LET THE NEWS FOLLOW.

Parties leaving town should not fail to let the news follow them. With the news of Washington fresh and crisp, it will prove a valuable companion, reading to you like a letter from home.

MUST BE SIGNED. All articles sent to The News for publication must be signed by the writer, otherwise they will not be published.

PRAYER AND REVIVAL.

There is both a historical and a logical connection between prayer and revivals of pure and unadorned religion.

As a matter of history every great revival from Pentecost to the present day has been preceded and prepared for by earnest prayer on the part of God's people.

The historical union between these two things grows out of a deeper logical connection, an inward and vital relation. A genuine revival is a work of God, and the energies of God are released only in response to prayer.

The Ministers' Union, therefore, requests the devout Christian people of our city, irrespective of church affiliation, to unite with them in earnest prayer that we may have such a genuine outpouring of the Holy Ghost during this meeting that men may know that God hath again visited His people.

The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. Ask and ye shall receive.

READ AND LEARN.

You who are interested in the Hyde county railroad read and learn what other folk do to promote their sections.

Eagle Pass, Texas, is in Maverick county. It is on the Southern Pacific railroad. This city offers a bonus of $50,000 and right-of-way through their county to any construction company that will build a railroad from Eagle Pass to Arkansas Pass Harbor, a distance of two hundred miles.

The citizens of Eagle Pass also offers a bonus of $50,000 and right-of-way through Maverick county for a railroad running north, and connecting with the Southern Pacific at Angelo, Texas, a distance of one hundred and sixty miles.

We do not know the size of Eagle Pass, though the census of 1900 gives Maverick county 4,974 souls. However, we know it takes grit to make such offers as that, it also takes grit to build towns, for no town was ever rapidly built unless its citizens took great responsibility, great risk to forward it.

I venture to say agriculturally, Maverick county is not an equal of Beaufort county, and we all know it is hundreds, yes a thousand miles further from the best markets of the world.

With us, when opportunities knock at our door we may hear, but do not prepare ourselves to welcome those opportunities. We wait until they start somewhere else before we appreciate our error. Don't let us do this again.

Opportunity is now knocking to bring the Hyde county railroad through Bath township.

Bath township is working. The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce is working, but somewhere there is lack of interest, lack of enthusiasm, the cause of which should be found, and there good to find this trouble.

As in a large assembly of our citizens, where each speaks out his mind. Once located, we can adjust. Once adjusted old Beaufort machinery will start. Once properly started, ld Beaufort can accomplish wonders.

It only takes the coming together and centering ourselves upon one way to accomplish our aim, but if you think it should be done one way, and we think it should be done another, we are likely to work in opposition to each other; therefore, let's get together and find the best method to follow.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

"THAT REMINDS ME."

Baggs and Jaggs met, and Baggs and Jaggs got yarning.

"I once knew a man, dear boy," began Baggs, "who was so ticklish on the bottoms of his feet that whenever he took a bath he had to walk about afterwards on a blotter. It was the only method of 'not-drying' that wouldn't throw him into dis."

"That's nothing, my dear fellow," retorted Jaggs. "I used to board at a place where the landlady was so nervous that whenever the wind blew she had to go out and grease the corners of the house, so the wind wouldn't cross when it went round them."

And then Jaggs went bitterly for he had long held the championship and was loath to relinquish it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

WOMEN WHO ARE MAKING GOOD ON THE FARM.

The 779,955 girls and women who have renounced husbands for husbandry, already have grasped a big share of the $3,000,000,000 crop of the United States. According to the Kate Crockett, in the Woman's World for September, the woman farmer now is a factor to be reckoned with.

With what was a broken down cotton farm during her husband's lifetime one woman has made on tea $200 an acre she says. And in hundreds of other instances women who have begun to handle the business end of farming are making it pay marvelously. Many take up other specialties, such as violets, roses, or fine vegetables for special markets. Some have peony or carnation farms. Then there are cattle ranches, hog ranches, pigeon coops, dog kennels, catteries—an infinite number of good occupations in which women may excel.

And on the women's farms there will be telephones, graphophones, books, bath tubs and other mitigations of the isolated life.

Mrs. Clara Ellsworth, of South Carolina, was left a few years ago, a widow, with three children," she relates. "She had a cotton farm. But the profits were small, and she almost made up her mind to give up the fight, move into town and keep a boarding-house. This idea was objected to it, too. Mrs. Ellsworth decided to stay and to try a new plan. She visited the tea gardens at Princehurst, and was shown the secrets of tea raising by Dr. Shepard. Then she went home to have it out with her farm. For the first three years she did not reduce her cotton crop, but used only her surplus land for tea. From the plants in the second year she gathered and sold a little more than fifty pounds to the acre. She was out of pocket change, but not at all discouraged, for she knew the heaviest expense had already been paid.

She preserved, and now has tea acres in bearing tea plants. The plants become more valuable each year, and require less work, which makes the crop an excellent one for a woman to undertake; but, of course, a necessity is well drained land, rich soil, and a climate which does not fall to low 20 degrees.

"Women are going into farming as never before. In the old way, it was the man who had the rigor of the game," and the women who waited.

on the men while they played it. The rest of the life was for the men, and the women patched their clothes and wore their down-at-the-heel shoes, and at night wrestled in prayer as to whether they ought to ask 'pa' for a new calico frock. Now they are going into business for themselves. It is they who are playing the game. It is they who have the responsibility—a very entertaining thing, responsibility, by the way!—they who pay the bills, reap the profits and spend the money as they please. Among the successful coffee planters is Mrs. Jang P. Baird, of Vera Cruz, Mexico. It takes five years to derive profit from coffee raising, and this, Mrs. Baird says, keep many from going into the business. Mrs. Baird even places her coffee in the hands of a man middleman. Among the stock raisers of the country is Mrs. Katherine Pearson, of Phoenix, Ariz. Her 200-acre farm there yields a net annual profit of $2,000 and is the largest feeding ranch in America. She has now started a farm near Havana, Cuba.

"It is quite common for women to take up government claims, but of the great company of those who have essayed this, few equal in courage or initiative the three Creutz sisters of Colorado. They lived down Lost Creek, way and are orphans. When their parents were taken from them they were mere children—the eldest not sixteen. They were all but destitute, but they had a love of adventure, and were not afraid to test fortune. They took up 100 acres and built a shanty, planted corn themselves and raised a good crop, which they marketed, and by living in strict economy put up a three-room cottage, bought a horse and went on farming. At the end of four years they have found themselves able to buy an additional 100 acres from the government. This is partly timbered, and they get their fuel from it. They now have a home supplied with the necessities, good farming implements, horses, cattle, chickens, and other farm animals, and rank among the leading farmers of the community for industry, thrift, ingenuity and steadiness.

Don't Complain. Don't kick because you have to button your wife's waist. Be glad your wife has a waist and doubly glad you have a wife to button a waist for. Some men's wives have no waists to button. Some men's wives' waists have no buttons on to button. Some men's wives who have waists with buttons on to button don't care a continental whether they are buttoned or not. Some men don't have any wives with buttons on to button any more than a rabbit.

WITH A RESERVATION.

The Butler Said—Everything was All Right, But—The late depression we have had in the financial world caused a friend of mine to be much worried. He went to his physician, who advised him to take a rest.

"Now, Charlie," he said, "you must stop smoking and excitement of all kinds; in fact, you must keep yourself entirely by yourself; receive no mail, read no letters and get no news from the outside world. Go away, sir, for a month."

My friend did this and was much improved. Returning home he met his butler at the station and said:

"James, how is everything at home?"

"Yes, sir; everything is all right, sir. Purty good."

"Anything happen while I was away?"

"No, sir; everything is all right—except your dog, sir."

"My dog?"

"Your dog, sir."

"What happened to him?"

"He's dead."

"Yes, sir."

"What did he die of?"

"I don't know, sir. I think it was from eating burnt horse flesh, sir."

"Burnt horse flesh? Why, how did that happen?"

"Well, I don't know, sir. I think it was from the barn, sir."

"The barn?"

"Yes, sir. The barn burned down, sir."
