The Gem last night was largely attended and the program was pleasing. Tonight the management promises a program full of interest and merit. Among the pictures will be seen "Oh, Rats," a comedy laughable and funny. "The New Chief," an Indian drama, is said to be one of the most attractive pictures ever placed on the boards. Another beautiful picture will be "A Case of Arson," "The Gospel's Warning" and "Where There's a Will There's a Way," bids fair to enthrall and interest. The performance tonight should be well patronized, for it will be one of the best yet exhibited at the Gem. Remember to secure your coupons and also remember the orchestra plays as usual. Everybody come.

BEES ATE HER HONEY
A lady residing on Second street had rather an unusual experience last week. In her pantry were four or five pounds of honey in the comb, and a swarm of bees entered through the windows to enjoy the unbidden feast. When the housewife discovered the busy insects they had taken possession of the pantry and refused to leave until smoked out with sulphur, but by this time they had eaten over one-half the honey, much to the lady's dismay.
