Miss Johnson Is Bride Of Staff Sgt. Edward Clifford Liggett

In a ceremony characterized by dignity and simplicity, Miss Katherine Johnson, daughter of Major and Mrs. Daniel Russell Johnson, was united in marriage with Staff Sergeant Edward Clifford Liggett, son of Mrs. J. M. Liggett, and the late Mr. Liggett of Fairview Park, New Jersey, at New Hope Presbyterian church at Wintona.

The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon July 27 by the Rev. Edwin W. Hall, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church, Wilmington.

Southern smilax, white cathedral tapers, and white gladioli were combined to make a beautiful setting for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of mouseline de soie buttoned from the neck down the back below the waistline. The waistline and sweetheart neck were trimmed with insertions of Chantilly lace. The full skirt swept with a train of mouseline de soie. Her fingertip length veil of bridal illusion was fastened to a tiara of orange blossoms studded with pearls. She carried a white prayer book showered with orchids and swansonia.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Rebekah Johnson, who wore a floor length gown of Elizabeth crepe in rusia trimmed in silver and carried a bouquet of pink and lavender asters.

Staff Sergeant James Holt of Camp Davis, was Sergeant Liggett's best man, and Sergeant Edward Linn, Jr., and Sergeant Robert Sibert were ushers.

Prior to the ceremony the bride's sister, Mrs. R. B. Warner of Wilmington, and the bride's cousin, Mrs. S. V. Wilkins of Beaufort, presented a brief program of nuptial music. The traditional marches were used.

Mrs. Liggett was employed at the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad offices before accepting her present position at Camp Davis.

Sergeant Liggett was employed as an accountant in New York city before entering the Armed Forces. He received his education at New York university. He has served in the China-Burma-India theatre of war for 27 months.

The bride's parents received informally at the traditional cake-cutting following the rehearsal on Thursday night. The dining room table was covered with a Chinese blue cloth centered with a bowl of white carnations and maiden-hair fern flanked with cathedral tapers in silver candleabra. A three-tiered wedding cake was at one end of the table and a silver punch bowl at the other. After the bride couple cut the cake, Miss Sallie Betts Kfox finished serving. Mrs. J. M. Harper of Southport and Miss Helen Taylor of Wintona, cousins of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. The lower floor of the home was entirely illuminated by candlelight.

Food Is Essential To Freedom From Want

We are a free people. This cannot be said in a large part of this war-torn world. However, we Americans are resolved to go on until the blows are struck that will assure a complete victory, and with it a new day for we lovers of freedom, everywhere on this good earth.

This is a fight between a slave world and a free world. Just as the United States in 1862 could not remain half slave and half free, so in 1945 the world must and has made its decision for complete victory and lasting peace.

We are in the final stages of this fight to the death between the free world and the slave world. As we enter these stages, may I refresh your memory about the march of freedom for the common man—us? The idea of freedom—the freedom that you and I know as citizens of the United States—is derived from the Bible with emphasis on the dignity of the individual.

The prophets of the Old Testament were the first to preach social justice. Moses was the man who, during his time saw with the help of God, the need and necessity of a government of the people, by the people and for the people and first put our form of government into practice. His, it is true, was not adequate but as a Christian nation, we are following his teachings. Our great nation was born and formed according to this principle—free and equal—a century and a half ago. The march of the common people had just begun. Very few of our forefathers who came to this country could read or write. There were no public schools which their children could attend. Men and women cannot really be free until they have plenty to eat, and time and ability to read and think and to talk things over as we are doing now. We have moved forward through education, production and how to make a living. We have learned, and still are learning, the art of self-government.

We might measure freedom by standards of nutrition, education, and self government. If we would, the United States and certain European nations would rank high. Such measure would not be fair. Russia, for example, has changed from an illiterate nation to a literate nation in one generation, and in the process, Russia has learned to appreciate freedom. In China, the increase during the past 30 years in the ability to read and write has been matched by their increased interest in real freedom.

"If agriculture and education are adequate and in variety, and if men are free, there will be industry. If savings are secure from confiscation and debasement, there will be thrift; and industrious, thrifty people make a prosperous and rich nation" says E. Farrmille, in his book Hunger And History.

When the farmers have an opportunity to buy land at reasonable prices and when they can receive their fair share of the national income, when workers and farmers and businessmen can organize and bargain through their organizations, and when children have the opportunity to attend schools which teach them truths, then the world marches on.

Little did the wealthy German steel man realize what he was doing or what the outcome would be when he gave Hitler enough money to enable him to play on the minds of the German people. Hitler made the few wealthy Germans believe their money would be safer in the German government if he was "it." Unfortunately, once Hitler was let out of the bottle, he defied God himself and refused to listen to anyone and as long as we allow this spell to hold, the devil is turned loose upon the world. Since 1940 Satan, through Hitler, has been trying to lead and drive the common man of the whole world back into slavery. He has made his people think that they are the superior race, and what that spirit installed in their minds, he has dared to spit into the eye of God and man.

Hitler's stooges told him that the United States could produce hundreds of thousands of planes, but that we had no will to fight. The truth is that when the rights of the American people are stepped on, and they were really stepped on December 7, 1941, the American people will fight. They have fought and will continue to fight until we get what we want in the form of peace.

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt outlined to Congress four freedoms on January 6, 1941. These four freedoms were:

- Freedom of Religion
- Freedom of Expression
- Freedom from Fear
- Freedom from Want

We may not think there is anything very revolutionary about the first 3 freedoms, but when we think of the fourth freedom—freedom from want—we know that the revolution of the past 150 years has not been completed. Neither do we want this war over until freedom from want has actually been attained.

We have moved very near toward realizing these four freedoms. In a Memorial Service Saturday, April 14, for our beloved President who died on Thursday, April 12, the speaker compared his passing and his call to the Great Beyond with that of Moses. Moses lived to see the Promised Land when God called him and President Roosevelt saw victory in sight when his call came.

In the four freedoms outlined by our late president, we are hearing his goal. These four freedoms bring to my mind four duties.

1. The duty to produce to the limit.
2. The duty to transport as rapidly as possible to the field of battle.
3. The duty to fight with all that is in us.
4. The duty to build a peace—just, charitable and enduring.

The fourth duty is that which inspires the other three.

We failed in our job after World War I. We were not ready to follow our leader, Woodrow Wilson. We did not have the nerve or guts to follow through and prevent Germany from re-arming. We did not insist that she "learn war or more." We did not strive, wholeheartedly to create a world where there would and could be freedom from want for all people. The San Francisco conference had before them around the Peace Table the errors made in the last war, the experiences after the last war and the reactions after the last war. Let's pray God that these mistakes are not made again.

When peace does come—complete peace—the citizens will again have a duty, the duty of sacrificing the lesser interest for the greater interest of the general welfare. Those who write the peace must think of the whole world. There can be no privileged peoples. We, here in the good old United States, are no more of a master race than the German people.

As the peace is written, there cannot be any half measures. North, south, east, or west and middle west . . . the will of the American people is for complete victory.

We stand today at the crossroads in history. One road leads to famine, chaos and possibly, a return to barbarism. The other leads toward greater freedom and abundance. We cannot stand still. We must take one road or the other.

Where food is abundant and men are free, industry thrives and life is endowed with decency and dignity. We have the food and to spare, but we must not overlook the fact that the peace calls for no half measures. It is up to us to help our Allies get back on their feet.

DRIVE AGAINST Bogus Stamps
RALEIGH—Taking steps to curb the increasing number of counterfeit shoe coupons coming into the Raleigh district area, OPA District Director Theodore S. Johnson said yesterday that the agency is launching an enforcement drive against dealers accepting "bogus" stamps.

"The use of these phonies can be successful only when merchants accept loose stamps," Johnson said.

In order to be legally acceptable, shoe stamps must be torn from the War Ration Book in the presence of the merchant or his employee, Johnson asserted.

He pointed out also that enforcement action would be taken against merchants found in violation, adding that this would entail suspension of their right to deal in rationed shoes.
