ORTS

It's a new beginning for the Sting

Major makeover in Bogues' first full season as head coach

By Erica Singleton FOR THE CHARLOTTE POS.

There are new faces, new coaching staff nd a new attitude for the Charlotte and a new attitude to the Sting After an abysmal 6-28 season, the Sting has made coaching changes, and added draft picks to start fresh in 2006. Tyrone "Muggay" Bogues starts his first full season as head coach. In the final 10 games last season, Bogues led the Sting to three wins, which equaled the total over the first 24 games.

Bogues "Later totar over the sense." Bogues "Later year, I was mainly just trying to boost morale, and get them to finish the season," he said. "I think the ladies enjoyed how we finished and how we started playing, and I think they are very excited to start this year at the begin-ning."

scrited to start this year at the begin-ning." With the 2006 season a few weeks away, and the preseason getting under-way, Bogues talked about this being a new beginning for his team. "We're look-ing forward to building on what we had," We have some veteran players who have been in a lot of games, you know champi-onship situations, with Sheri Sam, Allison Feaster's been in a championship game, Tammy Brown, and Tangela (Smith) who've been at great organiza-tions. We've added some additional play-ers and have some players returning, and 1 think we'l all be on the same page." The new additions include rookie draft picks Monique Currie, Tye'sha Fluker, Please see NEW/20

Kamorean Hayes, a two-time N.C. 4A shot put and discus champion, aims to be best in the world.

Harding standout focuses on total domination

By Eric Bozeman

Kamorean Hayes is a two time state champion in the shot put and discus, but she knows there is someone better. That's why she pushes herself for better perforshot put and uscus, but she herself for better perfor-mances. Mayes, who is unbeaten in 2006, has thrown the shot 52 feet, and discus 155 Xet she thinks back to last sum-mer in Morocco, where she finished third in the discus, and aixth in the shot. Hayes said the memories of com-peting against the throwers in the world in her age group makes her hungry to do better. Taying focused is what drives me everyday that I go to practice, "Hayes said." Throw that there is somebody that is still better than me because when I went to Morocco I said to myself that 'You're good in the United States, but that is still not good enough. 'There's a girl in South Africa who can beat me.'' Marding assistant coach Trey Miles believes Hayes inplements a great work ethic to overcome the miscon-ception of the prototypical thrower. "Kameran is a worksholic, yes in, no sir type of ath-liste that loves the sports and loves to learn," he said "Shot put is one of those sports that has a big miscon-ception and everyone assumes that the throwers are husky, but Kamorean's stature is short, compact with a lot of strength and alot of speed, which is a key element

DIVISION II BOWL GAME IN CHARLOTTE

RUSSEN pulls in a pass as Bowie State's Byron Anderson defends in the Pioneer Bowl Dec. 3 in Charlotte. The post-en CIAA and SIAC teams will remain in Charlotte for at least two years. Tuskegee won last year's game 28-26. Tuskegee's Calvin Russe season da oneer stays put

Organizers feel extending Division II postseason classic here can help game grow By Herbert L. White

Pioneer Bowl facts

First game – 1997 (Kentucky State 30, Livingstone 28). Most appearances – Tuskegee (six) Most wins – Tuskegee (four). Most games hosted – Atlanta Series record - SIAC leads 6herb white® thecharlouepost com Charlotte® no longer the Pioneer Bowl's temporary home. The postseason classic between the SIAC and CIAA will be played at Memorial Stadium for at least two years, orgainzers annouced this week. This year's game will be played Dec. 2 at Memorial Stadium. The Pioneer Bowl, the only NCAA-sanctioned postseason game for black colleges, was moved to Charlotte from Mobile, Ala, last August when Hurricane Katrina slammed into the Gulf Coast. Game organizers thought enough of Charlotte's potential as a site to discuss a longer commit-ment.

a site to the use a taking off and on "We've been talking off and on since the last Pioneer Bowl about bringing it back," said Jeff McLeod, the CIAA's assistant commissioner and football championship coordinator: "We've been pushing to bring it back to give it a full run since we didn't have enough time to promote the game Now we have almost a full year." . Pioneer weekend will include a battle of the bands with fams vot-ing online at pioneerbowl com for two units to represent each con-ference, banquet and assorted parties.

their

See PIONEER/20

Panthers use draft to stockpile talent

By Tim Whitmire

Interspectation of the second defensive back in the later Associated Press Writer Loading up on depth in key areas, the Carolina Panthers added a tight end and a sec-ond defensive back in the late rounds of the NFL draft Sunday. Entering their fifth season under coach John Fox and general manager Marty

DENVER – Carmelo Anthony looked physically deflated, staring at the back of his locker with a towel draped over his head long after his teammates had hit the charge ie shower. Anthony and the Denver

By Melissa Trujillo

Hurney, the Panthers are coming off an NFC champi-onship game appearance and have become annual playoff contenders, allowing them to draft for development and not immediate needs. None of Carolina's picks in this year's draft will be expected to start right away, but all were picked at posi-tions where the team hopes to add depth and develop young prospects. "Our dream is, every one of these guys is good enough to start," Fox said. "Whether that's reality or not, you never know. The guys we select in the draft, we have good feelings about." "We got the players we came in wanting to get," Hurney said.

to add depth and develop

With their fourth-round pick, No 121 overall, the Panthers took safety Nate Salley of Ohio State. He will be expected to back up veter-an Mike Minter and Colin

See CONTENDER/3C

Conference playoffs for the third straight season. The disappointment went beyond Anthony, as was evi-dent from the booing by the home fans as the game moved more and more out of reach for Denver in the fourth quarter.

Jackson unsung, but she's latest U.S. tennis hope

By Herbert L. White

No one expected the U.S. to do

No one expected the U.S. to do much against Germany in the Pederation Cup last month. The Americans were an unproven, with 31-year-old journeywoman Jill Craybas, ranked 39 in the world and three rookie James Jackson. But with Jackson going 2-0 in singles, the Americans shocked host Germany 3-2 at TC Ettenheim. Jackson, ranked 75th in the world gave the U.S. an insur-muntable 3-1 lead when she defeated Martina Muller, 7-6 (2), 6-2. Jackson became the lowest-ranked woman to play singles for the U.S. Fed Cup

See JACKSOPN/2C

Jackson Jackson returns a shot during the Federation Cup last week in Ettenheim, Germany. Jackson led the U.S. team to a 3-2 upset. Jackson, who is ranked 75th in the world in the world, won both singles matches

Nuggets just can't seem to find the basket A series of woeful shooting continued Saturday night with a 100-86 loss to the Los Angeles Clippers, putting the Nuggets down 3-1 in the series. They were eliminated Monday. "This right here really hurts, to loso on our home court the way we did," Anthony said "It didn't even feel like a playoff game tonight." The Nuggets' offense played poorly for the fourth-straight game - Anthony hit 5-of-17 for 17 points - in the loss, putting them one game away from being eliminated in the first round of the Western

Fact of NBA playoffs: Nuggets eliminated again

reach for De fourth quarter

With

Please see FOR/40