GOING THROUGH
 President Roosevelt left word in South Carolina Wednesday that the $37,500,000 Santee-Cooper power and navigation project is "going through," but that only $500,000 in PWA funds already allotted would be available for it during the fiscal year ending next July 1.

NEGRO CAPTURED
 Campbell Starnes, negro wanted for the slaying Friday of Deputy Sheriff W. A. Dameron, of Gastonia, was captured Saturday by Arthur Pasour, a farmer, who surprised the negro in the Sunnyside section. Pasour reported he recognized the negro walking along through the country. The farmer, carrying a gun, hid behind a clump of brush and as Starnes passed, leaped out and held him at the point of his gun. The negro dropped his own weapon.

KILLED
 Al Stern, who police theorized may have been a "trigger man" in the massacre of Dutch Schultz and three of his mobsters, was found dead Saturday beyond the power to aid officials in their attempts to clarify New York's latest outbreak of underworld warfare.

HEAVY TOLL
 Reports Saturday indicated that hundreds of persons were drowned in the Jeremie and Jacmel regions of the island last weekend in torrential rains which accompanied the Caribbean hurricane. The reports said 96 bodies have been recovered at Jacmel, where the death toll may reach 1,000.

 Heavy majorities in favor of continuance of an AAA corn-hog program in 1926 were recorded Saturday night in the first fragmentary returns from the national corn-hog referendum.

NEUTRAL
 The United States through Secretary Hull Saturday night reaffirmed its stand of independent neutrality toward the Italo-Ethiopian war, but expressed "sympathetic interest" in efforts by others to bring a halt to armed conflict.

FARM FACTS

By E. T. BRIGHT
 Bolivia Agricultural Teacher
 Since the frosts of several nights has bitten the potato vines the talk is now of digging. However, the yield will be small due to the dry weather for several weeks. The crop should be dug as soon as the vines are bitten in order to get as many eatable potatoes as possible. Care should be exercised in digging to prevent bruising. Take time to cull the potatoes in the field taking out all cut, small or bruised ones. Store only sound potatoes which are free from black rot. Since there will be a number of small potatoes remember the livestock. The Kansas Experiment Station says, "Since potatoes are a succulent feed they fulfill the same purpose as green feed. Milk produced on a potato ration showed no off flavors and the butter was also excellent in quality and showed no tendency towards softness. Potatoes should be chopped to prevent choking. Potatoes have a laxative effect, but if fed with hay and grain the tendency to digestive disturbances is kept down. In feed value they are worth as much as one-third of a ton of hay."

To the housewife—a few suggestions: If you have toast left over or pieces of bread or biscuits, toast and grind in sausage mill and put away in a jar. You will find uses for such in soups, egg omelets and the like. Also to make toast more appetizing mix white cream cheese with three tablespoonsful of catsup and spread thickly. Cover toast with thin slices of tomato and hard boiled egg. Top with mayonaisse or sauce.

DEER HUNTING
 The local deer hunters have been very successful this season so far, having killed several nice bucks.

PLANS TO MAKE SURVEY OF AGED IN THIS COUNTY

 the county in order that I may be able to explain to the people what is now known about the Social Security Act insofar as it pertains to aged individuals. There has been much speculation as to just how this program will be handled, and we are not able to announce any definite method of handling the program as yet. But we have been asked to make certain investigations and gather up certain information to be transmitted to the state and federal offices. This will require a registration of all people of sixty five years of age or older who do not have an income of $30.00 per month or more.

"I hope to be able to devise a plan for this registration before your next issue is published, as we are very anxious to have this registration finished within the next month or six weeks. We already have the forms in hand which must be used for each old person, and our problem is to arrive at the best method of getting these forms filled out properly for each old person. This office will notify the people as soon as possible who will do this work, and where they may report, but in the meantime it will only complicate matters for them to try to get registered before the announcement is made.

"I think now that this registration should be made by townships, but the machinery for this registration will have to be worked out to perfection before we can begin.

"This registration is one for purely statistical purposes, and for study by the authorities in Raleigh and Washington, and when one becomes registered it does not necessarily mean that one is eligible for federal funds under the National Social Security Act. As a matter of fact as it stands now there is considerable question as to whether North Carolina can participate in this act until further legislation by the state can be passed.

"In any event however, we do want every old person of sixty-five or older to fill out a form, where this person does not have an income of $30.00 a month or more."

MAN EXONERATED OF ALL BLAME IN DEATH OF CHILD

 about to leave Wilmington to return to his home, he said that several persons who live in his home neighborhood requested him to wait until 1 o'clock and carry them out to Winnabow. He said that he and his passengers left Wilmington about 1:30. As he was approaching the Jackie's Creek bridge Mr. Collins said that it suddenly "peared to me like my truck riz up and flew." It ran off the embankment on the right side of the road, he continued, and into a pine tree. Mrs. Willets was sitting beside him in the cab of the truck and was holding her little daughter in her arm. When the collision occurred they were thrown to the floor of the truck, according to Mr. Collins. The witness further testified that he was traveling about 15 miles per hour at the time of the accident and that he was on the right hand side of the road. On cross-examination he expressed an opinion that the child was killed at the moment the two trucks came together. He declared that he heard no signal horn from the truck seeking to pass him.

Bender said that he was delivering gasoline in this county on the afternoon of September 3. As he was approaching the Jackie's Creek bridge that afternoon, he said he noticed a Ford truck ahead of him. The truck was on the left hand side of the road and while he was still about 200 feet away, Bender said he blew his horn. The truck then turned to the right hand side of the road, according to Bender, and he started to pass. Just as he was passing the rear end of the truck, he continued, it veered sharply toward the center of the road. Bender said that he cut his wheel to the left but was not able to avoid a collision. He said that he looked out his window and saw the other machine run down the embankment and into a tree. He said that he parked his truck beside the road and went back to render whatever assistance possible. He said that one of the first things he saw was a liquor bottle which dropped from out of the cab of the Collins truck. He said that he had been traveling about 30 or 35 miles per hour but that he had slowed down to about 25 miles per hour in order to pass the truck. On cross examination he admitted that he had been involved in another accident that had resulted in the death of a child, but that he had been exonerated from all blame.

UNCLE FRANK GORDON TAUGHT SCHOOL FOR FIFTY-FIVE YEARS

 shared with his brothers and sisters. If he had a bad day, the Gordon children ate mulberries for lunch.

The colored school term extended for only two or three months in those days and the teachers usually were white ladies of the community.

Because he had been diligent in his school work whenever he had a chance, Uncle Frank was drafted when he was 20 years old for teaching service in the county. However, he was not content to allow his education to stop simultaneously with his formal schooling, and throughout the years he read and studied, preparing himself to be a better teacher for the colored children of Brunswick county.

One impressive example of his quest for knowledge occurred when an educated colored man from the north came to Southport. Fractions had always been difficult for him to solve, according to Uncle Frank, so he paid the northern visitor five cents for every two examples until he had mastered this field of simple arithmetic.

Uncle Frank was born on March 4, 1856, and was 9 years old when the Civil War came to a close. As a slave he was owned by John C. Swain, who had a farm near Southport. Uncle Frank says that he remembers when there was fighting at Fort Fisher. His unusual memory makes him a good authority on other historical events which occurred in Southport during past three-quarters of a century. The old man spoke of the improvement that has taken place in colored education. He first started to school, had had a chance to go to schools like they have today, said, "I could have been a place in colored education. Then a happy look appeared on his face as he added "I have taught more children in this county to and write than any other son."

Whiteville Attorney Swims

 he admitted he undertook for his personal satisfaction was finally able to reach his destination. Mr. Greer admitted that feat was a great test of endurance, and the last two miles which he took in reaching Dock Street wharf in Wilmington, rendered him completely unconscious. He fished out of the water, quickly revived.

During the marathon intervals by persons in a following him. They peeled oranges and handed them to him during his 12 hour feat. This is not the only swimmer to the Whiteville man. He has swum Lake Camaw seventeen times the mile way, and the greatest he ever made on such a swim was the same year he swam from Wilmington to Southport when he swam the five mile one hour and 55 minutes.

He has received a great many medals for excellence in aquatic arts.
