Recommended For Officer's Training

ITALY - Membership in the first class of the new Infantry Officer's Training School, recently opened in the Mediterranean Theatre of Operations, is the latest honor in the military career of Master Sergeant Herbert A. Nichols, 31, of Columbia, S. C.

The announcement was made by Command, MTOUSA. Sgt. Nichols, who has been in the Army eleven months, was among the successful applicants selected for instruction at the newest installation of The Replacement and Training Command, which is commanded by Brigadier General L. C. Jaynes. Sgt. Nichols had been taking training at the Infantry Conversion Training Center, along with thousands of others being converted from every branch of the service into combat infantrymen in conformity with the national policy of manpower conservation.

Sgt. Nichols is the son of Mrs. E. G. Nichols, Naval Section Base, Southport.

Colored School Needs New Building

Principal A. C. Caviness and Vocational Agriculture Teacher A. L. Scales, of the colored Brunswick County Training School at Southport, are making an effort for more adequate vocational training facilities at the school. In this effort they are being assisted by the entire faculty and by patrons and friends of the school.

It is found necessary that the school have a larger vocational shop, one that will include a classroom for theory and lecture, also for practical shop training. A cannery is also needed. Plans have been made for such a shop but it is necessary for the school and its friends to furnish funds for part of the material needed. The school board will furnish the other part.

Is Making Good With The Waves

Completing her course at Stillwater, Oklahoma, WAVE Evelyn Autry, former deputy Register of Deeds for Brunswick County now on leave of absence, has been promoted to Seaman, 1st Class. She has been spending the past week here and is leaving today to continue her training at Williamsburg, Va. She is slated for the rating of Yeoman on finishing at Williamsburg.

OPENS NEW CAFE

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Lewis have remodelled the lower floor of the Pack Tharp building and converted it into a very nice cafe. With everything new and nicely arranged they began business this week.

Mrs. Edna Bell returned after spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. Tom Gold, in High Point.

Make Chicks Add To Meat Supply

War Food Administration Recommends Chickens As One Of Quickest Ways To Build Meat Supply

The following from the A. A. A. office at Supply should interest farmers, and others in this county, who may be worrying over the meat shortage.

Farmers of Brunswick County can make a definite contribution toward increasing the nation's supply of meat by raising chickens for meat during the coming weeks. Civilian consumption of red meat during 1945 is expected to be no more than 126 pounds per person, compared with about 147 pounds last year. One of the quickest ways to increase the total meat supply is to increase the number of chickens raised and marketed for meat.

Civilian consumption of chicken in 1944 was 24 pounds per capita, but the present prospects for this year are only about 20 pounds per person. One of the principal reasons for this is that military purchases now are taking practically all the broilers produced in the four major producing areas and all the canned chicken. Military requirements for this year are estimated at 670,000,000 pounds.

To encourage production of more chicken for meat, national ceiling prices on broilers, fryers, and roasters will be advanced an average of 1.3 cents per pound on July 1. For producers in this county, this means an increase of 1.0 cent per pound in the ceiling price.

Farmers who get their chickens now can have them ready for market before the usual fall supply of red meats moves to market. There appears to be an adequate supply of brooder houses, feed, and other production facilities for farmers to increase substantially their production of chickens for marketing for meat during the summer.

The War Food Administration has contacted hatcheries to encourage them to expand hatching operations this spring to supply extra chicks needed for marketing this summer and that the numbers available to Brunswick County produce should be sufficient to meet demands.

BETTER PREPARED

In the matter of boats and equipment the shrimp trawlers along the coast of Brunswick county have never been half so well prepared as they are now for carrying on their business. They are set to produce foodstuffs from the ocean in quantities never before produced on this section of the coast.

The one handicap, so far as is now known, lies in the fact that they only charted waters for fishing are close inshore. Outside at distances of 20, 30 and 40 miles a vastly superior quality of prawn is known to exist. What prevents the use of these offshore grounds is that they have never been surveyed to determine and mark the location of obstacles to trawling.

If the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development wants to do something for this section of the coast within the meaning of the word "development," it should secure assistance from the Federal Bureau of Fisheries in Washington and have these offshore shrimp trawling grounds surveyed and the obstacles marked.

Large Sum Goes To Lunch Programs

RALEIGH. — The 930 schools in North Carolina having approved school lunch programs have received approximately $1,650,000 this school year in reimbursements for meals served to their 213,040 pupils, it is announced by Mrs. Louine M. Moore, supervisor of the program which is sponsored in the State Department of Public Instruction, with the War Food Administration and the State Department of Agriculture cooperating.

Fertilizer Sales Higher This Year

RALEIGH. — Although prospects now point to a three per cent reduction in this production of crops in North Carolina this year, there is more than a three per cent gain in the amount of fertilizer being sold, D. S. Coltrane, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, recently reported.

From July 1, 1944, through March 31, tag sales indicate that 1,141,288 tons of fertilizer have been sold. This is about 3.5 per cent above the 1,101,348 tons sold during the same period the previous year, according to Coltrane.

The U. S. Coast Guard fleet now numbers more than 5,000 vessels and is the fifth largest fleet in the world.

County Agent Gives Outline of "G. I. Bill of Rights" To Aid Returning Veterans

A. for the purpose of paying for land, buildings, livestock, equipment, machinery, or for repairing, altering or improving any buildings or equipment, to be used in bona fide farming operations to be conducted by the veteran.

B. for the purpose of construction of homes under appropriate circumstances.

(1) a guaranty pursuant to

This may be obtained if the loan is for the purpose of paying delinquent indebtedness, taxes, or special assessment on residential property owned by the veteran and used by him as his home. (This section is applicable to a veteran, only if it is his own home.)

(2) the purchase price must not exceed the reasonable normal value as determined by a proper appraisal.

(3) the purchase price must be within the veteran's ability to pay and succeed in his farming operation.

The local Certifying Committee will have the responsibility of certifying to the Veterans' Administration its opinion as to whether or not the proposed purchase price of the property to be acquired exceeds the reasonable normal value of the property.

As to the farming experience and as a prerequisite in securing a loan guaranty, it is necessary that the ability and experience of the veteran be such that there is reasonable likelihood that he will be able to perform the work which will be required of him in the kind of farming operations in which he expects to engage; that his character, industry, training and experiences are such that he is likely to perform successfully the various operations and to discharge the responsibilities that will be required of him.

As to the size and other limitations on operations in relation to a farm loan guaranty, the farming operations must be of sufficient size and productivity to enable an operator, operating under circumstances as to yields and prices, to derive sufficient subsistence and income from it to meet necessary living and operating expenses and debt obligations. The area of the farm unit and its composition must be carefully related to and reconciled with the type of operations which would be undertaken by a typical operator.

As to the upper limits of a loan guaranty under this Act, in no event will the aggregate of any or all guarantys in respect to one veteran exceed $2000 or at any time exceed 50 percentum of a loan or loans in relations to which guarantyes are extended whether such loans are for the purchase of a farm or farm equipment, purchase of construction of a home, or the purchase of a business property. The maximum interest on a loan in connection with the extension of a loan guaranty is 4 percentum per annum.

In securing a loan guaranty, the following steps will be necessary: The veteran will first find it advisable to go to the Extension Advisory Committee for such advice as will be necessary, depending upon the individual case. If he locates the property which he wishes to purchase, he will find a lender who will make a loan for him for the purchase of the property. His application then must go to the Veterans' Administration for eligibility requirements. The Veterans' Administration will then mail the application stating whether or not the veteran is eligible for the type of assistance asked for. In case of real-estate, the lender at that time, will secure a land appraiser from the Farm Credit Administration.

The appraiser will return the appraisal report to the lender and at that time, the necessary documents will be prepared and mailed to the Veterans' Agricultural Loan Committee, which will be the local Farm Security Administration (FSA) Office at Shallotte for certification. If this Committee certifies this loan, it is then sent to the Veterans' Administration for final approval.
