THE LIFE DRAMA OF NAPOLEON BONAPARTE AND EMPRESS JOSEPHINE OF FRANCE—A great feature picture.

BRIDGET ON STRIKE—Splendid comedy.

TEDDY IN JUNGLELAND—A picture sure to please.

PIERROT'S JEALOUSY AND HIS DRUNKENNESS.

The drawing for this week's prize takes place tonight at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

PANTEGO ITEMS.

Mrs. W. L. Judkin who has been very ill lately is convalescing.

The boys of the High School are now practicing for a tournament. A large party gathered at the home of Mr. P. H. Johnson where they were entertained as the old year was leaving and the new one coming in.

I wonder how many have resolved to quit thinking the old, bitter thoughts that may have engrossed their minds during the year that has just passed into history, and during the new year of 1910 to think only thoughts that are pure and sweet and kind. "But of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

Miss Gertrude Radcliffe left for Greensboro Monday morning, where she is attending the State Normal School.

Messrs. Joe Allen and Tom Killingsworth were in town Sunday.

Miss Golda Ricks, of Washington, who has been visiting friends and relatives of this place, left for her home on Wednesday morning.

Rev. W. O. Winfield filled his regular appointment at the Christian Church Sunday morning and evening.

Misses Mattie Winfield and Lillian Spencer left for Wilson Monday morning where they are attending school.

Mrs. Alice Reppess spent Tuesday at Washington.

Misses Aleese and Temperance Aycock complimented their aunt, Mrs. George Old, of Belhaven, with a visit last week. They returned Thursday, reporting a charming time.

Mr. Claud Ricks spent part of his holidays in Pantego.

Mr. P. H. Johnson went to Washington Tuesday morning. He returned the same day.

School began Monday after a ten-day interval for the holidays.

Miss Emma Jarvis, one of our teachers here, did not teach school for the first two days this week on account of the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Riddick.

Mr. J. C. McClure, of Washington, was here Tuesday. He returned Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clark were in town Sunday afternoon, visiting Mr. Clark's mother.

Mrs. W. B. Windley, Misses Lena and Maude Windley, of Washington, Miss Nellie Hill, of Newport News, Va., Messrs. R. T. Windley, of Wilmington, N. C., and W. H. Windley, of Washington, spent Christmas with Mrs. E. S. Credle. They returned home Tuesday.

Mr. L. E. Bennett, principal of the Pantego High School, returned home Saturday, after attending the Southern Educational Association at Charlotte.

Miss Ruth Credle spent the holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. W. B. Windley, of Washington.

Miss Lillian Wilkinson returned to Raleigh Tuesday morning, where she is attending school.

Mr. J. P. Clark spent last week in New Bern.

Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Clark and their little son, Walter, of Edenton, were here this week visiting Mr. Clark's mother.

P. H. S.

Sad is Sad.

A mother, who was rather fond of the cheaper ten, twenty, thirty cent melodrama, one afternoon took her young daughter, who had grown to consider herself above that sort of thing.

The daughter was bored, but the mother was greatly interested, and finally, when the heroine had got into a seemingly inextricable position, broke down and sobbed heartily.

"Mother, I would 'n't cry here," whispered the daughter significantly, so contenting the last word.

"Let me alone," replied the other hysterically. "If a thing is sad, it's sad; I can't cry according to price."

Marriage—Before and After.

Booth Tarkington has written some exceptionally clever fiction. More recently he has been in the limelight in the role of a politician. Not long ago he was the guest of some of his friends at a theatrical supper. In speaking to his neighbor at the table on the subject of marriage, Mr. Tarkington said a number of epigrammatic truths about this important subject. One was:

"Before a girl marries a man, her opinion of him is much the same as that held by her mother. After the honeymoon is over, the young lady generally comes over to the viewpoint her father had."

The grand jury's inquiry into the "white slave" traffic will incidentally prove interesting as showing how closely campaign muck-raking adheres to the facts.

DOG NOTICE.

Any persons owning dogs and have not paid taxes on them, are notified that unless it is done within the next 10 days the owners will be warranted.

The Garden.

People can live without gardens. Vegetables are not necessary to the support of life, but they come in handy once a day in a well regulated family. Bread and water will keep one going, but it is a pretty weak mixture when meat and coffee are added. Variety is the spice of life, and it is certain that variety in food promotes health and vigorous life. Only a few leading vegetables are required by the ordinary family and they are easily raised. Beans, beets, lettuce, cabbage, tomatoes, okra and turnips are all easily raised, and the garden that is abundantly supplied with these will add much to the table. Then the gardener can add as many others as he has time and space for. The man is a shabby sort of fellow who does not provide for a good vegetable garden. Plant beans every two or three weeks, so as to have a succession of crops. If beets are too thick, transplant them. They bear that well.

Money in Farm Animals.

Live stock of all kinds is now on a high basis and no doubt will continue so for some time to come. There is money in growing farm animals, both for the animals themselves and for the good they do in producing fertilizer at home. Keep all young stock growing on pasture, and do not be afraid to feed a little grain to supplement the grass ration.

A Good Rotation.

A good rotation for mixed farming is wheat, clover, meadow one year, cow pasture for one year, corn and oats one year. This makes a six-year rotation. Where there are permanent pastures on the farm one year can be cut out by not pasturing the clover or the second year.

Do you know the size of your various fields, or do you merely guess at it? You ought to know exactly, not only that you may accurately estimate fertilizer needed for the land, but that you may know the crop yields.

The beginning of arguments in the Tobacco Trust cases excites a general curiosity as to how much fire has occasioned the smoke raised in that quarter.

RESOLUTION SHATTERED.

The Moral Suasion Scheme Didn't Work on Jack Jones.

A little boy came home one day from school in a very bad humor. Another boy, Jack Jones, had given him a thrashing, and he wanted revenge. "Oh," said his mother, "don't think of revenge, Willie. Be kind to Jack. Heep coals of fire on his head. Then he will become your friend."

Willie thought he would try this method. So the next day at recess, just as he was buying a lemon pie for luncheon, Jack appeared and said: "Look here, I licked you yesterday, but I didn't give you enough. Now I'm going to lick you again."

And he planted a hard blow on Willie's little stomach.

Willie gasped, but instead of striking back he extended his pie to Jones. "Here," he said in a kindly voice. "I'll give you this. I make you a present of it."

Jack, in glad amazement, fell upon the pie greedily, and it had soon disappeared.

"Gosh, it was good!" he said. "What did you give it to me for?" "Because you struck me," said the bearer of the coal.

Instantly Jack hauled off and struck him again. "Now go and get another pie," he said.—Ladies' Home Journal.
