Berry Fertilizer Needs Discussed

County Agent Outlines Suggestions For Obtaining Greatest Yields From Plants

BERRY FERTILIZER 24
BY C. D. RAPER
(County Farm Agent)

The use of fertilizers on strawberry fields is governed largely by the same principles that apply to their use on other crops. As soils differ greatly in their composition on the problem of fertilizers in chiefly local, to be solved by each grower according to his own conditions. However, from my observations in the field and on the markets, talking with the growers who were producing different yields and qualities of berries, I found consistently high yields and best qualities from growers who had made two applications of fertilizer and given the beds the proper care in doing this.

It is suggested that a fertilizer with an analysis of 5-7-5- or 6-8-6 be used with at least half of the nitrogen coming from organic sources. For average conditions in eastern North Carolina an application of 750 pounds per acre in late August or early September and another 750 pounds in December or early January should be made. The August or September application should be applied as follows: one-half of the fertilizer in furrows (2 to 3 inches deep) on each side of the row and cover. The December or January treatment should be applied on top of the bed when thoroughly dry and brush the loose material off the leaves at once.

The August or September application is suggested to stimulate growth and fruit bud formation during the fall months and the December or January treatment will supply plant food for maturing the crop.

Plans now to do this for it is far too late next spring when you find your yield and quality is poor.

CONFESSION

They had worked for years as partners in the big tobacco manufacturing plant. Joe and Sam, Joe was now sitting beside Sam, who was dying. The sick man knew he was doomed and said with a deep sigh of repentance: "Joe, I've a confession to make. I robbed the firm of $30,000. I sold the secret formula for $40,000. I stole the letter from your desk that got your wife divorced, and . . . " "Oh, well, never mind, Sam," said Joe, "I'm the chap that poisoned you."

The virus of hog cholera clings to shoes, boots, auto tires, and wagon wheels and thereby may find its way into a previously uninfected herd.
