

Sport Fishing Luck Is Good

Local Party Boat Skippers Report Satisfactory Results From Trips Made During Past Week

With nothing spectacular reported, all of the Southport boats are reported to have done pretty well by their parties during the past week.

With not all boats reporting, the following is a partial record for the past week:

Geo. W. Goodman, former resident of Southport and now known as the "fishing-rod king" of Carolina Beach, headed a party out with Capt. James Arnold Monday aboard the Klabb. In three hours they took 84 Spanish mackerel and 68 blues for a total take of 152. The party included Mr. Goodman, R. A. Mauldove, C. B. Mobley, Thomas McLean and Burk Hehder.

Idle-On, Capt. T. H. Watts, July 12, Jake Larkey and party from Myrtle Beach, 122 bluefish and mackerel. July 7, L. M. Body and party from Myrtle Beach, 40 bluefish, 1 king mackerel, 3 amberjack, 1 bonita. July 8, Jake Larkey and party of Myrtle Beach, 117 blues and mackerel. July 11, George Mooney and party of Wrightsville, 11 king mackerel, 6 bonita, 1 dolphin, 3 Spanish mackerel.

Botfly, Capt. Basil Watts: July 5, Inez Jordan and party from Wrightsville Beach, 96 blues and mackerel. July 6 L. B. Rourk and party from Wilmington, 60 blues and mackerel. July 7, M. B. Waters and party from Long Beach, 1 bonita, 20 blues, 4 amberjack and 10 dolphin. July 8, W. F. Dyer and party from Whiteville, 121 blues and mackerel.

Horn Worms Not Bad This Year

Growers Have Reported That Few Of These Pests Have Threatened Quality Of This Season's Weed Crop

In connection with this year's tobacco crop what is said to have been a remarkable circumstance in Brunswick has been the almost complete absence of horn worms.

Normally the tobacco fields have to be sprayed at least once, usually twice. Even then the forms are always destructive and one effect of their devastation can be seen in the numerous holds that are in the leaves of tobacco at marketing time.

The worm eats only a small hole but the hole gets bigger and bigger and it does not weigh anything. A leaf that is full of holes does not have much tobacco. This week W. H. Redwine, Shallotte tobacco grower, sent this paper a hand or tie of tobacco. He says it was picked up at random from a barn of tobacco that he cured. The hand was just a fair sample of the entire barnfull, he said.

The interesting thing about this sample of tobacco was its beautiful curing and the fact that the leaves were entirely without horn worm holes. The beautiful curing, says Mr. Redwine, was the result of using automatic stoker curers in his barn. This system automatically keeps the heat in the barn at any desired level. The absence of holes in the leaves, he said, was due to the absence of horn worms.

Register of Deeds Amos J. Walton has also been commenting on the absence of worms this year. He says he always has to spray his crop twice. This year has not seen a dozen horn worms and some years he has found that many on a single leaf of tobacco.
