlotte is important to all of us. We are happy that some of our people can help with the City's planning," he said.

"We are pleased to have Bob Hinson coordinate the City's economic development program under a 'loaned executive' contract with Duke Power," said City Manager Wendell White. "Bob has proven his capabilities in dealing with businesses throughout the region and brings his experience and talent to local government. I am appreciative of the fact that Duke Power has been so willing to work with us in this creative arrangement," he added.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte with a bachelor's degree in engineering analysis and design, Hinson has been with Duke Power since 1972. For the past nine years, his work with commercial and industrial energy conservation management systems has won awards for excellence in energy management competitions. Prior to employment with Duke Power, Hinson began his career with Celanese Fibers Company in research and development.

Hinson will remain an employee of Duke Power but will actually work full-time for the City for the duration of the "loaned executive" program.
