LET THE NEWS FOLLOW.

Parties leaving town should not fail to let The News follow them daily with the news of Washington fresh and crisp. It will prove a valuable companion, reading to you like a letter from home. Those at the seashore or mountains will find The News a most welcome and interesting visitor.

MUST BE SIGNED.

All articles sent to The News for publication must be signed by the writer, otherwise they will not be published.

TIME TO ADVERTISE.

Now that the holiday season approaches and the people are to make purchases they do not the rest of the year, the merchants would do well to use the columns of the Daily News as a medium through which to inform the public what they have in the way of goods suitable for Yuletide. As an advertising medium this paper stands out most prominently for its columns have been tried in the past and in every instance the advertiser has received untold benefits.

One thing is clearly demonstrated, the people read the Daily News and the merchants advertising in it are the ones that are today having the best patronage. If you question this assertion you have only to read over the advertising space and then watch where the people trade. The merchant who thinks that he can do business successfully in this day and time without advertising, is the merchant falling behind. The Daily News is read by at least 4000 people every day. Surely out of all this large array of readers the advertising merchant will see results. To advertise is not an untold venture. Some of the merchants of Washington have included in it lavishly and today stand at the top as successful business men. There is no better time to place your goods before the public than now. Think on these lines and if you are interested call up the business office and the paper will be glad to aid or assist you in any way possible. Advertise and advertise now in the Daily News. The paper will enable you to increase your patronage and place you in the forefront as a live, energetic business man. Suppose you make a trial.

SMALL AND THE WATERWAY.

In the course of an interesting article on this subject The Raleigh Evening Times gives proper credit for the movement to Congressman John H. Small, who is known as "The Father of the Inland Waterway." It was through the faithful work of Congressman Small, The Times says, that Congress was induced to appropriate over five hundred thousand dollars to begin this work and now two of the biggest dredges on the Atlantic coast are at work cutting a canal north of Beaufort. By the cutting of this canal and the cutting of a canal leading up to Norfolk a ship can pass down through Albemarle and Pamlico sounds without sea and never be bothered with the dangers of Cape Hatteras. This alone will open up eastern North Carolina to the world and make the big sounds great centers of shipping just as the great lakes are for the north. The possibilities for future development in eastern North Carolina are wonderful. When we get this great waterway the people of this State will owe it to the persistent work of Hon. John H. Small because he has devoted every energy possible for this one enterprise. When Mr. Small addressed that big assembly of capitalists and Congressmen and Senators from all over the North and East, it made every North Carolinian proud to see the way they received him. Everybody in the convention was talking about Small, the first man who talked waterways in Congress. - Charlotte Observer.

PLAGUE NOTHING NEW.

The horror of the white plague is nothing new. In 1799 the conviction that tuberculosis had a contagious element in it became so strong that in some portions of Europe it was a common practice to isolate consumption from the public after their lungs had become ulcerated. Charlembrian found it impossible to dispose of his carriages in Rome because Mme. Beaumont who died of consumption had ridden in them. "At the end of the month," wrote George Sand in 1839, "poor Chopin, who had a cough since we left Paris, became worse. We seat for a doctor, two doctors, three doctors, each more stupid than the other, who started to spread the news in the island that the sick man was a consumptive in the last stage. As a result there was a great alarm—we were regarded as plague infected. The owner of the little house we had rented turned us out brutally."

THE WORLD'S "BEST SELLER."

The world's best-selling book is the Bible. The total sales of the works of all the most popular authors of the day would not equal the yearly sale of the Christian Scriptures. Each year there are printed 17,000,000 Protestant Bibles, Testaments, and "portions"—such as the Psalms or the separate Gospels—in more than five hundred languages and dialects. Of these Bibles, 10,000,000 are published by Bible societies, are sold far below cost, and return no financial profit to anybody. The remaining 7,000,000 are printed commercially, and yield a handsome profit to the publishers. Of the 10,000,000 Bibles and parts of Bibles printed and distributed by charity, almost 2,000,000 are issued by the American Bible Society, and over 7,000,000 more by similar organizations in Great Britain—Munsey's Magazine.

GEM TONIGHT.

The Gem's pictures were simply fine last night. The comic actor in the French film was at his best and raised a howl of laughter. The Blue Bird was a very beautiful colored magic film. Tonight's program is a "lollapalooza" and you can't afford to miss it. The Angel child is one of the richest enigmas going, and Miss Faust is a magnificent hand-colored film. The whole four pictures are good. Coupons will be given for the beautiful cut glass water bottle and six glasses now on view at Ayer's store, and bought from the stock of A. G. Smither. Last night was a record crowd, and tonight ought to equal it. Mrs. Deenan was the lucky winner of the lovely silver set last night. The managers of the Gem is to be commended on the quality of the prizes they offer. Nothing cheap or shoddy has or will be given, and the lucky ones who receive them will always have something to be proud of.

AT THE GAIETY.

His Lost Love, a Biograph, will be one of the attractive pictures at the Gaiety theater tonight which opens promptly at 7 o'clock. His Help Mate is another picture full of comedy and fun. The Marriage Vow causes a great deal of amusement. A Husband's Stratagem is another amusing scene and all who see this picture will not regret it. The Gaiety is fast to have a large crowd tonight and the program also promises to be one that will please from beginning to end. The show last night was a hummer and all present were delighted. Follow the merry crowd to the Gaiety this evening. Hear good music and see first class pictures.

ONE OF THE FALSBARRERS.

Dr. Armstead K. Taylor, formerly of this city, now a promising physician of Belhaven, was one of the honorary pallbearers to the dead Southern post-priest, Father John R. Tabb, who was buried at Richmond, Va., last Tuesday.

COUNTY TEACHERS ASSOCIATION To the County Teachers: On Friday, December 3, as soon after 9 o'clock as possible, the County Teachers will meet at the Washington Graded School building and visit the various departments of the school. In the afternoon the teachers will assemble in the auditorium and organize, when Prof. J. A. BIVINS, of the State Department of Education, will address them on "Teacher Training." At the same time a County Women's Betterment Association will be organized. It is desired that as many members as possible from local associations be present and become a part of the county organization. All persons interested in this work are invited to meet with us.

PITTSBURG PERFECT FENCE
It is the only enduring fence and becomes by process of ELECTRIC WELDING ONE SOLID PIECE OF STEEL, strand and stay wire can neither separate nor rust out. Uninjured by heat, cold, or the action of the elements—ample provision has been made for expansion and contraction, and adjusts itself to uneven ground, without sagging. Our improved process makes it cheaper than any other fence at any price.
