STATE NEWS

Condensed Items of Interest Happening Throughout the State.

We learn that it is quite probable that a weaving plant will be erected by the Wilson cotton mills. The mill recently placed an order for new machinery to the amount of about $5,000 and will on its installation, make a finer quality of yarns.—Wilson Times

The Propat Contracting Company has brought suit against the Seaboard Air Line for $1,380.46 alleged to be due for work done in preparing a stretch of road for the laying of a railroad track near Millbrook, in this State. The contract, it is claimed, was entered into in 1917, while the work was completed September 14 of that year.—Charlotte Observer.

In the penitentiary there were today only 706 convicts; the smallest number in the past 40 years. Very few convicts have been sent in during the autumn. The penitentiary authorities will have to expend about $6,000 in improvements at the State farm on Roanoke river and on new stables there, and will have to sell about 40 old mules and buy younger ones.—Raleigh correspondence.

Cabarrus county has the right sort of a bird law. For each bird killed before December 1, 1910, a fine of $100 is to be imposed, one half to go to the school fund and one half to the informer. The violator of the law need not be caught shooting the birds. If he is found with a bird in his possession, he must pay for it—and partridges at $100 each are rather high, even in these times of high living.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Considerable excitement was created yesterday morning in the vicinity of Duffy Town by Clarence Williams and his wife, colored, two inhabitants of that locality engaging in a fistcut encounter. Williams was cut several times with a pair of scissors while the woman's hand was severely cut by breaking a pane of glass in an effort to escape. They were arrested and tried before Mayor McCarthy yesterday evening, who fined them two dollars and cost each.—New Bern Journal.

The fire department has received the new Kanawha combination hose and chemical wagon for the station at corner of Sixth and Castle streets and the apparatus will be ready for service within a few days. This wagon is in exchange for a lighter one shipped back to the factory by the department some time ago. The new apparatus is a two-horse cart and weighs 2,700 pounds light and 3,500 pounds fully equipped. It has a capacity for carrying 500 feet of fire hose and 200 feet of chemical hose, and has one large tank which is operated by means of compressed air. The fire-fighters at the Sixth and Castle station are proud of their new apparatus, which adds to the equipment of the fire department.—Morning Star.

Secretary Kerr of the board of trade has taken up with the Southern Railway the matter of operating "shopping trains" once a week on the Murphy division and between Asheville and Black Mountain. It is stated that the people living on the road to Salisbury feel keenly the loss of the train which ran to Bluemont in the late afternoon and returned to Asheville next morning, and in default of a daily train which shall leave Asheville for Bluemont and Black Mountain Friday evening and return from destination next morning to Asheville. Such a train would enable the people on the route to come to the city shopping Saturday morning and return in the afternoon or they could come Friday afternoon on No. 11 and return by the "shopping train."—Asheville Citizen.

A special meeting of the Guilford County Medical Society will be held in this city Friday afternoon for the purpose of taking some official action in regard to the recent prosecutions of physicians for giving whisky prescriptions to patients and ascertaining just what the rights of the doctor is in giving a prescription to either a patient or himself. The physicians of the city are thoroughly aroused over the recent action of the city authorities and the method used in procuring evidence against member of the society, and at the meeting Friday a resolution condemning this action and expressing the indignation of the society at the indignity imposed upon the profession will be presented. For the purpose of ascertaining just what the legal rights of the physician is in giving prescriptions to either a patient or himself, the society has employed counsel to meet with them and advise as to the proper legal proceedings to be taken in having the matter thoroughly tested in the courts.—Greensboro News.

ODDITIES IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

A Western court fined a man $2 for disturbing the peace. He had shot up a town and killed four men. In New Bedford, where the cows are allowed to roam at will, one of the cows has become not only an adept at opening front gates, but she has learned to turn a hydrant cock so as to get a drink. In Bowdoinham, Maine, there is a woman's club whose members meet on the banks of the Cathance river every Monday morning to do their washing. A stove is set up near the shore, and while the clothes are being boiled the club members exchange the news of the day.

PAPUAN TREE HOUSES.

Cool and Clean, but not Built for Some Nambullists.

The famous tree houses of Papua are rapidly disappearing before the march of civilization and settlement in the colony.

The tree house—a neat and well built habitation, placed at an enormous height among the branches of a forest tree and reached only by a swinging ladder—was primarily intended as a refuge from enemies. Now, however, that the Government has brought the wild tribes under control the native prefers to live in a house that demands less skill in construction.

There are still many tree houses to be seen, though few or none are being built. In the northwestern district of Papua (where much valuable sugar, rubber and coconut land lies ready for taking up) the Government officials often sleep at night in the house of some hospitable village constable, who draws his ladder up at sundown to a doortop eighty feet high in the air.

These tree houses are exceedingly cool, clean and picturesque with the roofs of native made thatch and walls and floors of wattled boughs.

The Florida Guava.
Florida produces a great variety of the choicest fruits, but it never was famous for apples or peaches. However, there is the guava, concerning which little is known outside of that state, but which is an excellent substitute for either of the above-mentioned fruits, and actually seems to possess qualities of each.

The cultivated guava shrub or tree grows to a height of about twenty feet, and the size of the fruit varies between that of a small hen's egg and a large lemon. The skin is smooth, and the inside resembles the pulp of a tomato, except for the seeds, which are generally very hard. Several crops may be raised every year, the winter fruit being more tart than that which ripens in the summer months; but the between-seasons fruit is especially fine for jelly-making.

It is most unfortunate that the guava is a fruit of such a perishable nature that it appears an impossibility to ship it any great distance—the delicious red variety often crushing into a mush when carried for two or three miles in a farm wagon. For that reason it is very doubtful whether the tropical product, which should occupy a prominent place on the housewife's list, will ever gain the wide popularity that it justly deserves.

Our Great American Astronomer.
Prof. Simon Newcomb, the celebrated astronomer, who has just been decorated by the Kaiser, is the first American official to receive a foreign decoration of any kind in eight years. This order is but one of many that the distinguished American scientist has had conferred upon him by foreign rulers. He is an officer of the Legion of Honor, and he is the first native American to be made an associate of the Institute of France since Franklin. He has received exalted degrees from ten European universities, is a member of about thirty foreign societies, and has received five medals from abroad. Recently the Car ordered his portrait painted for the Imperial University of Russia, and both the Imperial University of Japan and the Imperial Observatory of Russia have presented him with handsome cases in recognition of his position in the world of discovery, of his scientific achievements, and of his contributions to science as a result of his wonderful experiments in the motions and phenomena of the heavenly bodies.

An Herb That Tames a Tiger.
Most people are familiar with the effect that catnip has upon Miss Pussy, and know how she will tear open a paper filled with it, scatter it about, and roll and rub her head and sides in it, apparently delighted with its fragrance. Mr. C. William Beebe, a delightful writer and student of animals, has found by experience that this pungent herb has exactly the same effect upon a jaguar, tiger, lion, and leopard. A snarling leopard, after sniffing the catnip, will come close to the bars of his cage and follow back and forth the one who holds it, purring the while, and finally settling down and showing every sign of delight.—Selected.

Correct Answer.
"This," said a teacher to her class of arithmeticians, "is a unit." She held up a pencil. "This book is a unit, too," said she. "And these are units." And she showed them a ruler, a flower and an apple. Then she peeled the apple, and holding up the peel, said, "Now, children, what is this?" Silence. "Come, you know what it is," she urged.

Little Bill's hand went up slowly. "Well, William!" said the teacher. "Please, ma'am, the skin of a unit!"—Christian Register.

The Chief Justice.
There are very few people who know the proper designation of the man who presides over the supreme court. Generally he is referred to as the chief justice of the United States Supreme Court. In fact, he is the chief justice. That's his official title. Most of our Presidents in nominating men for this office have fallen into the error of giving him the long title.

Very Long Plants.

The longest plants in the world are seaweeds. One tropical variety is known which measures in length, when it has reached its full development, at least 100 feet, or about one-eighth of a mile.

THE HIGH-ART CLOTHIERS

CAUGHT A SEA DEVIL.

But Before the Fishermen Overpowered It They Were Dragged to Sea.

After having been dragged several miles out to sea in a fishing boat, which was in turn aided by a small gasoline launch, by an enormous sea devil which they had harpooned near the mouth of the bay, three Americans succeeded in landing the largest specimen of the ray family of fish ever seen at Manzanillo, Mexico.

The monster measured nearly 30 feet from tip to tip of its enormous flappers and was alleged to weigh slightly less than a ton. Its mandibles, which were tightly closed, measured a meter and fifteen centimeters across.

The fish was apparently sleeping on some low flat rocks when discovered and which it made off so fast with the small fishing boat that the launch went to its assistance, and for a mile thereafter the fish carried both boat and launch in easy tow. It was not overpowered until several harpoons had been landed well in its body.

Mombasa.

You possibly think of Mombasa, where Roosevelt landed, as a sort of pioneer outpost on the edge of the world. As a matter of fact, Mombasa was on the map 300 years before Columbus discovered America, and it is a somewhat prosperous city of 27,000 people. It is the terminus of the Uganda Railroad, and has a steel pier and stone wharves. The protective citadel, which still stands as a part of the town's fortifications, was started by the Arabs in the seventh century. You may not have heard much of Mombasa, but it isn't because it is a new city, built to make one end of a railroad or a landing place for ex-Presidents.

For Insomnia.

For insomnia try this simple remedy: Have a barber-chair raised up in your room. Then, when unable to go to sleep by 1.30 a. m., send your motor car for your favorite barber. When he comes, have him give you a thorough shampoo. If not sleepy then, repeat, and continue treatment until put to sleep. If the treatment fails to do this in five hours, just take a look at the bill.

Can't About Advertising.

There is a great deal of cant at the present day about advertising, emitted by persons who are very keen to get all the advertisement they can, and to get it for nothing if possible. Quiet people, who really do not want to advertise themselves, are much less censorious.

Glove Cutting.

Glove cutting is purely a hand trade. No machine could cut out a glove properly, for the simple reason that it could not distinguish between good and bad, thick and thin, pieces of leather. Each piece of leather requires special treatment in shaping, and therefore the cutting can never be mechanical.

Unsympathetic.

Others may have said the same thing, but this rather unsympathetic comment is attributed to the late Judge Hoar. "Are you going to attend the funeral of Gen. Butler?" a friend asked him. "No," was the calm reply. "No, I am not going to attend—but I heartily approve of it."

Oldest Man in the World.

Jose Gaudaloupe Aleido of Jalisco, state of Jalisco, Mexico, is said to be the oldest man in the world. The record of his birth as contained in the archives of the parish church shows that he was born in 1770, which makes him 139 years old. He is in good physical condition.

Women and Mountaineering.

One of the chief difficulties in a woman's undertaking an expedition in mountain climbing is that, whatever her experience, every man believes that he knows better what should be done than she. Harper's Magazine.

Feminine Lack of Logic.

Tell a wife that men are selfish, she will readily acquiesce. But tell that same woman that by spoiling her boys—whether in the nursery or at school, or university—she is sowing the seeds of egotism, she will give an emphatic denial.

Modern Advice.

"My dear," said a fond mother, "never marry a man for his money. Nowadays it is much easier to play bridge whilst for it."—Detroit Free Press.
