

MLK Papers Project: Programs and resources

Continued From 5C

education seminars in South Africa.

-Andre Namphy
Oxford University
Rhodes Scholar

Working at the King Papers Project legitimized my interest in African-American history and culture as well as my belief in social justice. The staff and students provided crucial support and encouragement. The King Papers Project introduced me to other students, both undergraduate and graduate, who shared my interests.

-Amy Whitcomb
Elementary school teacher
Long Beach, Calif.

Although publication of an authoritative edition of King's papers is the primary purpose of the King Papers Project, the Stanford office is a major research center with a multi-faceted mission. Funded by Stanford University, foundations, corporations, and private donors (Associates of the King Papers Project), the King Project's activities at Stanford including the following:

The Papers of Martin Luther King Jr. (14-volume edition)
Bibliographies and research guides
Facsimile editions
Scholarly and popular articles

Student research and internship programs
Nordson Corporation Foundation Summer Internship for Morehouse Students

Independent research class with history department academic credit

Public education

Public presentations by project personnel
Historical exhibit and open houses at project offices

Resources

Online Access (links, search device)
Online database stored on nationally-accessible Research Libraries Information Network
Document-level records in computer-readable format on Stanford mainframe
MLK bibliography available through Folio-Stanford online catalogue

"We Must All Learn To Live Together As Brothers. Or We Will All Perish Together As Fools."

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

ALEXANDER'S VARIETY STORE

118 TOM HUNTER ROAD
PROP. ROBERT ALEXANDER SR.

"Stop The Killing"