lined the plans for the campaign as follows: Each of the twenty-seven churches is being supplied with duffel bags in which to pack the items contributed. All supplies are to be brought to the local church on or before November 15, which time they will be picked up and brought to the central receiving station at the laundrette operated by the Southport church.

On Sunday, November 14, each church is urged to take an offering to defray the cost of shipping the supplies to New Orleans. All children of the churches from the nursery department through the junior department are requested to contribute at least one can of evaporated milk for the use of the little children of Europe and Asia who are in such need of the necessities of life.

Students Make Trip To Fair

Two Buses Take Shallotte Boys And Girls On Trip To North Carolina State Fair

The home economics girls and the agriculture boys of Shallotte high school arose early to meet the bus at 6 o'clock on the morning of Friday October 22.

They were going to North Carolina State Fair at Raleigh. After loading, they began their journey. The boys who were accompanied by Mr. LeRoy Mintz, their teacher, seemed to be unusually quiet on their bus as the girls took the lead in making noise. Accompanied by their teacher, Miss Copeland, they practiced yells and songs for the ball games later in the season.

When the bus stopped in Clinton, passengers knew it couldn't be long to Raleigh.

The excited group reached the fair grounds at 11:30 o'clock. After waiting to get in they finally reached the place they had talked about for weeks, "State Fair." Then the group scattered among the crowds, many of which headed for the rides.

On the fair grounds it was crowded, noisy and the odor of popcorn was strong. Above the laughing faces people could be seen spinning through the air on the many rides. They were dressed in everything from dungarees to satins and high heels.

To most of the crowd the rocket looked like fun so naturally they decided to try it. As it flew round and round through the air, the riders became dizzy. Most of them thought this was too rough but would not admit it. Next the octopus was seen and a few of the group decided to try it. While in the air everyone was secret praying, amid the screaming to get down safely.

Among the other rides were cars, jeeps and a giant Ferris wheel. Strange sights were on view in the side shows. There were midgets, a baby with two heads, and a girl in an iron lung. Curiosity took its course and many went to the fortune tellers. All the girls are to have handsome husbands and the boys beautiful wives.

In the exhibits the boys were interested in livestock and machinery. The large cows seem to draw the attention of everyone. The girls were attracted to exhibits concerning home economics. Among these were, flowers, food, furniture and hair styling.

The huge collection of crisp-looking pickles caused much discussion. In the afternoon, only a few from Shallotte attended the races. Before the races farm machinery was demonstrated. The long steel blades glistened in every one's eyes while brightly colored tractors moved slowly around the race track.

Many of the novelty shops were visited by the group and some valuable prizes were won.

At 4:30 o'clock bedraggled, the dusty group met at the gate and slowly and reluctantly left the fair grounds at 5:30 o'clock.

Both buses stopped in Benson and the tired group was less noisy than it had been the whole day. The buses left Benson at 7:30 o'clock and drove quietly home. Some of the group went to sleep while others carried on quite conversations.

When the buses reached Shallotte at 10:45 o'clock the moon could be seen sending its silvery beams down on the Shallotte oaks and Spanish moss. The darkened farm houses were quiet and still. Everything seem to show the lateness of the hour. Although everyone was tired and sleepy, Friday night, each enjoyed the fair thoroughly and expressed the wish of returning again next year.

Good Fishing Still Possible

Captain Victor P. Lance Thinks That Some Of The Best Fishing Of The Fall Still Remains To Be Done

Sport fishing offshore is far from being over according to Captain Victor P. Lance of the Major who stated Sunday night that there are still plenty of good chances at sailfish, and that this may continue for some time, if the weather holds out.

Amberjack, dolphin, bonita, king mackerel and other fish should be active right along until Christmas. It is recalled that several years ago Don N. Carpenter, outdoor editor of the Washington Daily News, and a party of other Washington sportsmen made one of the nicest catches that has been brought in here. They got plenty of amberjack, dolphin and one of the largest catches of bonita we have ever seen. This was just one week before Christmas. Practically everything except sailfish seem to remain on the shoals all winter and their taking is just a matter of there being fishing weather.

Captain Lance with W. O. Humphries and a party from Roxboro got 103 nice bluefish Sunday. Other boats further out on the gulf are said to have made nice catches of amberjack, dolphin, bonita and king mackerel. Captain Lance reported that at that time the seas were settling down and the waters becoming clear. Clear water and the absence of an east wind appears to be the only things needed for good catches to be made here during any time of the year.

Examiner Warns Of Final Rush

State Drivers License Examiner Says That Prospects Are Developing For Last Minute Waiting Line

State Motor Vehicle License Examiner N. E. Hudson stated Monday that four of the six months allowed E. F. G. automobile operators in which to renew their license or to get new ones are now gone.

Motorists have only now until January 1st, in which people whose names begin with these letters may take the examination. Mr. Hudson says that thus far in the six months period only a very small number have applied for examination, either here or at Shallotte. He anticipates that if applicants do not get busy and come in during November, they may have a lot of waiting in line when they do come the last few days.

In order to avoid long waits in line, Mr. Hudson urges that all Brunswick county residents whose names begin with E. F. or G. begin coming in right now while he can easily take care of them.

He is at Southport each Monday and at Shallotte each Tuesday. The licenses may be obtained at either of the above places on these days.

GETS BID TO VIRGINIA

A letter received here from Winston Montague, outdoor writer and radio commentator of Richmond, Va., made a bid for John Fernside of Freeland to come to Virginia with his hounds to hunt wild hogs. The invitation has been passed on to John.

MADE GOOD CATCH

Fishing at Howell's Point last week Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Frazier and their guests, Dr. W. R. Floyd, Miss L. Harkey, Miss M. Walker and E. H. Hix, made a nice catch of flounder and spots, getting about 50 pounds of the spots. Dr. Floyd is staff surgeon at the Cabarrus County Hospital and Miss Harkey is the Superintendent of nurses.

Donations For Community Tree

Plans Being Made For Community Christmas Trees This Year For Both White And Colored Children

Preparations are now underway for the annual community Christmas Tree under the auspices of the Southport Lion's Club. The plans are for two trees this year, one at the community building for the white children and the other at St. James Methodist church for colored.

The funds raised will be used impartially for the purchase of presents for both the white and colored children. Many of these presents are already being purchased. More are being ordered as fast as funds come in. All who are interested in sharing in the event may make donations for the purchase of presents to either the Lions Club or to Mrs. Helen Bragaw.
