APRIL IN TRYON

Would you not be in Tryon
Now that the spring is here,
When mocking-birds are praising
The fresh, the blossom year?

Look—on the leafy carpet
Woven of winter's browns,
Iris and pink azaleas
Flutter their gaudy gowns.

The dogwood spreads white meshes—
So white and light and high—
To catch the drifting sunlight
Out of the cobalt sky.

The pointed beech and maple,
The pines, dark-tufted, tall,
Pattern with many colors
The mountain's purple wall.

Hark-what a rushing torrent
Of crystal song falls sheer!
Would you not be in Tryon
Now that the spring is here?
Harriet Monroe.

CAMPUS THROUGH THE KEYHOLE

Birds, bees, green trees, flowers, what better proof could you ask that it is spring once again? Although the old Sun has been trying to fool us, and even had his friend Snow come to visit us, we know he's just waiting and trying to make us think we're wrong.

Well, in the spring a young man's fancy—goes south with the birds' probably. From what I notice, we must be somewhere in the south!

This sort of weather makes you sleepy and confused—at least it seems so with one girl. She asked me whether Miss Louise K. Ruggles was related to Mary Jane! Probably sixteenth cousins, don't you think?

Now I saw some awfully pretty corsages around here Easter. After all, love must be worth something. But with some folks the theme song applies at Easter as at Christmas—"I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

What do you think of a girl who gets flowers from one boy and wears them (getting them crushed and broken) on a date with another? It's being done—just take my word for it.

You didn't know I could dance, did you? Neither did I! I can't. However, since practicing for May Day, several have thought about majoring in dancing, among them Beadie Helms, Mayme Newbern, Frances Jones, etc.

I was fooled the other night. I thought surely the building was on fire, and very nearly jumped out a window, after they made the new rule about dates leaving, those boys look as if they really have somewhere to go in a hurry at 9:40.

You've heard about roommate complex, haven't you? Well, two girls who room near me even fall for brothers. Frances Jones was making eyes at "Mike" Taylor the other day.

You didn't fall in the pond at the Jr. and Sr., did you? Its a good thing you didn't—you might have scared the fish out of a home.

I was mighty worried about a tall girl from Rocky Mount when she went to Washington, D. C., Easter Sunday. I was afraid there might be another Mrs. Williams in the telephone directory.

We are getting good. We will soon make the World's Fair if we keep on. From an announcement made the other day in the girl's dormitory. Mrs. Dionne's only got two ahead of us. Did you see those three little kittens? They were mighty cute.

Mr. Gilbert Davis said the other day that someday it would be Davis-Lawrence. How about it, Kate?

Helen Edwards made use of her Easter holidays, all right. She and Carl Jr., patched up an old quarrel and now, well, that's another effect of Spring, I suppose.

Remember Mildred Daniel? She was in town Sunday. She looked good, too.

Some of our boys had a large
