WASHINGTON, N. C., OCT. 5.

LET THE NEWS FOLLOW.

Parties leaving town should not fail to let the News follow them daily with the news of Washington fresh and crisp. It will be a valuable companion, reading to you like a letter from home.

MUST BE SIGNED. All articles sent to the News for publication must be signed by the writer, otherwise they will not be published.

SHOULD BE COMMENDED.

The action of the city aldermen last night to erect an additional story on the fire engine house abutting the city hall, should receive nothing but commendation from the citizens, for it is a move in the right direction and has been a long felt want.

In constructing this second story, the aldermen not only have in mind economy, but convenience as well. That it will work both is easily seen.

When completed it will be utilized as offices for the city clerk, the superintendent of the electric light plant, and also as a storage room for electrical fixtures. By doing this, the city places the business separate and apart from the city auditorium where the mayor tries cases, and, too, it relieves the city of heavy rents.

The aldermen claim that in erecting this new story the saving of rent will pay for the outlay within seven years.

They have made a move in the right direction and the News hastens to commend them for their action.

Why the structure was not made two stories in the beginning showed poor business judgment, for it was essential at the very outset.

The city clerk certainly needs a private office. Only last Saturday when the mayor was engaged in trying a case, a lady called to pay her taxes, but had to leave, due to the fact that the trial was in progress and the cause could not be interfered with.

The Daily News believes every taxpayer in the city will have no cause to grumble at this action of the aldermen.

SHOULD INCLUDE THIS CITY.

"New knitting mill for Canton. New mill for Wadesboro." "Thomasville to have ten new mills." "Durham working on 50,000 spindle mill." "High Point plans new mill."

Such are the large statements carried in the day's press dispatches. Despite the unfavorable conditions prevailing in the markets, capitalists appear to have an abiding faith in the future of the textile industry and are willing to invest freely.

North Carolina is leading all the States in new mill construction work.—Charlotte News.

Why can't Washington add its name to the list? While North Carolina is leading all the States in new mills, Washington lags behind.

We can never hope to grow as we should until more manufacturing industries are planted. We had just as well look the facts square in the face. Without some backing other than that already here we are doomed.

Let's resolve to get a move on us.

MANY UNFITTED.

It is reported that naturalization was refused to 2,667 aliens last year, a material increase over the rejection of intending citizens during the preceding year. This showing, not a very large or significant one, will probably be regarded with complacency by all except those rejected.

Judging from the reports in the daily newspapers, many persons present themselves for naturalization who are quite distinctly unfitted to become citizens of the United States, and it is not to be wondered at that the courts refuse them the privilege of citizenship. No harm will be done by applying a sifting process to those who apply for the status of citizenship, and there will be little fault found if the process is made strict so as to avoid the incorporation into the body politic of ignorant persons or of those ill-affected toward the conceptions of citizenship which are held by the great body of the people of the country.

NO BOUNTIES FOR BABIES.

We are against race suicide but we give no bounty on babies. A Louisiana woman, the mother of ten sons, wrote a letter to the War Department the other day reciting the additions she has made to the population of the United States and inquiring if any bounty would be paid in consequence. The department gravely replied that while she is to be commended the government cannot pay her a bounty.

It is not recorded how this mother received the discouraging news. Perhaps she will become an apostle of race suicide if motherhood is not to be rewarded by bounties. It may be that she will be guided by the same feeling that animated a mother in a nearby town who had eleven children. She took them all to the studio of a photographer and asked the artist: "How much do you charge for photographing children?"

"Two dollars a dozen, madam," was the reply.

"She said: 'I have only eleven and will have to come back next year.'" News and Observer.

The Raleigh correspondent to the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot writes the following in response to the recent visit of Hon. J. W. Joyner to this county:

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Joyner has returned from Beaufort county, where he made six speeches, three of these in the interest of local tax for county schools. He says the crops in that county are magnificent and it is one of the finest farming regions he ever saw in all his life. He traveled through thousands of acres of corn which will yield 60 bushels to the acre and of cotton which is yielding 500 to 700 pounds of lint. Both in Beaufort and Hyde counties the crops are very fine this year.

Certainly he saw the finest farming lands in the State, the prettiest women and the best men on earth. He got a sample of what the good women know about cooking—at Bath he was assigned to the head of the table, and that he did full justice to the delicacies is needless to mention. When the State Superintendent was in Beaufort county he beheld God's country. Here we boast of the young men of this commonwealth. We are good farmers, fair business men and possess a bravery no one can question. Our slogan is a "Quid pro quo." Beaufort county was glad to have Mr. Joyner and a welcome is his always. His visit did our people much good, and his speeches—in the interest of education were sown in good ground. Come again.

A CREDITABLE PAPER.

The Morning Star, of Wilmington, comes to us in enlarged form, with the name of Robert Gray, formerly of Raleigh, N. C., as editor in chief.

Our old friend, the Star, has taken on new life under the new management, both as to news and makeup. The salutatory of the new editor shows that the is an old hand at the wheel. His work on the News and Observer, as associate editor, several years ago, was one of credit and merit, and his going to Wilmington is an omen of success for the new management. The paper is to be congratulated on securing his valued services. He is a power as a writer and thinker.

to the J. H. Simmons Marble and Granite Company's shop yesterday, and was agreeably surprised. The work this firm is now turning out would do credit to a city the size of Baltimore. They have just completed two pieces of statuary never surpassed in this city and this paper doubts if it has been equalled in the State. A sculptor from Paris does this fine work and he certainly is an artist. It would pay the citizens to visit this up-to-date marble yard.

campaign for reelection with a series of speeches on the tariff.

Adolph O. Eberhart, the successor of the late Governor Johnson, is the first Republican executive Minnesota has had since 1904.

Eugene W. Chaffin, Prohibition candidate for President of the United States in 1908, predicts that Chicago will be without saloons two years hence.

Thomas Morris of La Crosse, a member of the Wisconsin senate, is said to be the choice of the La Follette element of the Republican party in that State for governor.

United States Senator Dick of Ohio has come out a strong supporter of the primary election of United States Senators and will submit his candidacy for reelection to primary vote.

Governor Deneen has decided to call an extraordinary session of the Illinois general assembly on November 16 to deal with primary election legislation and the deep waterways proposition.

Maryland Democrats, who are making a hard fight for the disfranchisement amendment, have asked Ex-Governor Vardaman of Mississippi, Senator Stone of Missouri, Senator Culberson of Texas, and other prominent Southern politicians to aid in the campaign.

The Prohibitionists of Missouri, defeated in their attempt to force State-wide prohibition by legislative enactment, will resort to the initiative and referendum law. The party leaders appear confident that Missouri will join the list of prohibition States next year.

The recent mortality among governors of States has been striking. Since the beginning of the year Governors John A. Johnson of Minnesota, Samuel G. Cosgrove of Washington, George L. Lilley of Connecticut and John Sparks of Nevada, have passed away. This extraordinary number of gubernatorial deaths within such a short period of time is believed to be without precedent.

Otto T. Barnard, the Republican candidate for mayor of New York, was born in Brooklyn in 1854, graduated from Yale in 1876 and from Columbia Law School in 1878. He practiced law a few years and then went into commercial lines. In 1893 he was made president of the Continental Trust Company and is now president of the New York Trust Company. He is also a director in many large corporations.

James Hamilton Lewis, who wants to be the next mayor of Chicago, has had a varied career, in politics. A Southerner by birth and education, he removed to the State of Washington in 1856 and in 1892 was a candidate for governor. He served one term in Congress and was unsuccessful as a candidate for the Senate. In 1900 he was a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination before the Democratic convention at Kansas City. Since 1902 Mr. Lewis has resided in Chicago.
