

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Johnson named band director at J.C. Smith

Johnson C. Smith University has hired William M. Johnson as director of bands.

Johnson comes to JCSU from Florida A&M University where he served as the Interim Director of Lower Brasswinds for the FAMU "Marching 100." Also, he served as a graduate assistant with the Florida State University Marching Chiefs.

As the university's new director of bands, Johnson is responsible for conducting the Golden Bulls marching band, university jazz band, and symphonic band. Also, he will be teaching applied music courses in music to JCSU students.

• The Culture & Heritage Museums of York County, S.C., has added Kelvin Arthur Owen Glendening and Julie Voges to its staff.

Arthur joined the CHM staff on July 6 as the deputy director of finance and administration. With over 20 years of accounting and financial experience, Arthur also brings more than seven years of senior financial management experience in the non-profit industry, having served as Vice President of Finance for the Arts & Science Council of Charlotte, North Carolina and as Assistant Controller of MacNeil-Lehrer Productions, producers of PBS's nightly news show, "The News Hour with Jim Lehrer."

Glendening, the deputy director of interpretation, came to the Culture & Heritage Museums from Muncie, Ind., where he was a visiting research fellow at Ball State University.

Voges is Culture & Heritage Museums' first human resources manager.

Voges has worked in executive recruiting at First Union Bank (Wachovia) and NationsBank (Bank of America) and served as a human resources consultant for a variety of Canadian firms before moving to the Carolinas.

• Dr. John G. Johnston, a Charlotte pediatrician, was honored by the state's professional pediatric organization for a distinguished medical career and for promoting access to health care for teens.

The N.C. Pediatric Society presented The David T. Tayloe Sr. Award for Outstanding Community Service to Johnston during its annual conference in Asheville.

"Dr. J" as he is known to both patients and colleagues, is a Charlotte native who graduated from the UNC-Chapel Hill with his undergraduate and medical degrees. After residency, he worked briefly in Seattle before returning home to join the Charlotte Pediatric Clinic where he practiced from 1974-1992 before becoming the Medical Director of the Teen Health Connection.

• Tahirah Farrer-Bradley was awarded a certificate of achievement for completion of the Howard Hughes Summer Research Fellowship program at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Farrer-Bradley, a junior at Tuskegee (Ala.) University, conducted research along with undergraduate students from across the US. in medicine and arts and sciences. A graduate of West Charlotte High School, Farrer-Bradley is the daughter of Thomas Bradley and Fran Farrer-Nash of Charlotte.
