HASTY GOES TO PRISON.

Spent Short While in Charlotte Enroute to Columbia to Enter Upon Life Sentence.

George Hasty entered upon his life sentence in the South Carolina penitentiary last week for killing two members of theatrical troupe at Gaffney a year ago.

The Charlotte Observer says.

The Charlotte city lock-up rarely contains within its barred precincts a man who looks less the law-breaker than does George Hasty, the convicted murderer and admitted slayer of two men. Hasty arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Gaffney en route to Columbia, S. C., where he enters upon a life sentence in the penitentiary. Officer Irby accompanied him.

Hasty stated that he had been in South Carolina for about five years. He is by birth and rearing a North Carolinian. His father still lives at the old home at Randleman.

George Hasty has what is commonly termed and what would be universally admitted to be "a good face." He is young, only 23, handsome, and yesterday was neatly dressed in a suit of gray, a derby and a checkered sweater. He is strongly and sturdily built. It is needless to say that he expects a yard in prison or later. Were it not for this hope, the light of his eyes, where glows the love of life and the flush upon his cheeks, which not all the confinement and the trying ordeal of the past 14 months have been able quite to remove, would be impossible. The sentence to a life time of drudgery and confinement is a thing incomprehensible, unrealistic and impossible to one in whose veins yet throbs the blood of youth.

A Correction.

The development of facts in the Liberty sensation reported in our last issue show that an error was made in the article taken from the State press. Friends of Dr. Foust assert that the author of the report was in error in stating that Dr. Foust was called. It appears that Dr. Foust remained at Liberty attending his patients, and was later called in by the parents of the unfortunate young lady. In as much as the article was published in good faith we make this correction.

The tragic end of a days outing taken by Concord boys and girls at the home of Mr. R. V. Caldwell near Concord Saturday was told in Sunday's papers. The young people went out target shooting and one of his playmates, Miss Mace Parks, without knowing the rifle was loaded raised it to her shoulder and shouted to the young son of their host "throw up your hands, Zeb!" Before the words were uttered a rifle shot was heard and Master Zeb fell backward off of a rock and was precipitated 15 feet below. He died in a few minutes, the ball having entered his head. Miss Parks is a daughter of Baxter Parks, of Concord, and is proximate with grief. The bereaved family and the little girl by whose hand Master Zeb was stricken down have the sympathy of everybody.
