WACCAMAW SCHOOL NEWS

GEOGRAPHY LECTURE

Mrs. Jannie Kranig of New York City, who is visiting relatives and friends in Waccamaw community, visited Waccamaw school last Tuesday and made a very interesting talk to the fifth grade geography class about the cities in the Northeastern part of the United States. Mrs. Kranig, formerly of Waccamaw district, has traveled extensively in the northeastern states. She brought to the geography class many interesting facts about Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Pa., Trenton, N. J., and New York City.

Since we have been studying these cities in our geography book our teacher, Miss Perkins, asked us to take notes on what Mrs. Kranig told us. The following is a brief sketch of the notes I took.

Washington, D. C., the Capital of our nation, is a very beautiful, well-planned city. Here you see the capital building in about the center of the city. You also see the White House, the home of the president of the U. S. In the distance you see Washington's Monument, a marble shaft five hundred fifty-five feet high, and the Lincoln Memorial, a stone building surrounded by columns and designed after the Greek style of architecture. The city has many beautiful buildings in which Government work is transacted, and most of the people who live in the city do government work.

Baltimore is the most southerly of the great manufacturing and commercial seaports of the northeast. It is located in a vegetable growing region and has become one of the greatest canning centers in the United States.

Philadelphia is a city with many tall buildings. It is a great business district as well as manufacturing center. The city is located on a hilly place across from Camden, N. J., on the Delaware river.

Trenton is the capital city of New Jersey. It is a large city with many tall buildings. Government work is the chief work done here.

New York city is the largest city in the United States. It is a city of many tall buildings. Fifth Avenue is a very busy street. The styles of the nation may be seen in the stores on this street. On St. Patrick's Day the Irish people in New York had a parade on this Avenue.

Wall street has many tall buildings on either side. Here is where much of the nation's money matters are transacted.

Broadway is a very wide street with tall buildings also. There are many theatres on this street.

Many nice homes of the rich people of New York City are on Park Avenue.

The slums in New York City is where all kinds of people of the poorest class live. There are sections where people of different races and nationalities live. Many gangsters came from the slums. The Hudson river divides New York from New Jersey. This river has a tunnel under it.

The East river is very large. There is a place on the bridge for all things to travel on, like automobiles, trucks, trolleys, trains and people who walk.

Southport, N. C. April 7, 1941

Editor, State Port Pilot, Southport, N. C. Dear Sir,

I want to take this opportunity to say that I consider the citizens meeting held in the Brunswick county courthouse on Thursday evening a step toward perfecting in this community an organization which will be able to work for the best interest of all.

As I see it, there is a need for an organization that will give all the citizens a voice in and a responsibility for the civic betterment of our community. I believe that we have done the right thing in setting machinery in motion before there is an announcement of some big project, and I feel sure that our people will cooperate fully with the efforts of the committee named Thursday night.

Yours very truly, Price Furples

ORTON GARDENS ARE READY FOR EASTER VISITORS

(Continued from page one) inspecting the gardens with a party from New York, Mr. Bragaw showed a great batch of recent orders, calling for plants to be shipped to the four corners of the United States. Last week he had an order from Cuba.

Hardly more than a year ago Mr. Bragaw spent six weeks or more in California and other western states and in Florida in the south, acquiring a new and wonderful collection of flowers, plants and shrubbery. All these new acquisitions, even to the tropical fruits, have done well and are adding to the Orton charms for the tourists. Then, last fall, Orton acquired a beautiful Reticulata camellia, the most rare and unusual camellia ever known to bloom. It was brought all the way from England, via Canada, and is bidding fair to be outstanding among the more than 350 other varieties of beautiful camellias that grow in the Orton Gardens.

Orton and its flowers are a priceless advertisement asset to Brunswick county and the whole of North Carolina. Mixed with the beauty of bloom, there is always found old fashioned southern hospitality and courtesy which many people have read about and very few have seen.

JUDGE BURNEY TALKS STRAIGHT TO GRAND JURY

(Continued from page 4) lion dollars a year. But this covers the cost of educating 32,500,000 youngsters in our schools and colleges. When you consider the magnitude of our educational system, the cost is not so staggering.

"On the otherhand, let us look at the cost of crime each year in the United States. Authentic figures for 1939 show an estimated cost of fifteen billion dollars for crime during that 12-months period. Our murder rate runs about 12,000 persons each year. Over one-third of the murderers are never captured, and less than 1-percent ever pay the prescribed death penalty.

"Now, why have we allowed the growth and development of this criminal empire? Why do we show so little concern for the future of our nation?"

"Education and the abolition of poverty will do more than any other thing to control the growth of crime in our country, and the most important contribution that we older folks can make to youth is to develop a sympathetic understanding with our boys and girls.

"We'll have to remember that they live in a world that differs greatly from the conditions under which we were reared. Automobiles, the wrong type of movies, sexy magazines and many other things have greatly increased the temptations which they face.

"But, the thing that worries me most," Judge Burney continued, "is the fact that the American people apparently have lost sight of everything except the all-mighty dollar. When God asked Solomon what he desired more than all things else, he asked to be given a heart of understanding, that he might be able to discern right from wrong. If God were to ask that same question of Americans today, the chances are that most of His requests would be for wealth and power or for long life.

"We need more men who would answer as Solomon did". Judge Burney instructed the new jurors fully as to their duties of inspecting the various offices and institutions of the county, cautioning them particularly to investigate the safety of the school buses.
