Campaign Issues Are Portrayed by Prominent Men

(By GEORGE CREEK)
Written for the Democratic National Committee.

From the day that he took office, Woodrow Wilson has been confronted by a press of tremendous problems.

The Taft administration was repudiated by the people for its sins and failures, and it was with these sins and failures that Woodrow Wilson had to grapple. There were bad laws to wipe out, good laws to enforce, necessary laws to pass, and the public service to reorganize on the new basis of honesty and efficiency.

To complicate these tasks came the European war, with its various appeals to the emotions of our mixed population, its inevitable assault upon our traditional neutrality, and its frequent violations of international law by belligerents eager for every advantage.

This is the domestic record of Woodrow Wilson; tariff revision downward; the federal reserve act; the child labor law; rural credits; workmen's compensation; the seamen's law; the Clayton anti-trust act; the shipping act; the good roads law; the eight-hour day that averted a nation-wide strike; agricultural extension; federal employment bureau; the Federal Trade Commission; the tariff commission; opening Alaska with government railways; the restoration of the Navy to second place; the reorganization of regular army and the National guard; income, inheritance and munitions taxes to pay for preparedness. No President in history ever drove through such a program of constructive legislation!

As for the international policies of Woodrow Wilson, they have given the United States peace with honor. Neutral rights have been vindicated and world war averted. Justice, not greed, has governed our relations with Mexico.

All has been done under stress of bitter attacks and incessant opposition. Organized greed and alien conspiracies have made the President run a gauntlet of hate.

In view of the record, is it too much to say that it is not Woodrow Wilson who is on trial, but the people of the United States?

Written for the Republican National Committee.

In the brief articles which I have been permitted to write for your columns, it has been my earnest endeavor to refrain from "throwing mud," from misstating a single fact and from relying on glittering generalities in place of argument. I have tried to the best of my ability, within the brief space allowed me, to state my reasons for the faith that is in me, giving each day some concrete reason which should appeal to your readers as a ground for supporting Charles Evans Hughes.

Silly and sweeping charges, such as that Mr. Hughes, who came into public life because he broke up by means of the insurance investigation the unholy alliance between "big business" and politics, was the Wall street candidate, I have ignored. Contentions, unsupported by facts, that Hughes would get this country into war, or that he is supported by or has treated with a German-American alliance so closely approach an insult to the intelligence of your readers that I have purposely ignored them. Everyone in this country knows that he is 100 per cent American, that he welcomes the support of all Americans, regardless of what may be the land of their nativity or of their ancestry, and that when elected he will be President of the whole people. His motto is and will continue to be, "America first and America efficient."

Such baseless charges as that Mr. Hughes would repeal the income tax, the child labor bill, passed largely by Republican votes, the 8-hour legislation on the statutes—practically all of which was placed there by the Republicans—and that Mr. Hughes would get the United States into war I have treated as too obviously false to warrant lumbering your columns with denials. Josephus Daniels I have purposely ignored. It has seemed hardly manly to hit further a public official so positively and conclusively discredited, and there has been no doubt in my mind that the voters would remember that "a vote for Wilson is a vote for Daniels." I have simply endeavored to

AMERICAN FLIERS ARE MAKING GOOD WITH THE FRENCH

(By United Press)
Grand Headquarters, French armies, Nov. 4.—Following months of hard fighting at Verdun, the American aviation squadron, attached to the French squadron, have been transferred to the Somme front and are now in the center of the greatest aerial activities. The American flyers participated in the reconnaissance missions preceding the French victory at Verdun, acting under General Novelle in a bold dash over the recaptured forts of Douaumont and Vaux. Their transfer to the Somme at this time is considered the highest possible mark of France's confidence in their ability.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Well-known local druggist says everybody is using old-time recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

present to your readers concrete reasons why they should vote for Mr. Hughes. If I have exceeded my labor has been well repaid, and I desire to take this opportunity to thank the editor for the space he has so kindly placed at my disposal.

BIG DEVELOPMENT MEETING IS PLANNED FOR WASHINGTON

J. B. Sparrow, president of the Chamber of Commerce, this morning received a letter from the Southern Settlement and Development Organization of Baltimore, relative to the holding of a big meeting in Washington, similar to those held in other points in the South. The letter reads as follows:

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 31, 1916. Mr. John B. Sparrow, President, Chamber of Commerce, Washington, N. C.

Dear Sir: I have your letter of October 26th and I have very carefully noted contents. It was forwarded to me here at our Chicago office from Baltimore.

As I understand it, you are opening communications with me and through me with the Southern Settlement and Development Organization, with a view to interesting our activities in behalf of your section along the same lines as were exhibited at Tampa, Florida, Moultrie, Georgia, and Orangeburg, South Carolina.

On behalf of the Organization, I desire to thank you and through you the members of your Chamber of Commerce for this very kind invitation.

At the present time, there is a very large amount of work before the executive officers of this Organization. When we completed the statewide meeting at Orangeburg, South Carolina, I desisted all further efforts along this line for the immediate future. I did, however, talk with Dr. Yager with a view to ultimate work along this line in the state of North Carolina, and suggested that in all probability Washington was the place that should receive our initial efforts.

As I said above, I am very glad indeed to receive your letter. It is our intention and our earnest wish to do exactly this kind of work in the state of North Carolina and I would be mightily pleased to have the initial efforts apply to the territory about Washington.

I expect to go South the latter part of November or sometime the early part of the month of December and I am going to make a very earnest endeavor to stop off in Washington and become acquainted with you and your colleagues and the Chamber of Commerce.

Sincerely yours, CLEMENT S. UCKER, Vice-President.
