

GIRL OF MANY TALENTS IN SPORTS—Betty Louise Weaver, 19-year-old Chowan student, excels in sports usually confined to boys . . . football, basketball, track and tennis.

Football, Basketball, Tennis, Betty Weaver Excels in All Sports

Betty Louise Weaver, a 19-year-old freshman at Chowan College here, should have been a boy, according to her athletic ability.

But she obviously isn't, although she can out-perform many boys in the field of athletics.

Betty, 5-10 brown-eyed brunette with an infectious grin, is an all-round athlete, and all girl.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Weaver of Vaughan, near Littleton, Betty, by her own admission, was a "tomboy" all through her girlhood, climbing trees, playing football and baseball . . . in fact as rough as they come.

"A group of us girls used to play a group of boys in football and we never lost a game," she said.

She still plays football, not with boys now, but with the Chowan College girls powder puff team.

Family Members Make Contribution

John W. White of Aulander, who recently contributed a set of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica to Chowan College in memory of his father, the late Royal Edward White, has notified the college that other family members joining him in making this contribution to the college's library include Mrs. Ethel E. White and Robert Early White.

Memorial pages have been affixed to the inside cover of each volume by college librarians and Dr. Bruce E. Whitaker, Chowan's president, in acknowledging receipt of the gift, commented, "I hope that this set of Britannica will prove to be meaningful and helpful both to students and faculty."

Last fall she quarterbacked the freshman girls team and passed for a touchdown in the annual powder puff bowl.

Agile as a cat, or rather a kitten, she can run 100 yards in just over 11 seconds, a feat most boys can't do.

Betty played five years of basketball at Littleton High School and was a starter the last four.

She made the all-Roanoke Conference team three years straight and was All East her last two years. She was voted the most outstanding girl athlete at Littleton High in 1966.

Betty likes all sports and actively engages in all of them she can.

At Chowan she is currently the high scoring forward on the girls basketball team. She also plays volleyball, and will be a member of the girls tennis team which is being organized. She has shown considerable tennis potential although she has never before played the game.

Her activities have cost. She has sustained four nose fractures, fractures of each arm and one foot, all while playing basketball. That should be a clue to just how rough she is in athletics.

Since coming to Chowan last September, Betty has gained the nickname of "Bool Weevil" by fellow students who pronounce her first and last names rapidly.

Her father is a police officer and her mother is a nurse.

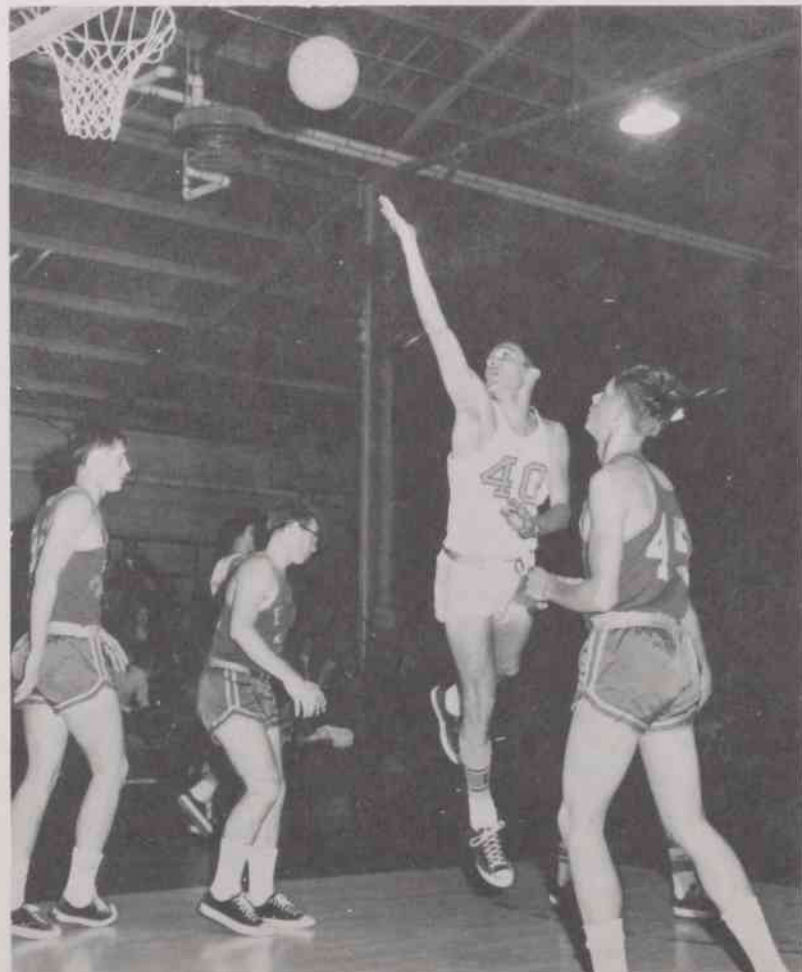

There is a young sister, Jeanette, 15, who plays basketball at Littleton, "but she isn't very athletic," says Betty.

Betty's ambition is a natural one, to teach physical education on the high school level after getting her college degree.

Want to bet she won't achieve that ambition? She's quite a girl.

GET OFF MY BACK!—Eddie Martin, Chowan cage star, seems to be using the shoulders of an East Carolina freshman player to score two points for the Braves in a recent home basketball contest.

FIELD GOAL FOR THE BRAVES—Sandy Sanderson scores a shot for Chowan in a close battle with ECC frosh. The squad lost the battle 68-67.
