

CHOWAN REPRESENTED

urday morning, the students showed themselves interested in and concerned over the observance of Sabbath on the different campuses which they represented. The discussion was led by Frank H. Leavell, Executive Secretary of the Inter-Board Commission of Southern Baptist Convention centered around a questionnaire touching on all phases of campus life.

"It is a glorious thing to be young in this plastic day", Dr. B. F. Brown of Knoxville, Tennessee, said in a strong and most convincing address of spiritual optimism.

"In every walk of life men and women declare the supreme need of the world today is Christ. Consecration is the biggest word. We must give our time, our talents, culture, and our influence to Him. The plastic world is in our hands. How are we going to mold it?"

Mr. J. B. Southern, a student of Furman, said that "The greatest problem on the campus today is the purposeless student who drifts from class to class with no definite aim ever in mind. There is but one solution, and that is to bring him face to face with Christianity. Christ can transform the purposeless student into a man or woman of noble outlook."

Misses Juliette Mather, Jessie Burrae, and Louise Foreman each brought wonderful and inspiring messages.

Mr. E. H. Puryear, a student of the University of Richmond, struck the keynote of the whole Conference when he spoke on "Student Standards of Action" asking the question, "Why are we here at the convention?" There are 93,000 Baptist students in the South, and 60,000 of these do not attend church. On every campus there is some problem and that was our reason for being at the conference.

The auditorium was full for the closing service Sunday evening which was indeed a splendid farewell message by Dr. Harry E. Clark exhorting the students to use their all in helping to make their individual college campus one for Christ.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Yes, she is gone—from the Sophomore class, from the Sophomore table, from the art studio, from the violin studio, and from room No. 22, to Conway, N. C., where she will make her future home. She has made numbers of friends while in school here that will still be her best friends, although she has chosen a companion in preference to them. She is a talented young artist, having specialized in art since her entrance in college.

The following announcement has reached Chowan:

Miss Myra Elizabeth Benthall
and
Mr. Obed Clifton Futrell married on Tuesday, March eighteenth nineteen hundred and twenty-four Weldon, North Carolina

Edna Mills—I eat more when I am happy than at other times.

Iola—You stay happy all the time then, don't you?

SOPHS WIN GLORY

boro. All instructions were carried out in letter and spirit. The people of the town were at first startled, thinking that they were being raided by a bunch of escapades from the lunatic asylum. Soon, however, they were lead to believe differently when they learned that it was Sophomore Week, and the girls were a band of sane and healthy college students, the best sports ever. After having spent about two hours canvassing from house to house, the Sophs following persistently in their footsteps, the data obtained was collected and compiled. This computation gave a revelation of some startling facts about Murfreesboro's cat population, showing that the town boasts of seventy of these graceful quadrupeds, but they differ widely in age, complexion, and religion. Whether the credit is due the Sophmores or Freshmen for winning such widespread fame and publicity for Murfreesboro and her cats is a question. This event was published in practically every newspaper in the state and in many outside the State. The story figured prominently in the Baltimore Sun and Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, appearing on the front page in heavy type.

The Sophs are good sports too, and are willing to give credit where credit is due, and in this case they hand it to the Freshies. They were so completely won by the fine spirit shown by their victims that in appreciation for the excellent sportsmanship, they gave a weinie roast for them.

Sophomore week was a challenge to the class. The fact as revealed to them that they must step lively in order to keep pace with their predecessors. The Sophs proved themselves tactful task masters. The Freshies, in performing these tasks so admirably, proved themselves to be game sports. Their sense of humor, no doubt, was functioning profusely throughout the entire week, otherwise they would have suffered some severe jolts and much humiliation. The value of the quality of a sense of humor and a true spirit of sportsmanship which was manifested deserves strong emphasis.

MISS PETERSON WAS A WEEK-END GUEST

Miss Bertha Peterson of E. C. T. C. was the attractive week-end guest of Miss Mary Henry Lewis. After spending Friday and Saturday in Ahoskie with friends, Miss Peterson and Miss Lewis returned to the College, where Miss Peterson was the recipient of an enjoyable feast on Sunday night and a luncheon party on Monday.

The feast which was given by Miss Lewis was given in the faculty sewing room. The guests included the Omega Pies: Misses Fleetwood, Newbold, Peterson, Matthews, Morehead, Askew, Holt, Holloman; the guest of honor, Miss Bertha Peterson, and Misses Nancy Parker and Rosalie Tolar. During the evening delightful refreshments consisting of tomato asfec on lettuce, ham sandwiches, and coffee were served.

On Monday Miss Edna Gunn entertained Misses Lewis, Matthews, and Peterson at a luncheon party at Babb's.
