expressions. The day they have wished for so long is near, but somehow it isn't as they planned. Their school days have been happy ones and they hate to see them over.

Seen on the campus: Lois Pigott pestering Mr. Grahl's History 11 class. Rose Marie Gray and June Clyde Caison entertaining (if that's what you call it) during recess. The sophomores pretending they were seniors, as they marched through the auditorium. You'll make it someday, Sophomore! Joe Carter hunting candy. Kat and Jan sitting in the mascot chairs while Peg quarreled. Things like that make the world go around, Peg. The seniors marching. Betty Jane Downer practicing her speech for graduation. W. Thomas, L. L. Hewitt sporting their cars around at school. The glee club practicing for the graduation. Betty Ruth Sermons and Jennette Grissett talking as usual. Betty Jane and Helen Hewitt excited about their shopping in Wilmington. Rose Marie Holden making good use of the senior privileges. Can't say that we blame you, Rosie! Hilda Hewitt and Margaret Ann Roach chatting. The girls planning what dress to wear the last day. It isn't very interesting is it, boys? And everybody studying for exams.

Next week will be the final week of the Pirate Log since school closes Wednesday. We know we'll have bushels to tell you about the graduation, parties and—well, wait and see.

BOLIVIA WINS
A close game was played in Southport Thursday by the Southport Presbyterian and Bolivia junior baseball teams with the score 8 to 7 in favor of the visitors. Bolivia this season has won over both Leland and Shallotte.

As graduation day draws near the happy smiles of the seniors are gradually changing to sad expressions.

The game was close right up through the last two innings.

Mr. Earp stated that the planting of some of the ruined crops was impossible because of the lateness of the season. In addition to his corn and other field crops that were ruined, he lost 9 acres of cotton that had been thinned to a stand. Owing to the lateness he is planting the land in other crops.
Patrolman C. M. Cummins was traveling along highway No. 303 near the Gilbert Reid home when the storm hit that community, and visibility became so poor that he pulled over to one side of the road and parked. Traffic conditions were dangerous for a time, he reported, but the rain which followed the hail washed the ice off the roadway and made the surface safe for travel within a short time. He reported that some of these roadside drifts were 12 inches deep, and some of the ice still was visible the next morning.

roads Mr. Bridges, it was learned that as soon as the Bond Election matter is settled, these projects will be given to the public as both time and money become available. It was learned, however, that the bridge at the end of the Southport pavement on the River Road is to be repaired and placed in safe condition as a temporary measure awaiting final action by the highway officials in completing the entire road and new bridge.
As soon as feasible, the planning board will present to the highway officials the will of the Lions Club affecting these matters. While the Lions Club is sponsor for the work of the planning board as now constituted the plan for enlarging the scope of this board's work, and inviting representations from other sources to work with the board as now organized is under consideration.

residence directly across the road from the building. Mrs. Newton was awakened at 4 o'clock by a brilliant flash. She called her husband who with their son he ran across the road with buckets of water and were able to extinguish the blaze by breaking out the door glass and throwing water inside.
Sand outside the door was found saturated with both gas and kerosene oil and the blaze inside the building was unmistakably from burning gas and oil. The mixture had evidently been poured under the front door in a considerable quantity, but owing to a very level floor it failed to run far inside. Sheriff Stansland called on J. F. Bradshaw of the North Carolina S. B. I., who is making an investigation. He stated Monday that the building was on fire in two places.

young lady was crowned with a wreath of poppies by Commander E. H. Redwine and presented with a real poppy corsage and a gift of $2.50 in cash by Mrs. Bellamy. Miss Register received these honors for her outstanding poppy sales record; Miss Carol Ann Sellers, Shallotte, had the next best sales record with Miss Bettie Kate Leonard, Shallotte, and Miss Marie Fulford, Holden's Beach, receiving honorable mention.
It is quite appropriate, and perhaps no coincidence, that the people of Brunswick county were especially generous to this worthy project this year, the year of the big Homecoming Day on June 10 for honoring the servicemen and women of the county.
Yes, it is true that Brunswick county will never forget!

behind other counties in the state in getting either the roads to which it is entitled or the schools that it needs.
Attorney J. W. Ruark spoke warmly for the issue urging a big vote, saying that Brunswick county, more than any other, should turn out strongly with its men and women voters Saturday.
D. B. Frink, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, and S. Bunn Frink, Southport Attorney both endorsed the bond issue. They pointed out that the executive committee in a called session had officially and unanimously endorsed the bond issue.
W. A. Kopp of Bolivia, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, took the floor to state that his organization had planned and are planning to meet and endorse the bond issue. Meanwhile, he wished to announce right there that the Republicans of Brunswick were as solidly for the road and school bonds as were the Democrats.

Sheriff Walter M. Stansland heartily endorsed the bond issues, as did Henry Hickman, a member of the Shallotte school board, J. E. Dodson and H. W. Hood.
Wilbur Clark, highway commissioner for the 3rd district, was called on as the last speaker. Mr. Clark briefly pointed out that Brunswick would get if the bond issue carried, saying that Brunswick county people had everything to gain and nothing to lose by voting for the road and school bonds.

During the past week the following organizations have added their endorsement to the Better Schools and Roads movement: Southport Lions Club, Brunswick County Democratic Executive Committee and Southport Board of Aldermen. Previously the election had received the endorsement of Shallotte Post No. 1 American Legion, the Brunswick county commissioners, the Brunswick County Farm Bureau councilmen for the town of lotte.

Indications point to a vote, with an overwhelming majority in favor of the issues to be decided by the
