tions of Washington "smart set" during the past week was a delightfully informal evening last Friday spent at the residence of Rev. A. McCullen, when Misses Mary McCullen and Anita Payne were the hostesses and entertained a few of their friends at a Halloween party. The interior of the residence was attractively and artistically decorated in a color scheme of yellow and black, successfully carried out in a most unique manner, by means of pumpkin "jack-o-lanterns," painted witches, black cats, and serpents on a background of yellow crepe paper, and presented a very artistic effect. During the evening a number of guessing contests were indulged in and the lucky contest was presented with a black cat for a prize. After this came the old-fashioned apple ducking, in which the men attempted to pick up an apple floating in a tub of water using only their teeth, and of course took a good ducking in the attempt. Messrs. N. L. Simmons and L. Y. Shaw proved very successful at this game, and not only secured their apples, but a generous supply of water as well. Fortunes were then told by means of a wheel of fortune, spun in turn by each guest. Dainty refreshments were served during the latter part of the evening, after which the lights were extinguished and the whole party indulged in ghost tales and commuted with the spooks during the "wee wee" hours. Those present were Misses Ruth Pilon, Claudia McCullen, Mary Wright, Winifred Fowle, Juliet Merriman of Wilmington, and Cora Moore of Burghaw; Messrs. N. L. Simmons, L. Y. Shaw, P. P. Maxwell, R. P. Fowle, Thos. Payne, W. B. Harding, Rev. H. B. Searight and C. L. Payne.
