CANNON THE REAL CZAR.

Special Interests Don't Suffer Much Under Him. Cannon Pondering to the Kentucky Whisky Trust.

Raleigh Evening Times.

Not since Uncle Joe Cannon first was elected speaker of the house has be exercised his great power over legislation so autocratically, nor bath the breath of scandle ever been so busy with his factics as in this last session of the fifty ninth congress. In close exhoot with the Roose The productive of the most strength is special interests which provides that where era package of whickey enters the barr velt administration, and the recipi-ent of its support for whatever h-does, the speaker is fast losing popularity with congress members, package of whisky enters the bu-ders of any state it shall become immediately subject to the liquor laws of that state. Many of the southern states have passed prohi-bution laws, and the southern and western distillers fear that the en-actment of this measure would interfere uniterially with their busi-pess in those states, as well as in the transportation of their whiskies through those states. This bill otherwise is known as the Dolliver-Hepburn bill, and the judiciary committee has been acceled divided committee has been evenly divided in relation to its reports.

Speaker Cannon recently re-quested John Sharp Williams, the Democratic leader, to designate a member of the minority for appoint-ment as an additional member of the judiciary committee. Williams the judiciary committee. Williams named Representative Webb, of North Carolina. But Webb was not the man wanted. Speaker Cannon therefore did what he never has done before—disregarded Wil-has done before—disregarded Wil-hams' recommendation and appoint ed Representative Shirley of Ken-tucky, the son of one of the biggest distillation and the generative states of the biggest tucky, the son of one of the biggest distillers in that Bourbon state. Williams got hot under the collar, and exploded his wrath against Uncle Joe, and then the scandal leaked out. The distillers had gained control of the judiciary com-mittee, it was said, and the "C. O. D." bill would be because a smooth D." bill would be beaten or smoth-ered in committee. Shirley, how-ever, determined, after hearing the talk in connection with his appoint-ment, that he could not accept the speaker's designation, and so teday declined the committee assign ment.

"They cannot hand me a lemon." "Why, we thought that's what Williams handed Uncle Joe," soul another member, Williams says to night that he never will make an other member. other minority recommendation to Speaker Cutinon, and these two old cronies also not not speaking terms now.
