sponsored by the members of the different W. M. U.'s, of Northampton County, and was under the direction of Mrs. George Martin, of Conway. An executive committee, composed of Mesdames J. M. Edwards, R. V. Nelson, and Miss Reba Long, and assisted by Dr. McCulloch, Rev. J. H. Bunn, and Mrs. Taylor, planned the day's program.

Approximately 90 students and teachers were registered by Misses Kate Lawrence, Sarah Brickhouse, and Helen McDaniel. The following Northampton County Schools were represented: Seaboard, Seavern, Conway, Woodland, Jackson, and Rich Square; and the Hertford County Schools were represented by the local high school.

the principal of the Belford House School. Other pupils are: Helen Edwards, Mary Beale Liverman, and Jane Griffin.

Maxine Hudgins is well suited to her part, because she is assistant mistress and Gymnastic Instructor. Margaret Brett plays the part of the "American Girl's" aunt who is slightly eccentric. And Lloyd Moore takes the part of the maid of the "American Girl."

Other members of the Glee Club are school girls, too, and form the chorus for the operetta. Those doing solo work are: Louise Lassiter, Martha Seymour, Kate Lawrence, Lloyd Moore, Jane Griffin, Helen Edwards, and Mary Beale Liverman.

SENIORS LEARN "A B C's"

Even though the Senior Class of 1936 is leaving the walls of Chowan forever, would it not be wise to give them a last lesson in their "A. B. C.'s", as we characterize each member of the class alphabetically?

Merlee Asbell's letter is "A", and we have found that the word "amiable" truly characterizes Asbell for us.

Now three members of the class, wish to learn their "B's" first. We caught Elizabeth Brett giggling, so we decided to put her to work. Although Elizabeth has always been very conscientious in all of her work, she has found time to help some of the freshmen "Juliet's" find their "Romeos."

There goes Sarah Brickhouse with her giggles too! Bet she's just heard from Bill.

Because she was so busy admiring her diamond, Genevieve Brown didn't mind if she had to be third to learn her "B". Very quietly and patiently she goes to work.

Edith Rae Daughtry has finally finished eating her ice cream from Babb's, and is ready for "D". She reads continuously in the Library when she isn't too busy with her "dates."

The president of the Senior Class, Lou Wilson Evans, will not wait longer for her new task. Lou Wilson is very loquacious, however, this hasn't kept her from, well, filling her many offices during her years at Chowan.

The only boy in the class, Edwin Flythe, deserves a break since he has worked so hard to obtain the masculine right for his class.

Since Louise Lassiter worked so hard and made her piano recital such a grand success, we shall let her learn the first "L". We always know when Louise is around by her natural good humor.

Wait a minute, Kate, and let's let our May Queen Emily Lawrence use her brains as well as beauty. How many of us could forget Emily as we've seen her coming up the walk with her little "sun bonnet" on to keep off freckles?

Kate Lawrence must put her fun aside now and take her place with the "L's". Kate is a natural born mimic, even when it comes to "taking off" the faculty.

As luck would have it, Mary Beale stands beside Kate, and now she won't mind doing her part at all.

Helen McDaniel has at last awakened and if she isn't too sleepy we'll get her started on learning her "M." However small she is Helen steps right up and claims as many boy friends as any of the girls.

Now, now, Adeline McGregor, don't look so worried, you shall have the first card which has an "M" on it. Adeline seems to be rather popular with another "M" too, at the present.

Mayme Newburn must stop trying to help every body else and get busy on her own assignment. Mayme has certainly been faithful in her work this year, and her sympathetic understanding and unselfish ways will always be remembered by her class mates.

Since Edythe Pearce has such a habit of procrastinating, we put her off until now. Yet this has never prevented Edythe from being on time with the Chowanians.

"Cheer up girls, the worst is yet to be," says Marie Riddick, as she begins her memory work on her "R". We will remember Marie's readings with pleasure and also her love for athletics.

Ruth Stephenson has waited in a very dignified manner for her letter, which is "S". Ruth has had quite an extraordinary experience this year, which has been the privilege of presiding over two different student bodies. It is rather amusing that his nick name at Wake Forest should be "Student Body."

Sarah Storey already knew all the other letters down to "S", so we place her here. The word "studious" characterized Sarah indeed.

Inez Turner seems quite content to learn the last letter of the class.

She is a sure-enough "Book-Worm," and is very fond of nature.

By the way, don't let Sara's quietness fool you. She has so much electricity in her that a watch positively refuses to work on her arm.

CHEMISTRY CLASS HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

The Chowan College Chemistry class of '36 entertained Thursday afternoon, May 7, when they held open house for the Senior Class of Murfreesboro High School and the college freshman class.

Members of the Chemistry class under the direction of Professor Sara K. Liggett, conducted a series of experiments in scientific field of the college curriculum. The laboratory work was done by groups of two or more partners. Each group took as its project some simple experiment. For instance, one group created a vacuum by a systematic arrangement of bottles of water connected by glass tubes. Another group conducted a "flame test," that is, testing the effect of various metals over the flame of a Bunsen burner.

When the guests had observed the various chemical reactions, they were asked to register. For this purpose they were given a white sheet of paper and a white solution in which to dip the pen. Upon writing the names on the white paper, the guests were surprised to see that the hand writing turned green.

Between the hours of 2:30 to 3:30, when the open house was held, twelve High School Seniors accompanied by Miss Virginia Tate, professor of Science in the High School, and twenty-two college freshmen visited the laboratory.

tea to the Seniors and guests at the open house.

Well, even with exams staring you in the face, one must be cheerful. As Sally says, "The worst is yet to come!" Exams are pretty bad, but think of the nice vacation you'll have when they're all over.

!!!!!!

And no matter how we try, we can't stop June 2 from rolling around. That will be the bitter-sweet of the College year. Well, anyway it's my cue to sign off with "Hasta Leugo," and Good Luck.

GAELS DEFEAT GATES LOSE TO EDENTON

Chowan Gaels defeated Gates All Stars, on Chowan Athletic field 11-3 and lost a spectacular game to Edenton high 10-11 on Edenton field.

Piland on the home field mound proved very effective after a momentary weakness in the third inning, with the All Stars.

Lowe, hurling for the visitors, held the Gaels at bay until the fourth inning, when Freeman led a double to left field and was followed by Dudley's and Edward's single, netting three runs, checked the battery's stride.

After the fourth inning the Gaels scored at will, knocking two pitchers from the box, until the score was counting 10-3. Freeman climaxed the game with a three bagger, and made it in home when the other team errored.

The Gaels' galloping was checked when it met Edenton's undefeated Pirates at Edenton. Yet the game zig zagged throughout with both teams using two pitchers, Stephenson and Piland for Chowan, Spruer and Jordan for Edenton.

Hits at random for both teams led to 10-10 tie in the final inning. Due to an error played by Chowan's third baseman, Freeman, an Edenton victory was paved in the extra inning played.

Mrs. A. C. Matthews of Gates attended the tea given by the Science club in honor of the Senior Class on Friday, May 15.

Among the alumnae and former students who visited the college recently were: Misses Curtis Leigh Jones, Lois Jenkins, Deborah Mitchell, Emma Gay Stephenson, Doris Lawrence, Frances Ferguson, Cora Felton Bass and Arrah Snipes.
