

Special day set for RAs, church youth

The annual "Royal Ambassador 'See Chowan College' Day" — sponsored jointly by the Brotherhood Department, Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, and Chowan College — has been scheduled for Saturday, September 17, 10:00 A.M., in Robert Marks Hall amphitheater.

Invitations to the occasion have been extended in scope to include any church youth, as well as those boys and young men who are members of Royal Ambassador units in the local churches. Pastors, Royal Ambassador counselors, and youth workers in Baptist churches throughout eastern North Carolina are encouraged to promote the event among those with whom they minister.

Participants in the "Royal Ambassador/Church Youth Day" should arrive for registration by 10:00 A.M. on September 17. Thereafter, the group will assemble for worship, fellowship, and an inspirational message related to particular needs/concerns of church youth. Following lunch in the college cafeteria, all youth and their counselors/chaperones will attend an afternoon football game with the Chowan College Braves hosting their football rivals from Hudson Valley Community College, Troy, New York. Each participant will be charged a fee of $4.00 to cover the cost of programming and meal.

"Each pastor in the region will receive more specific information regarding Royal Ambassador/Church Youth Day in early August," notes Chowan's Chaplain Taylor, who is local campus coordinator for the event. "Meanwhile, it is the hope of the college administration and the coaching staff that early plans can be made to have good representation from many of the churches in eastern North Carolina as we observe this special youth-oriented event in mid-September."

50th Anniversary

Celebrating their 50th Anniversary during the recent Spring Festival weekend was the Class of 1933. The group returned to the campus to reminisce about their "college days" and to renew friendships. Members returning were Nellis Sample Mercer, Rhodes Holder Pratt, Doris Lawrence Stephenson, and Maywood Modlin Scarborough.

The Chowanian salutes these ladies for their love and support of Chowan College over the years.

Expressing appreciation for services

Mark Krautheim, head resident of West Hall, receives a monogrammed mug and congratulations for a job well done from Dean of Students Clayton Lewis. Krautheim, who also served as an assistant football coach, has resigned to accept a similar position at the University of Tennessee. Dean Lewis expressed "appreciation and gratitude" to Krautheim "for a job well done during his three-year tenure of service at Chowan College, both in the area of Student Development and as an assistant coach of football. He served professionally and well."

Alumnus assembly speaker

M. Marvin Daugherty, right, alumnus, Class of 1970, with degrees from East Carolina University and North Texas State University (Masters), spoke in assembly in April. Dean of Students Clayton Lewis, left, and Director of Development E. Vincent Tilson look at the 1970 edition of the college yearbook when Daugherty was a student at Chowan. Daugherty is now public information director at Beaufort County Community College.

"Baptist Bonds" assist needy Baptist students

The "Baptist Bond" program enabled forty-nine (49) Baptist students to receive initial financial assistance towards meeting the cost of their college education at Chowan during 1987-88.

Initiated during the current school year as an additional means whereby the college could "strengthen Baptist ties with churches affiliated with the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina," information about the Baptist Bond is made available — periodically — to each pastor of a Baptist church in friendly cooperation with the Convention and its work.

Assistance for Two Years

This instrument provides that financial assistance up to the sum of $600 may be awarded to students affiliated with North Carolina Baptist churches who elect to attend Chowan for up to two years.

The terms and conditions of the "bond agreement" provide for the awarding of $100 per semester for four regular semesters, with an additional $100 per semester in the sophomore year for those students who maintain a minimum of a "C" average on all work attempted. To be in force, the bond must be signed on behalf of the student by the local church pastor, the President of the College, and the Director of Admissions.

Many Churches Represented

Pastors who signed the bond agreement on behalf of a student who subsequently enrolled at Chowan College represented forty-two (42) different churches, affiliated with seventeen (17) of the State's eighty district associations. Among those associations represented were: Atlantic, Chowan, Columbus, Dan Valley, Eastern, Haywood, Johnston, Montgomery, Mt. Zion, New South River, North Roanoke, Pee Dee, Raleigh, Sandy Creek, South Roanoke, West Chowan, and Yates.

Expressing Appreciation

Chowan College offers such financial incentive as that available through the "Baptist Bond" agreement as a means of expressing appreciation to the churches for their financial assistance through the Cooperative Program. It is hoped that more and more applicants from Baptist churches may be attracted to the college through such assistance.

MRS. ALVA BOWLING PARKER

Death claims Mrs. Alva Parker

Mrs. Alva Bowling Parker, 70, former Chowan staff member, died April 12 in a hospital. She was the widow of David L. Parker, Jr., and a Methodist.

She began her service at Chowan in September 1962 as a "house mother," and director of the student union, post office, and bookstore. She served most of her 24 years at the college as bookstore manager.

During a graveside service, the Rev. Thomas Caulkins, pastor of Murfreesboro Baptist Church, noted, "Through the years students and others at Chowan and in the larger community have benefitted from her caring and concern. They were recipients of her kindness without any fanfare or expectation of reward."

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Alberta B. Gibson of Cheshire, Conn.; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Christy Hill of Durham; a stepson, David L. Parker, III, of Beaufort; two grandchildren and two stepgrandchildren.

"Baptist Bonds" provide financial assistance.
