

New Frontiers . . .

For all American students, the "order of the day" must be FORWARD . . . to new frontiers of knowledge and achievement and personal self-fulfillment . . . to recognition of our individual responsibility for the national strength, and the security of our family. The conquest of new frontiers begins with every student in every school and college. It is sparked by hard work . . . faith in God, our family, ourselves, and our democracy. Only through such dedication by each of us will we be rewarded by a meaningful way of life.
