AURORA FAIR AND CORN SHOW

It has always been a source of gratification to the editor of this paper to visit the thriving and growing section of Beaufort County known as Richland township. To mingle with these good people, than whom there are no better, is indeed an inspiration and a benediction.

During the last decade this section of the county has made wonderful strides. Especially can this be said with reference to their knowledge of farming and educational uplift. It must be a matter of no little pride to these stirring people to see what they have done and accomplished. Not only to them is it a matter of no little pride to these stirring people to see what they have done and accomplished.

Friday last we were again permitted to visit this great section of country upon the occasion of the Agricultural Fair and Corn Show, given under the auspices and direction of the Aurora Rural Movement Association.

sweetest ties cluster there and for this section of our beautiful land will ever feel in some sense grateful and thankful.

It was indeed good to be in Aurora, shake the hand of each again of the citizens, admire their patriotism, their energy, their ambition. The fair was a grand success from first to last and showed that in the coming together of the farmers on such occasions is destined for nothing but good to each and every one. It nerves them for greater usefulness as farmers and implants determination to become better.

An enterprising and host the citizens of Aurora cannot be excelled. They simply know how to do things and Friday they did it so well that each and every visitor longs for the time to mingle with them again. Compliments among these is none other but the editor of the Daily News.

A NOTABLE ASSEMBLAGE.

There is a notable assemblage of Christian workers gathered at Wadesboro this week. The Baptist host of North Carolina are meeting there in annual session. This denomination ranks numerically the strongest orcapitation in the State. No doubt but what the different preachers will have a most excellent report to make. Some of the State's brightest men fill the pulpits of the Baptist faith. They have always, from incipency, been a power for good, and their assembly in any community in State convention is the source for congratulation to the place so fortunate as to entertain them.
