STATE NEWS

Condensed Items of Interest Happening Throughout the State.

Saturday evening, just at night, Miss Mattie Tarr, a young lady, 17 or 17 years of age, committed suicide by shooting herself twice through the head with a gun. The affair was read and reason for the act, more than a note left, saying she was tired of life. She lived with her mother, who was married the second time to Mr. J. W. Norris, a farmer in very good circumstance.—Wilson Times.

In the report of the State Department of Agriculture of the sales of leaf tobacco on the different markets for the month of October, Greenville is given fourth place, with Wilson, Winston-Salem and Kinston coming ahead in the order named. Taking into consideration that there are three markets in Pitt county, but a few miles apart, while in but one other instance is there more than one market in a county, Pitt county takes a higher rank than is shown in the department's report by individual markets.—Greenville Reflector.

Yesterday afternoon at Spring Hope, while Mr. Edgar Griffin was out driving with his brother from Goldsboro, who was on a visit to him, the horse became frightened, running away and throwing both of them from the buggy. Mr. Edgar Griffin, it is thought, was seriously injured, and a report from him last night was that he is believed to have suffered a fractured skull and was in a dying condition. Mr. Griffin's brother jumped from the buggy a few seconds before the crash and he suffered no injury other than a considerable jar. The horse was severely injured by a gash in his side and the animal died a short time after the accident.—Rocky Mount Record.

The contractors who have the contract of building the clock tower on the Federal building are forging rapidly ahead with their work. The new tower will extend 35 feet above the present walls and will be 84 feet from the ground. The dials will be 12 feet in diameter and instead of figures on its face there will be small openings at the hour marks which will be lighted by electricity at night. The light on the dial will be white while such hand will contain a red light, making it possible to ascertain the time both by day and night from quite a distance. The present tower and clock will be removed and a large bell substituted. The contract calls for the work to be completed by the tenth of January next.—New Bern Journal.

Health Officer H. B. Simpson yesterday served a warrant on C. H. Peeler, president of Bennett College, charging him with admitting students who had not shown certificates of vaccination as required by the laws of North Carolina. Sunday afternoon Mr. Simpson discovered a full fledged case of smallpox at the house of Rev. McArthur, where it is claimed two students of Bennett college had been boarding and going to school every day. Mr. Simpson had Dr. Harrison go out and vaccinate those two negroes at once, it being discovered that neither had ever taken such precaution.—Greensboro News.

Samuel Jenkins, colored, 18 years old, employed at the farm of Mr. W. A. Lineker, on the Castles Haynes road, instantly killed himself by accident late Saturday afternoon, near Acorn Branch, in Cape Fear township, while out hunting with his brother, Richard Jenkins, who was an eye witness of the tragedy. The boy had stood his gun by a tree while he counted some shells which he carried in his pocket and in reaching for the gun again, it was accidentally discharged, the load tearing the entire top of his head off. Mr. Lineker speaks of the boy as very faithful, well behaved and belonging to a good colored family of the neighborhood who are much distressed over the accident.—Wilmington Star.

It has been published that three disappeared from the Yarborough House on Saturday Mr. J. Lindsay Leaf, of Portsmouth, Va., who sells surgical instruments for a Baltimore house. It is thought by friends here that he has gone to his home at Portsmouth. Mr. Leaf registered at the Yarborough House last Thursday, but has not been seen there since Saturday. His baggage is still in his room and his samples in the sample room. It is known that he was in correspondence with some of the navy men at Portsmouth, who urged him to join the navy, and it is the supposition of friends that he left Saturday night with the blue jacket who visited Raleigh. He had spoken of having a child ill at home with typhoid fever, and it is supposed that this has caused his failure to write here. He was in good condition when here and nothing unusual was noticed in his actions, so his friends expect to hear from him at any time.—News and Observer.

TO OUR TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS.

In order to obtain satisfactory telephone service, it is necessary for our subscribers to observe the instructions contained on the instruction cards tacked on to the various telephones. A great many of the subscribers are placing their receivers on the hooks before they complete their conversation and by doing this the operator gets the disconnecting signal which requires that she take down the connection, which will of course, prevent you from completing the conversation with whom you were originally talking.

It is also desired that you place your lips close to the transmitter and give the number of the telephone with which you desire connection slowly and distinctly, calling the numbers by digits instead of the usual way. As example, if you desire to communicate with telephone No. 273, call the number double two, one. The operator will then repeat the number back to you to assure you that she has heard the order correctly and will then make the desired connection. Do not ask questions of the operator, but call for the chief operator for information. The operators will be too busy answering calls of the subscribers to spend any considerable time in connection with your telephone to answer questions that can be just as well answered by the chief operator.

There is still some additional outside work to be done in connection with the lines of these subscribers located outside of the corporate limits and outside of what is known as the cable district. It is necessary to string additional wires from the end of the cables to the subscribers' stations on these "hanging" districts in order to metallic circuit them. This work may cause some trouble to the subscribers, but every effort will be used to reduce the amount of trouble to a minimum. Should you have trouble, however, in using your telephone or find that it is not working satisfactorily, do not hesitate to call the chief operator or Mr. Bell, our local manager, notifying him of the fact, and the matter will then be given prompt attention.

ANOTHER OPEN LETTER.
Greenville, N. C., November 11, 1909.

To O. L. Joyner:

Sir—Something like 14 days ago I wrote you an open letter, challenging you to meet me in the courthouse at Greenville, on a public issue you are conducting with the people of North Carolina, setting forth a bill of indictment very clearly which I am ready to defend at any time. Not having heard anything from you, I will state that unless you set a date soon, then I will, as I am determined to be heard, and am standing pat on the proposition.

Yours, etc.,
J. R. HUTCHINGS.
