

Comedy-Drama By Local High School

The senior class of Southport high school will on Friday night, May 3, in the high school auditorium present a three-act comedy-drama, "The Red-Headed Step-child." The play starts at 8:00 o'clock. A red-headed step-child always brings forth everybody's sympathy. The heroine of this play is no exception. She has been reared on a cattle ranch in Montana and at the age of twenty-one is brought by her father to a cultured eastern atmosphere in Chicago. Her step-mother who has never seen her before is naturally cold towards her.

Imagine yourself in the step-child's place, being treated like an outcast. How would you like to be reared like a cowboy and then have to raise yourself up to the standards of a group of high class society aristocrats? There are only two people in the play that talk in the stepchild's language; they are Dudley, her foster brother, and George Garrison, her foster sister's supposed fiancé.

Later on in the play, George Garrison becomes so attached to the stepchild that there is a question in his mind as to which one he prefers for a sweetheart. There is laughter, fun and romance throughout the entire play. —Contributed.

Rain In Most Of Brunswick Sunday

A good general rain fell throughout the greater part of Brunswick County Sunday afternoon, bringing relief to farm and truck crops that were beginning to need rain. There was only a slight shower in Southport and vicinity.

County Agent J. E. Dodson said this week that crops in this county are looking particularly good for this season of the year and he said that tobacco prospects are particularly bright.

CHAPEL SPEAKER

C. L. Stevens was chapel speaker at the Southport high school last Wednesday morning, delivering a short talk on "Citizenship." Mr. Stevens has been on the chapel program at the local school each month during the current school term.

HERE FOR WEEK-END

Representative R. E. Sentelle and Senator S. Bunn Frink spent the past week-end at their respective homes in Southport.

Chinese Laundryman Ordered Held For Hit-And-Run Trial

Sheriff Jones' Story Sheriff C. David Jones of New Hanover County was the next witness to testify. He said that Howe had told him Thursday morning, following his arrest, that he had spent Sunday night in Conway, S. C. He said that he had left Conway early Monday morning and after having trouble with his car passed the scene where the child was killed early Monday morning.

When he saw about the hit-and-run case in the paper, Howe told the Sheriff that he remembered that the description fitted his brother's car which he was driving and that "it might have been me." Howe said that he started to go to the police and tell them the story and said that the reason he did not was that he was "so busy in the laundry."

Howe told Sheriff Jones that he did not recall seeing the child at the time he passed the school bus and that if he hit the child, he did not know it. Sheriff Jones said that Howe surrendered to him voluntarily.

Robinson's Story

The next witness, Harry Robinson, told the story that the crowd had been waiting to hear. On Tuesday morning, 24 hours after the accident, Mr. Robinson said that he got in his car and set out to find some trace of the car that had killed the Hewett child. He had met the car the morning before as it sped away from the scene of the accident and had identified it as a dark Plymouth coupe of a late model. Beginning at Romie Lewis' filling station near the South Carolina line, Mr. Robinson said that he checked every filling station along the highway for trace of a Plymouth coupe that had passed there on Monday morning.

At Leland Bellamy's filling station, near Myrtle Beach, S. C., he learned that a 1934 model Plymouth coupe had stopped there about 7:30 Monday morning and had purchased a battery. Filling station operators said that the driver was a Chinaman and that he was from Wilmington.

Seek Chinaman

Mr. Robinson and Deputy Willie Joe McLamb of Brunswick County, who was with him, then went to Wilmington and got in touch with Wilmington and New Hanover County officers in an effort to learn if a Chinaman in Wilmington owned a 1934 model Plymouth coupe. It was reported that Lee Gin Howe owned a car of this description but it was also reported that this man and his car were both being held in Whiteville on a liquor charge.

Thrown off the track, Mr. Robinson and his partner returned to Bellamy's filling station in an effort to get some further information. They learned that there is a Chinese laundry in Conway, S. C., and decided to go to Conway to see if the owners of the laundry could give some information concerning the driver of the car that had stopped at the filling station Monday morning for battery service.

Police officials in Conway found out that Lee Gin Howe of Wilmington had spent Sunday night in Conway. He left early Monday morning and was driving a 1934 Plymouth coupe, it was learned. Mr. Robinson and Deputy McLamb left Conway shortly before midnight Tuesday and returned to Wilmington. They told officers of their information and a search was begun for the Plymouth coupe. In the early hours of Wednesday morning it was found parked near the laundry which Howe and his brother operate.

Brother Arrested Lee Gin Howe, brother of the defendant, was arrested by police but he refused to give any information concerning where his brother could be found. The search for Lee Gin Howe continued all that night, all day Wednesday until Wednesday night when word was received by sheriff Jones that the defendant would give himself up Thursday morning.

In the meantime, the Plymouth coupe was impounded. Examination revealed that the right front fender and the license plate were slightly bent. The car was found to have a new battery of the make sold at the Bellamy filling station. Sergeant Smith offered a number of corroborated testimonies, reporting the evidence offered by Sheriff Jones and Mr. Robinson. M. B. Register and J. E. Sibley were also questioned briefly.

No testimony was offered by the defendant. He was represented by Attorney L. Clayton Grant of the Wilmington bar, who, at the conclusion of the testimony, asked Judge Phelps to make the bond just as reasonable as possible. He suggested a bond of $500. Judge Phelps liked the figures, but didn't think there were enough of them and set the bond at $5,000.

By consent, the defendant will be held in the New Hanover County jail pending his trial, the October term of Brunswick County Superior Court.
