

Cape Fear Club Holds Meeting

The Cape Fear Club met with Mrs. John Ramsauer July 22 at 3:30 o'clock at her home which has always been known as the Big House at the Pleasant Oak Plantation. The club meeting was presided over by Mrs. Margrete McRacken, since the club president and vice-president were absent. Mrs. Henry Smith, club president, had to remain home and nurse the vice-president, Mrs. Margaret Smith, who is just out of the hospital. Mrs. McRacken called the meeting to order with all saying the pledge to the Flag and singing "America the Beautiful" and all saying "The American Creed."

The roll was called and minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary.

All the members present decided to have their planned recreation meeting in September so that Miss Eakes can be present with them. The club members have planned a picnic supper for the September meeting.

Mrs. McRacken read an article of precaution on how to use the flag and how it should not be used.

Miss Eakes showed the club members different articles she had canned, such as fruits and vegetables. She gave an interesting demonstration on "Food Preservation," telling the club members that there is a new type steam pressure cooker being made but is not perfected yet. She also told the club members of how they can stretch their sugar by using honey or syrup up to 1/2 and the other one-half sugar. Booklets were given out for jelly, preserves, jam and pickles, also one home canning of fruits, vegetables, meat, peaches, pears, beans, tomatoes were shown and she warned that there are many who over-cook their things they can. She stressed the fact that all who can may have to resort to the drying of fruits and vegetables that all who can may find sooner or later canning material or things for use hard to get because of the war. She told the value of drying the things now being canned and how they have the same value and are liked.

Those present were: Mrs. Margrete McRacken, her mother, Mrs. Baxton Craig, of Monroe, Mrs. Joe Ramsauer and two daughters, Joan and baby sister, Carol Ann, Mrs. Jesse Knox and daughter, Emily, and Lillian Collins.

Mrs. John Ramsauer served delicious ice cream and assorted cakes and after that all those present were invited out under the spreading trees to a water-melon cutting which was enjoyed by everyone.

New Booklet Tells How All Can Help

Civilian Defense Office Gets Supply For Distribution

"How can I help win the war?" Answering that often-asked question, the County Council of Civilian Defense has just received from the State Office at Raleigh a supply of the new booklet "What Can I Do," for free distribution in this county.

Attractively bound in a red, white, and blue cover, the booklet contains 48 pages of concrete suggestions for universal participation in the war effort. It is directed especially to people with the will to fight on the Home Front, but who do not have the time necessary for service on committees and to take the training courses necessary for participation in many phases of Civilian Defense.

Pointing out that nearly half the population of the nation, 53,000,000 lives in target areas, the book gives suggestions not only for protection but also for conservation, salvage, and other phases of the broadscale Home Front program vital to victory.

Explanation of the V-Home awards, to be made for compliance with Civilian Defense requirements, is also contained in this booklet, as well as description of various phases of the Citizens Defense Corps and of special duties for everyone — from accountants to wholesalers.

New Weed Types Are Developed

Two New Varieties Of Flue-Cured Tobacco Have Been Developed By The N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station

Two new varieties of flue-cured tobacco have been developed by the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station, in cooperation with the Bureau of Plant Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, it is announced by Dr. L. D. Bayer, Experiment Station director of N. C. State College. One of the varieties, now bearing the name "No. 401," will likely add $40 to $50 per acre to the income of tobacco growers, as compared with a number of other varieties they are growing, Dr. Bayer reported.

Both the No. 401 variety and the No. 400, the other new variety, have some resistance to diseases, the research leader said. The No. 400 is highly resistant to the black rot disease. The black root rot infests areas in the Old Belt (Piedmont area) and the No. 400 variety is not recommended for the New Bright or Border belts.

The No. 401 variety, however, is recommended for all flue-cured belts, Dr. Bayer said. It may be planted anywhere in the flue-cured area. The No. 401 variety was developed from a cross between the Cash and No. 400 varieties, and both of these varieties show some resistance to leaf spot diseases.

The State College official also announced that the Experiment

Station and the Bureau of Plant Industry have developed a very satisfactory variety that is resistant to the Black Shank disease. This variety, as yet unnamed, may be released for the 1943 season.

"A resistant variety to Granville Wilt and Mosaic also appears in sight," said Dr. Bayer. "The three diseases — Black Shank, Granville Wilt and Mosaic — cost the tobacco farmers of the flue-cured area well over a million dollars annually."
