A new Baptist church or just an addition to the old; which shall it be? The brethren of that church at least mean that it shall be something. They met Friday afternoon not to talk, but to work. With saws and axes they prepared over a thousand feet of timber, felled on the church lot. for the mill to be used in whatever way it seems best at next conference. Other timber has also been promised The ladies are wishing that timber could be turned into brick and a new structure erected of the brick. They have a neat little sum ready to help out when plans are fully developed.
