There will be an extra good program at the Gem tonight. You can see the inauguration of President Taft without any danger of getting pneumonia. This is a fine panoramic view of the ceremonies in Washington this year. A Day in Washington will be a fine panoramic view of the National Capital, and in the Vampires of the Coast you will see some of the loveliest scenery that has ever been shown here. These pictures are hand-colored, and most romantic. The Gem orchestra will play tonight. HE WON'T DO IT ANY MORE. To show a number of his friends exactly and the most approved way of taking an 11-inch turtle from a trap, John Westley, colored, undertook an experiment in a kite ten miles down the river yesterday, and began by taking the turtle out of the box head first, etc., and without the least hesitation; just as easy, it was, - one only had to know how. John learned a thing or two himself, expert though he is. The turtle was of the snapping variety, and seized the finger which John unwittingly thrust against his head with an evident determination not to turn loose until it thumped. John's friends hacked at the reptile's neck with a knife while John did a very good imitation of Salome and had to be held to keep him from jumping overboard. The turtle was finally persuaded to turn loose, but John was in a sore predicament, and turpentine was freely administered. John now wears a bandage, and won't work for a week. He won't trap turtles for an even longer time.

TWO WHITE GIRLS ATTACKED. Negro Assailant Was Pursued by Posse of Men and Captured.

Stateville, N. C., Sept. 23. - Henry Gibbs, a young negro, was placed in jail here late this afternoon, charged with the serious offense of attempting to criminally assault two white girls near Elmwood, nine miles east of Stateville, this morning between 8 and 9 o'clock. The girls tell a thrilling story of their experience with the negro, and the negro practically admits his guilt. It will go hard with him in the courts. The outrageous occurrence took place in a large tract of woods about a mile east of Elmwood. The negro accosted the twin daughters of Mr. W. K. Fleming, aged 13 years, and after making improper proposals to them seized a stick and attempted to lay hands on one of them, running her a short distance. The girls screamed for help and ran to their home some distance away, while the negro left the community in great haste, but was captured just before noon at a point about three miles east of Stateville by a posse of young men on horseback. The negro was taken back to Elmwood and given a hearing before Justice G. F. Shepherd, who sent him to jail in default of bonds. While the affair caused considerable excitement in the Elmwood community there was no attempt to do the negro personal injury. Mr. Fleming, the father of the young ladies involved by the negro, lives just across the line in Rowan county, and his daughters were on their way to Elmwood to deliver a basket of butter when they met the negro in the woods.
