When she had the measles, they went in on her, but one good dose of Theford's Black-Draught made them break out, and she has had no more trouble. I shall never be without

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't say gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a few Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

Shakespeare's Mixed "Population."
It is impossible to overestimate the influence on the view of government with which Shakespeare, without Puritanism, invigorated the Anglo-Saxon mind, both in England and America, in the direction of at least freest investigation of ecclesiastical principles and methods. American world-wide cosmopolitanism, or, if you please, that hospitality to all interests from anywhere and everywhere, which is characteristic of the United States, has its own method glorified in Shakespeare's intellectual procedure. Shakespeare's population is as mixed as our own. He had the American manner, with a myriad-minded past, and the more varied and variable present—"Shakespeare and the American Spirit," Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, in National Magazine.

IS WOMAN'S WORK IN THE WAR HAVING EFFECT ON MOTHERS?

London, Oct. 12.—Is the great part that woman is playing in the labor of the nation affecting motherhood? The answer to this query, agitating those interested in conservation of the race, will be given as the result of a big investigation set on foot here today.

The investigation, which is authorized by the government, is being conducted by the Women's Industrial Council. On account of the future activity of women workers after the war, the probe is designed to point out what trades, newly acquired by women, are most injurious to motherhood. Recommendations for beneficial legislation in favor of the future of the race will then be made.

"Our chief object is to approach impartially industrial occupations, both old and new, to find out whether the muscular action or the strains and stresses involved in certain processes have an effect on future child-bearing of ordinary women workers," said Miss H. Taylor, head of the Industrial Council today. Today's investigation is only one of many which will be launched in favor of England's future generations.

Flour sold today $3.20 higher than before the war. Millers say prices will rise higher, and that there is little chance of a decrease at this time.

SCOTLAND YARD SEES BOGUS HEROES

London, Oct. 12.—Scotland Yard has organized a special staff to round up bogus "heroes." The King's uniform has been abused to a greater extent than has been supposed. The military authorities saw the danger some time ago, and made an effort themselves to deal with it, but the assistance of Scotland Yard was found to be desirable, and now a strict lookout is kept for adventurers in military guise. Every day the organization grows more effective, and nobody can perpetrate a fraud of the kind with a feeling of impunity. Imposters trying to take advantage of the public generosity now find it very difficult to pursue their contemptible methods. What Scotland Yard is doing, the conventional police are also intent upon.

Fox Liked His Comfort.
An unusual sight met the gaze of a Duarte (Cal.) man when he opened his house the other morning and found his swimming seat occupied by a full grown fox. With the cushion for a seat the fox was resting comfortably and evidently enjoyed his quarters. When his presence became known the members of the family came trooping out to see the porch climber. Then the fox disappeared under the house, where his nature prompted him to hide until the spectators left the porch, and into the swimming seat and, with an almost human air of comfort and satisfaction, adjusted the pillow and settled down to complete the morning nap. When again interrupted the fox disappeared and headed for the mountains. The theory that it had escaped from a luxurious captivity probably accounts for the domestic tastes of the visitor.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Take a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps you fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and poison-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the body the waste of the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headaches, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.
