MUTTERING—Editors of some North Carolina's larger newspapers are muttering in their offices these days about some information they picked up at the recent conference in Washington with Secretary of State James Byrnes. President Harry S. Truman, and other Government officials.

They aren't writing much about it, but Secretary of State Byrnes told them that Russia's next big request will be large hunks of North Africa. This would enable her to protect the Mediterranean outlet to the ocean. Reports from Washington are that Byrnes, a good old South Carolina boy now up to his neck in international

COUNTY COMMISSIONER

My friends tell me that my campaign is gaining strength every week. That's because of their help and influence.

I appreciate what they are doing to help me, and if nominated and elected I promise to do my best to be the kind of public official they can be proud of.

politics, is racked with worry and is really "standing in the need of prayer", as he so irreverently expressed it when leaving for Paris conference last week.

COMRADE—It now begins to look as if one of North Carolina's most powerful positions may go to J. Wade Hendricks of Statesville. Hendricks, commander of the Fifteenth District, is now being pushed hard for command of the North Carolina department of the American Legion for the year 1946-47.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks have long been prominent in Legion activities, and veterans believe the Fredell candidate may have a good opportunity of getting the post.

FOOD NOTE—In the same week that former President Herbert Hoover, now in Europe studying the food situation, declared that over a 100,000,000 citizens of that country are confronted with starvation, a large percentage of the food-rich students of Raleigh went on strike against "unbalanced" meals and other wrongs in the school cafeteria.

The irony of it is that most of these students come from some of the wealthiest homes in Raleigh out in Hayes Barton, where the average housewife probably wastes enough food from her kitchen in two days to feed a typical European family a week.

If you really want to know how we are wasting food in our North Carolina communities, have a little chat some day with your garbage-collector. He will tell you it is disgraceful!

SYRUP—They say that corn whiskey in the North Carolina and Tennessee mountains this spring is selling for $20 to $25 per gallon. The salesmen frankly tell buyers that it is not "good corn" at that, being made of cornmeal and a little of everything else. Like the housewife, the distillers are using syrup this year instead of sugar.

One old-line manufacturer remarked recently that he was "almost ashamed to say he made it." That's the story going around, anyhow.

SCARCITY—They say that there will be few drinks of any kind by fall—soft drinks, beer, wine, or whiskey.

HANDSHAKERS.—Negroes have little say-so in the election of North Carolina officials, but once they are elected, they are as accessible to the colored people as anybody else. Negro students in droves have been coming to Raleigh this spring and they all call on Governor R. Gregg Cherry. He not only receives them, but shakes hands with each and every one of them in the old democratic spirit. One day last week he grasped and shook, more or less vigorously, an estimated 300 proud colored hands. And in the month of April total gubernatorial handshakes, included both white and colored, likely ran as high as 3,000.

This will continue with ever-increasing tempo through May. It has become one of the duties of your Governor. Broughton did it, though tire and rationing kept it from becoming too arduous, and so have the other Governors. It's an indication of something, but what?

AGAIN—Remember R. E. Sentele? If you don't, skip on to the next item. Anyway, he's running for the Legislature again from Haywood County, where he now practices law. A former school superintendent in Brunswick County, if memory serves correctly, and a former legislator, he has extremely strong competition this time in the person of steady Glenn Palmer, who beat him badly two years ago and became ranking member of the House Agriculture Committee. Agriculture had no better friend in the Legislature in 1945 than Palmer.

NOTES—Two of the largest frozen food plants in the State are now being constructed at North Wilkesboro and Hendersonville—Politicians think that the nomination of Miss Jane Pratt, for many years secretary to Eighth District Congressmen, to succeed the late W. O. Burgin is a boost for Bill Horner—Raleigh expecting around 2,500 visitors for the State Democratic Convention Thursday, will not be able to find rooms for more than half that number—too many people living in hotels.

HUMBER—The current issue of Reader's Digest has an interesting word on Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greensville, who is opposing Congressman Herbert Bonner in the First Congressional District. Sheriff Victor Meekins of Dare County refers to the doctor as "something of a crank," and doubtless the sheriff has followers in this description. Dr. Humber studied at Wake Forest, Harvard, Oxford, and the Sorbonne, and is a Ph. D., and therefore won't be nominated, for North Carolina just doesn't send men of that ilk to Congress. But his candidacy is interesting just the same.

Dr. Humber has been working for some time on his "commonwealth of nations to be known as the Federation of the World," and 14 Legislatures, including North Carolina's, have adopted the pain.

But Northeastern North Carolina is more interested in its Congressmen knowing something about the floors and ceilings of Irish potatoes, and practical things like that, so Bonner will remain in Washington.

HEARD AND SEEN—Because of veterans' strength, look for more power from the Young Demos. They held their first big meeting since the beginning of the war last week in Winston-Salem—One thing wrong with them is that Democrats who are no longer young try to inject themselves, or their messengers, into the workings of the organization. The group has the same trouble you folks have with your Young Men's Sunday School Class: when does a man cease to be young? . . . Woodrow Teague, smart-as-a-whip WF law grad just home from Lt. Command in the Navy, is J. M. Broughton's new partner. Teague will carry on under the Broughton-Teague banner if JMB goes north in '48 . . . Raleigh, which defeated the airport bond vote, is now going after that ABC liquor money for the project . . . RGC heard last week that UNC is a "front" for liquor traffic.

Mrs. Hewett Is Club Hostess

The Boones Neck Home Demonstration club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sidney Hewett. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs.

Carvin Roach. "America the Beautiful" was sung, followed by the Collect of the Club Women of America.

Mrs. Hewett gave an interesting demonstration on cleaning the sewing machine.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Carvin Roach, Mrs. Velma Roach, Mrs. Clydie Hewett, Mrs. Eva Holden, Mrs. Mary Kirby, Mrs. Lillie Robinson, Mrs. Lillie Hewett and Miss Madeline Robinson.

GOOD GRAZING

"An acre in soy beans will keep 10 shoats in fine condition from the time when the plants are 15 inches high until the fall," said county agent Dodson this week. He was commenting on the fact that many farmers are now planting the beans to provide grazing for their hogs. The leavers of soy beans make an excellent hog feed and the plants will keep right on growing while the hogs are feeding upon them.
