QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your back hurts or bladder is troubling you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver troubles, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will set free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

GERMANS BUILD WONDERFUL TUNNEL FOR DEFENSE

Unique Method by Tutons to Assist in Their Campaign on the West Front.

By HENRY WOOD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the French Armies before Chaumes, Oct. 14.—(By Mail)—The present encircling movement of the French armies about Chaumes is similar to the ones so successfully employed in the capture of Comblès, Thiepval and other important centers at the northern extremity of the offensive.

The capture of Chilly, brought to light one of the most striking examples that has yet been found of the extremes of organization and effort to which the German General Staff has gone in its effort to cling to the occupied soil of France.

Following the capture of Chilly, the French troops found at the depth of forty to sixty feet below the surface a tunnel more than half a mile in length constructed from the headquarters of the commanding officer in Chilly to the front line German trenches then well in advance of the village.

For the construction of this tunnel, expert miners had been brought from Germany and it represented not less than six months of their work. By its use, the Germans were able to send not only their men into the front line trenches, but also all munitions and supplies, without exposing a single man to the constant trench bombardment.

Although the Germans are now driven considerably beyond Chilly they are still near enough to keep up daily a terrible bombardment and struggle in a last desperate effort to win back the tunnel, which is now serving the French fully as well as it formerly served the Germans.

I was enabled to enter the tunnel from one of the exits it had in the German first line positions and traverse its entire half-mile length to the village of Chilly in the rear, conscious of utter security from the German bombardment, which never ceased.

The descent into the tunnel was by three successive flights of stairs, for the Germans naturally figuring that their first line positions would suffer the heaviest bombardment, had sunk the tunnel at that point to a depth of sixty feet. Here at the bottom of the stairway and at the end of the tunnel was grouped off half a dozen chambers with sleeping and eating facilities for the soldiers when off duty, when the trenches were being too violently bombarded to remain above, and for the troops who might be called upon to defend the tunnel in case the trenches above should be taken.

These rooms were now occupied by the French "poilus" who had converted all of the arrangements both for the comfort and defense of the original German owners to their own use.

Entering the tunnel proper, I found it entirely walled up with heavy timber, the ceiling high enough to permit the troops to pass without stooping down, and with a narrow gauge railway running the entire length for the hurrying of munitions to the front line trenches.

Pipes for mechanical ventilation as well as electric light wires ran the full length of the tunnel. The plants at forty feet below the surface earth, had been destroyed by the Germans at the moment of capture.

Groping through the tunnel, through the foul air, and lighted only by candles and pocket flash lights, I found the floor was strewn with half eaten loaves of black bread which the Germans had evidently flung frantically down when the word was passed that the French had taken the position above.

Potatoes were strewn over the floor of the tunnel, as were also innumerable empty mineral water, wine and beer bottles with which the tunnel appeared to have been lavishly stocked.

From both sides of the tunnel sleeping rooms branched off, and the bunks in these contained still the shoes, coats, caps and other articles of clothing just as the Germans had left them at the moment of surprise.

A little farther on was a widened portion that had been the dressing room and surgical station for the wounded. Germans wounded in the French bombardment that preceded the infantry assault and even when the French had swept over the position, had apparently been hastily taken down into the tunnel and given first attention at this station. Blood stained bandages still lay scattered about the dressing tables and bunks as did also various surgical instruments and appliances. In several places along the sides of the tunnel wells had been sunk so that in case of siege a supply of fresh water would be available. The approach to the other end of the tunnel that comes out in Chilly was marked as at the end where I had entered by the groups of chambers.

The "piece de resistance" came at the end of the tunnel where it opened into the underground apartment of the German officer who had commanded the position. Although his apartment was forty feet below the surface of the earth, all of the rooms were plastered in white, and perfect in all appointments even to a bath room, and a well stocked wine cellar. Of the latter, only the empty bottles remained, but they were almost countless.

GOOD MEETING HELD AT WOODARD'S POND

(Special Correspondence)
The people of Woodard's Pond were Tuesday night favored by a visit of the Democratic candidates along with Messrs. Warren and Stewart, the latter of whom delivered the best lectures that have been heard here during the campaign. The meeting was well attended by men, women and the school children all of whom express extreme pleasure in the occasion.

A Laxative for Babies Good for Everybody

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a Safe and Efficient Family Remedy.

Every member of the family is more or less subject to constipation and every home should always be supplied with a dependable remedy to promptly relieve this condition. Whenever the bowels become clogged and the natural process of elimination thereby disturbed, the entire system is affected, and readily subject to attack by disease. Constipation is a condition that should never be neglected.

Mrs. E. R. Gilbert, of Millbro, Va., says that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a splendid laxative for children because they like its pleasant taste, and it acts so easily and naturally, without griping or strain, and she finds it equally effective for the rest of the family.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that contains no opiate or narcotic drug. It is mild and gentle in its action, and does not cause pain or discomfort. Druggists everywhere sell this excellent remedy for fifty cents a bottle.

NORWAY AND GERMANY TO AVOID WAR

By WILLIAM BAYARD HALE,
(Special Correspondent)
Berlin, Nov. 3.—Although the tension between Germany and Norway may seem at the breaking point, I am in a position today to express the firm belief that the last extremity will be avoided.

Dr. Hale's radio message predicting that the war clouds which overhang German-Norwegian relations will be dissipated comes on the heels of a Stockholm dispatch stating that Norway's reply to the German submarine note had been forwarded to Berlin.

The lectures were void of political mud but full of unquestioned facts, well spiced with up-to-date wit and humor. The occasion was a revival to the few faithful Democrats; conversation to some of the young men; credit to the party, and a pleasure to all.
