

Rowin' Reporter continued from page one they nearly got the lives out of them when the Shallopers led at the end of the period of the tilt 16 to 2. By the hot dogs got warmed and Southport just took to take the game 25. It was a miracle they got with even such a narrow...

Describing a trip that he took last week through Virginia, West Virginia and portions of this state, Captain J. B. Church of Southport had some very favorable mention of all of the pretty girls he saw on the journey. But most impressive to the Southport skipper were the mountains, which he had a chance to see for the first time. He found the trip through the Shenandoah Valley most enjoyable.

Meeting in Shallotte the past week D. F. King brought along with him an interesting example of earlier Southport newspaper production. He had loaned a copy of the Southport Standard of June 13, 1901. The issue was Volume IV, No. 44. The late C. Ed Taylor of Southport was editor and proprietor. The paper had about half a column of matter relative to the county outside of Southport and, in common with the practice of papers of that day, it carried about as much advertising on the front page as on any other. It may be interesting to Brunswick people to know that during his lifetime Mr. Taylor religiously kept all copies of newspapers published in Brunswick county, some that were published before he was born. A few years ago he donated a very valuable collection of these papers to the State Library at Raleigh.

Lt. Claude J. Smith, here at the CCC Camp Sapona, 1934-1937, is planning a trip back to Southport in May. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Smith and his intentions are to stay a week or longer. He has been in the service since leaving here 11 years ago and has never had an opportunity to return. In a nice letter received from him yesterday from his home in Arlington, Virginia, he requested all available information regarding Southport and Brunswick county as they are today.

Attendance at the basket games at Southport will average about the same as that on other high school courts throughout the county. It would be much better but for two facts in connection with the gymnasium. One of these is that there are no seats for the spectators, hardly enough for the players and game officials. Another thing that holds down the attendance is that the balcony, where the spectators have to stand, is not considered altogether safe. Until something is done...

official as an able and very willing fellow for such tasks. While the tournament to decide the boys and girls basket ball champions of the county is now underway, it may be timely to say that the schedule among the schools this year has developed some mighty fine basket ball players. At least it has started them on the way to such development. If they go on through college after finishing high school some of the boys will be heard from among the college teams a few years from now. In addition to development of young athletes the fine sporting spirit shown at the basket ball games this season has been of enormous value.

about it, the danger, if there is danger, will increase each year. If good use is ever to be made of the building the balcony will have to be torn down and the building widened with ten or twelve foot wings on either side. These wings should have seating arrangements to accommodate several times the present average number of spectators. The cost of making such changes should not be more than a tenth of that of a new building and floor.

Two of our good friends at Shallotte, E. Holden and Devon Miliken, have both been having hard luck with their health during the past few weeks. Devon had a stroke of some sore, affecting his throat. He has been a patient here in the Doshier Memorial Hospital since that time. We do not know just what ailed Mr. Holden but he had got over it enough to be sassy when we saw him Monday.

Over 100 persons attended the Shallotte Lions Club anniversary night at the Anchor Hotel in Shallotte Point Thursday. According to G. C. McKeithan and Mayor Leon Galloway, the evening was a huge success. A big supper was served.
