Cleaning Streets Now a Farce

The News believes it is a rule for the city to sweep and clean that part of Main street which is paved Saturday nights, in order for it to be more attractive and slightly Sundays. If the work of cleaning for the past few weeks is a sample, then the city has made a sad failure. Yesterday the dirt and filth seen on the paving was simply a disgrace. Some pretension was made the night before toward cleaning, but it was not half done. Another thing, when this street is being swept would it not be good policy to use the street sprinkler in connection therewith. Pedestrians walking the street get full of dust when the sprinkler could prevent it. The city has the apparatus for cleaning and sweeping the streets and there is no excuse for it not being done properly and as it should be.

City of St. Louis is Celebrating

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 4.—With the firing of salutes, the ringing of bells and the blowing of thousands of whistles of the mills, factories, railroads and steamboats, the centennial birthday party of the City of St. Louis, which will be celebrated throughout the week, was begun in earnest this morning. Thousands of visitors are in the city and every arriving train is adding to the crowds. The decorations and illuminations are the most elaborate ever seen here.

The chief feature of today's program was the balloon races, which attracted enormous crowds of sightseers to the starting place in the west end of the city. Two distance races were scheduled for the day, one for small spherical balloons, limited to 40,000 feet capacity, and the other for large spherical balloons, limited to 50,000 feet capacity.
