New Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetion are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel turret top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master De Luxe models. Either Knee-Action or conventional springing may be had in the Master models. The illustrations show: Top left, the Master De Luxe sedan, with built-in trunk; top right, the re-styled, deeply moulded radiator grille, used on all models; lower left, the simple arrangement of Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all models; and, lower right, a Standard sedan.

Make-Believe

America's biggest air liner droned slowly over tropical seas Saturday night, theoretically flying the Pacific in dress rehearsal for the soon to be inaugurated plane service between California and the Orient. The big four-engined plane was being flown at restrained throttle by Captain Musick in order to determine the maximum range possible with the twelve tons of fuel, 4,000 gallons, carried in the hull and wing tanks.

Back To Work

A report on the progress of the $4,000,000 program to end the dole revealed today that it has not yet provided as many work relief jobs as the relief administration did last year. The Works Progress Administration said the new program had transferred 1,543,185 persons from relief rolls to work relief jobs up to October 26, the latest date for which figures were available. The number of relief cases receiving work program earnings in October last year was 1,998,161.

Talking Peace

Italy went to Geneva talking peace. "We are not running after peace," said a Mussolini spokesman at the League of Nations headquarters, "but we are not refusing to negotiate." There had been heard earlier some talk that with the sabre of sanctions hanging over his head, Premier Mussolini was even ready to consider withdrawing from such border conquests as his armies have made in Ethiopia; but this was not borne out in the unofficial statement of his spokesman at Geneva who said: "Any peace terms, to be acceptable to us, must recognize first our security needs and second our expansionist requirements. That means the actual territory so desperately needed for the expansion of our people."

Bank Robbers

Three youthful men held up two bank employees and two customers at the Apex branch of the Durham Loan and Trust Company Thursday afternoon and escaped with what bank officials estimated might total $1,000.

Earthquakes

Earthquakes caused by a geological stimulus of 35,000 years ago shook the eastern section of the United States today and scientists predicted more shocks will come. Damage along the eastern seaboard was slight, although thousands fled their homes as they felt beds buckle under them, chairs move along the floor, and saw pictures shake on the walls in the early morning hours.

Two Problems

Two problems—next year's relief program and America's future neutrality policy—stood out today from the host of others accumulating for the session of congress that begins January 3—two months from tomorrow. So many other issues are arising for consideration at the election year session, however, that there is little hope for the short, snappy term administration chieftains had planned.

Prodigal Returns

"I've had my day; now it's someone else's turn," ex-Mayor James J. Walker insisted when he was told on his arrival at New York after three years' exile aboard that he could again be elected mayor. With Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, beside him, he was bubbling over with happiness as he acknowledged the rousing, welcome that greeted his return.

The Wrong Way

North Carolina dries, after losing a fight to halt liquor sales in 16 of the state's 100 counties by injunction, Friday had left open to them another method—indictment and prosecution. The State Supreme Court Thursday dismissed appeals of the dries and asserted they had gone about obtaining their objective in the wrong way. The court, consequently, did not rule on the constitutionality of the local option liquor laws.

CERTIFICATES TO BE FILED BEFORE NOVEMBER 16th

The original ruling of the AAA was that all cotton sold prior to October 23 must be certified in the county agents' offices by November 1.

A 15-day extension has been granted in the time allowed for filing certificates from early sales, Criswell said, and the period including early sales has been extended through October 31. The certificates are necessary to qualify growers for the adjustment payments. On the certificates are recorded data regarding the date of sale, the amount of cotton sold, the names of the buyer and the seller, and other information.

The price adjustment payments to a grower will be the amount by which the average price of 7-8 inch middling cotton may fall short of 12 cents on the ten spot markets of the nation on the day the grower sells his cotton. However, the payments cannot exceed two cents a pound.

Consequently, Criswell pointed out, it is obvious that accurately filled out sales certificates are essential to calculating the amount of the adjustment payments.

VISITORS PRAISE LOCAL FACILITIES

Following her return to her studio in Chapel Hill Mrs. Wootten wrote a very interesting letter to friends here. Excerpts from this letter show the high opinion that many up-state residents have of Southport. A portion of the letter follows:

"With all the facilities that you have there, the deep water at the ocean edge, the nearest such water to the great shipping business of North Carolina and other states, it will be a wonderful thing if you get the terminal that you have dreamed of for years. I truly admire your ceaseless efforts to get this project through, and the unselfish work you are lavishing on it. I am looking forward with much pleasure to my next trip to Southport, and I appreciate the royal welcome that I had there."

TRACES HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

Martin Luther in 1522 translated the Bible into German and his translation is still used in Germany. But Wm. Tyndall's translation has been the dominating influence on all the English versions from that day to this. He suffered great persecution at the time he was translating the Bible, was driven into Germany, but from there he sent thousands of copies of the new Testament under cover, wrapped up in bales of cloth and smuggled into England in various ways. He was finally betrayed by a friend and thrown into prison, where he succeeded in translating all of the New Testament and as far as John 2nd in the Bible. He was convicted of being a heretic and strangled to death.

After Tyndales death Miles Coverdale finished translating the Bible from Chron 2nd, where Tyndale had stopped. It is said after all his persecutions that Tyndale could not have lived to see the whole Bible published in the English language a few years later. In the course of the next thirty years three versions appeared, which may be classed together as the Tyndale-Coverdale group. The first was called the Matthews Bible, editor by a friend of Tyndale's which was entirely Tyndale's translation as far as Chron. 2nd, finished by Coverdale. There was a preface dedicating it to King Henry and a license permitting to be sold within the Kingdom. This showed a great change in sentiment and was a complete vindication of Tyndale after all his sufferings on account of it. The next year Miles Coverdale was called to service and asked to prepare a new edition which he did. He took Tyndale's translation as the basis, not his own, of which only the latter part was his personal work. This second Tyndale-Coverdale version was known as the "Great Bible," because of its large size.

To show the great change in sentiment in the course of those thirty years, the King ordered a copy of this edition to be set up in every church in the Kingdom, and in St. Paul's church in London six copies were set up in different parts. So great was the enthusiasm that people came in crowds to read the Bible. The Bishop complained that many people read at the time of service and during the sermon evidently finding the new Bible more interesting than the sermon. Thus at last, had Tyndale with Coverdale's help brought the entire Bible even to the boy who followed the plow. The Psalms in the Episcopal prayer book as used today are taken from the Great Bible and are Coverdale's translation, as Tyndale's only went as far as 2nd Chronicles. They were retained in spite of many errors, because the people come to love Coverdale's wording. It was he who introduced into the Bible the expressions: "Loving Kindness," and "Tender Mercy." The Great Bible was revised thirty years later and became the "Bishops Bible."

There were two other English versions which were much used. One called the Geneva Bible, the work of Puritan exiles during bloody Mary's reign; another called the Rheims-Dovay Bible, by Roman Catholic exiles after Elizabeth succeeded Mary, the Geneva Bible was very popular. It was published in 1560, twenty-five years after the first one, and was a small, convenient size in clear Roman type. It was the Bible used by Shakespeare, and many copies were probably brought to America on the May Flower by the Pilgrim fathers.

In January, 1604, soon after Queen Elizabeth's death, and James the 1st had come to the throne, a conference of church leaders was called by the King to discuss certain religious questions, and it was suggested that a new translation of the Bible be made. King James favored the idea at once, partly because he was himself something of a scholar and liked to display his learning and partly because he was also dissatisfied with some of the versions. So, with the King's support, plans were carried out for a new translation, about fifty of the leading scholars in the Kingdom were selected and divided into six groups: two in Cambridge, two in Oxford, and two in London. A certain section was given to each group and a committee representing all the groups went over the entire work and prepared it for the press. It was published in 1611, and has taken its place as one of the masterpieces of English literature, due to the eagerness and good judgment with which its authors kept all that was best in earlier versions. It was the product of no single individual but rather of an Epoch and that Epoch one of the greatest and noblest in English history. That is the Bible we are using today.

The last revision of the Bible was begun in 1870 and was finished in 1885 and was done by leading English and American scholars. There was a committee of thirty-seven for the Old Testament and twenty-seven for the New Testament. There was a similar committee in the United States and the suggestions of these American scholars were carefully considered by the English committee. This is known as the English revision. There was still room for further improvement so the American committee continued the work until 1901, when they published an American revised version. The revised New Testament is much more satisfactory than the Old. It is so difficult to correct the Hebrew text. The American standard version is now widely recognized as the most accurate translation among English speaking people.

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's the effect of Malaria. Unless checked the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, can be cured in two ways. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tannin, quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Please take and absolutely harmless. Side give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1.00 size contains 2 1/2 times as much as 50c size and gives you 25% more your money.
