News of the BSU

By BECKY O'NEAL

Well, second semester is well on its way, and soon sophomores (and others) will be leaving Chowan to continue their education or work. However, there is a lot of activity planned before then, concerts, socials, and plays. Keep your eyes and ears open! ! !

As for BSU, our next event is the Missions Conference at Wake Forest Seminary, Feb. 17-19. Registration will be $1.00 and your spending money. Missionaries on furlough, a film, a drama presentoin and workers in such fields as the Peace Corps will be available to talk to. Anyone interested see me or Dr. Taylor. Some of us remember from last year the writing on the shade in one of the homes we stayed! ! You'll enjoy going and meeting interesting people.

The BSU building finally got a bulletin board, and we're grateful to those who made it possible. A display will always be up — stop in and see it. Just a reminder to all who study at the BSU building — we're glad you are there and can study, but please keep the feet off the furniture and the butts off the floor, etc. Thanks a lot! ! !

We're sorry about the film "The Parable" not being shown on campus due to technical difficulties. It was shown Jan. 15 at Murfreesboro Baptist Church. We watched it, then had some discussion and watched it again, to try and see the things each missed the first time. It's interesting and will make you think through each one's interpretation is different. You missed a good film and discussion if you weren't there.

March will be busy for BSU'ers as Religious Emphasis Week will be held on March 13-17. Our main speaker, who is from Texas, now resides as Chairman of Discussion of Language and Literature at St. Andrews College. He is Dr. W. D. White, who has a Ph-D in English and Religion and has studied at Baylor and Princeton. Another guest will be Charles "Charlie Weaver" Webster Director of College Relation at N. C. State. He's been very active in many things and one can really get a good conversation going with him, I know this as fact as he's lead many conferences I've attended. You'll all like him, I'm sure. Students will head each committee with one or two members on each. We hope all will cooperate and try their best to make our guest feel welcome and at home.

Study hard as another vacation, Easter, will be soon.
