Parties leaving town should not fail to let the news follow them daily with the news of Washington fresh and crisp. It will prove a valuable companion, reading to you like a letter from home. Those at the seashore or mountains will find the news a most welcome and interesting visitor.

THE INFANT WATERWAY.

The completion of the canal that connects the sounds in North Carolina is an event not to be minimized, as this is the first link in the proposed inland waterway. The canal is 90 to 250 feet wide, with a depth of 16 feet of water at mean low water and 12 feet at high tide. The length is 20 miles five of them cut through dry land, the remainder secured by dredging and straightening creeks.

The Chesapeake Bay is navigable for vessels of any size or draft from Baltimore to Norfolk. Through the present Chesapeake and Delaware can-nels there is a means of communication between Baltimore and Philadelphia. But the way is not yet open for effective navigation to the south.
This is a matter of considerable importance to the business men of Baltimore and Norfolk. It would develop rapidly, once it was connected with important lines of transportation. And it would be of immeasurable benefit to Eastern Virginia.
Some of the richest lands in the country are in that region, only waiting drainage and transportation facilities to bring them in touch with the markets.

The completion of this second link in the inland waterway would give them direct connection with the cities to the north of them and would aid in developing truck farms, shipping, fisheries and manufacturing enterprises.

The North Carolina link would be of general benefit to navigators and shippers on the entire Atlantic coast as it would give boats and vessels of not more than ten-foot draft an inside route by which they could avoid the dangers of the lower Virginia Capes, Nags Head, Hatteras and a long chain of treacherous shoals that menace navigation along that entire section of the coast.

The London paper that established American sailors looked about and probably saw them the next morning.

The enthusiastic admirer of Senator Latham wanted to present him with a wreath, but not one suggested presenting him with a wreath.

Mrs. Martin seems to admit that she killed Okey Reed by that she was not especially interested in killing it.

Strange Medical Discovery Made in Hospital at High Point—First Time Physicians Have Found the Appendix Anywhere But on the Right Side.

High Point, Jan. 12.—A rather strange discovery in medical science was made here yesterday afternoon—one that was a little puzzling to the physicians present.

At the Junior Order hospital, Drs.
Burrus, Duncan and Keitel performed an operation on a woman fur appendicitis and instead of finding the appendix on the right side, which is the normal location, it was found on the extreme left side.

The Atlantic battle-ship fleet approaching our coast as an enemy might in time of war was discovered by a scouting fleet far out at sea, and a report of the discovery, with a statement of latitude and longitude was despatched to Washington by wireless telegraphy. Thus the defending force was put on guard. All danger of surprise was set aside.

This new demonstration of the utility of wireless telegraphy ought to go far toward relieving the minds of those who are subject to war scares and who believe that we need enormous fleets to guard our coasts.
A few swift scouting vessels could give due warning to any threatened point long before the enemy could get there, and shore aeroplanes and submarines, besides the coast-defense fleet might meet him when he did.

It is a good thing that all the talking in congress does not mean laws.

Mr. Folk would make a fine manager for governor of Utopia.
