SARATOGA STYLES.

Breakfast Dresses—Hats—Shoes—Canvas. Bronze, Tan and Patent Leather.

There is but one Saratoga—one place only which presents such a varied attractions. The medicinal waters, the beautiful trees and walks, the fine hotels, the incoming and outgoing tide of travel, a never-failing source of amusement, the delightful morning and evening concerts on hotel verandas, and above all, when one has jewels and elegant gowns, Saratoga is the field for display. Hotel and boarding house piazzas look like flower beds in full bloom, so great is the variety of this season's color, at the same time modified by the still existing "ad" for white.

FOR THE EARLY MORNING HOURS.

Persons of correct and refined taste, usually dress plainly at breakfast time, although later in the day, they may astonish onlookers by their elegant toilettes. Linen tailored waists make quite a showing, and some have a decidedly military air, with straps across the front finished with pearl buttons, a tuck and narrow brettele crossing the shoulders. White Marie Antoinette waists, white figured percale and cross-barred batiste waists are all fashionable with the never-to-be-displaced black skirt. Lingerie hats, which by the way have taken on a more elaborate air than at the beginning of the season, are worn with any morning dress and stitched linen with a large white pompon, is also patronized, but seekers after novelties sport the Panama hat, trimmed by a simple, fringed scarf.

Growth of Morality and Decency.

In Charlotte on the fourth 3,500 cotton mill operatives, from six different mills, gathered together and held holiday. Their employers mingled freely with them and aided in the success of the occasion, thus showing good feeling between workman and employer. In all that best says the News, there was not a drunk, not a fight, no profanity; but good conduct, good feeling, decency and order. Somebody sent a 50-gallon barrel of beer to the picnic grounds and the driver was told before he unloaded it to carry it back where it came from. Contrast this, in a dry town, with some of the disgusting scenes on the same day in yet towns.—Davidson Dispatch.

A bunch of men were discussing murders and the like, and the question of Gaddy's whereabouts came up. Gaddy killed Kahanks about a year ago in the railroad camp near town. Immediately after the time people swarmed over the scene round about and hunted for the murderer. During the above mentioned conversation, one man broke up and declared that Gaddy was dead—that he was caught and hanged on that Sunday when he shot Kahanks. The men who hunted for him were mad enough to have killed him if they had caught him, at whether they did or not is a question. This assertion that he was caught and shot is the first we have heard. It may be so.—Davidson Dispatch.

last season's favorites, reappears for morning and tan or white canvas were never more popular. Black patent leather is best adapted for afternoon or evening, and either the sandal slipper or the tie is equally stylish. Bronze footwear is "just the thing" with any toilette, except one for a tall or some other ceremonial occasion, upon which satin slippers with hand embroidery and a Rhine-stone buckle or chiffon rosette are indispensable. White, washable calf skin combined with tan, in high shoes for outing, have been adopted by the fashionable class, and are even more readily cleaned than canvas. The "diamond tip" stamps a shoe as belonging exclusively to this season.

AFTERNOON DRESSES.

Many fanlard silks are seen on verandas, in Congress Park or the main streets, some made in jumper styles, others in the skirt and small blouse. Lingerie dresses in princess style, are so numerous and varied that to describe them would be an endless task. Princess dresses in blue, pink or white silk, trimmed with lace, and worn by the really young, are among the sweetest and prettiest costumes seen here. Nets also are very charming, some trimmed by puffs of colored satin on skirt, waist and sleeves, and others are embroidered in colors with contrasting colored silk beneath.

LARGE SAILOR HATS

are in great favor here, both for morning or afternoon, with large bows of ribbon or hemmed taffeta silk at the front. A peculiar hat has immense bows of white Brussels net, the edges finished by straw braid, and at the centre of the bow is a cluster of small flowers.

Pictures of Alamance Battle Grounds.

Dr. W. A. Coble, of this city, is the owner of the land on which the famous battle of Alamance was fought, May 16, 1771. This was undoubtedly the first battle of the Revolution, and consequently the real cradle of American liberty and independence. Appreciating this fact, Dr. Coble, who besides being a patriot is also a learned historian, has had two large and handsome pictures made, one showing the monument erected there to the patriots who fell in the battle. The other picture is a good reproduction of the celebrated painting by J. Steple Davis, that shows much of the battlefield as a setting to the death of an emissary of the King by the hands of the rebels.

Dr. Coble is arranging to have these pictures in the libraries of the leading colleges of the State, in the public library in Greensboro and at the Guilford Battle Ground Museum. Copies will also be placed in the State's Historical exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition.—Greensboro Telegram.

When?

People who travel the highways in Randolph and Davidson counties are wondering how much longer the good people of those counties will put up with the bad roads. These counties are usually progressive on other lines. Even just ten years behind the times on the matter of good roads and it is against them.—High Point Enterprise.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for every thing but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Courtesy to Clerks.

If customers would only stop to appreciate the trying conditions which surround the average salespeople there would be more courtesy shown.

If the dissatisfied customer would, just for a moment, fancy herself in the saleswoman's place, not only trying to be self-supporting but also perhaps shouldering the burden of caring for others besides. The average woman makes little preparation when she starts out on a shopping tour. She has a vague idea of what she wants, but she nearly always depends entirely upon the clerk to know her taste and ideas.

If customers would only think out at home what they want, how much they can pay for it and where they would perhaps be likely to secure what they wish.

It takes so much time to show goods when a customer has not a definite idea as to price, quality and amount of material needed. The customer should inform herself as to the different prices of the different qualities of the same material.

It is the best plan always to give a clerk an idea what the material is needed for and how much one cares to pay for it.

Women shopping are so deeply interested in their shopping expedition that often they forget to give any consideration to the girl behind the counter.

Retailers go to Roads.

The "retailing" crowd have had scared looks on their faces all during court this week. Judge Justice is a foe to the small grocery keeper and the blind-tiger fellows who want to make money through this illegitimate form of traffic. His common sense was shown yesterday when one fellow was convicted and thought he could escape with payment of a fine. He offered to pay a fine of $500 to be released, but the Judge told him to give his money to his wife and child and sentenced him to six months on the county roads at hard labor. We are told that one or two fellows who "smelled a mouse" have made it convenient not to be in all this week. Give the fellows a few months on the roads and it will soon put a stop to the business.—Stanley Enterprise.

D. & S. C. R. R.

On the first of this month a passenger coach was put on the Durham and South Carolina railroad, which runs from Durham to Bousal, a station on the Seaboard Air Line 23 miles south of Raleigh.

Ever since the completion of this railroad, two years ago, only freight trains had been run on it. A car-house was attached to each freight train, in which persons living along the road were allowed to ride without any charge. This is the only railroad we ever heard of, on which only freight trains were run and no passenger was charged anything for riding on it. This passenger coach, attached to a freight train, makes connection at Bousal with No. 38 on the Seaboard, and leaves Bousal on the arrival there of No. 38.

FOR THE AILING BABE.

Mrs. H. A. Fisher Recommends Sovereign Remedy.

Mrs. Henderson A. Fisher, of Franklin township, sends the Post a receipt of a sovereign remedy for ailing babies. She says:

Use one-third of a pint of fresh milk, 3 tablespoonfuls of sweet cream one tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of lime water, two-thirds of a pint of boiling water. This quantity will be enough for the baby a day, but you will have to make it again for it at night. Be sure to keep the milk cool, and before giving it to the baby warm it a little. If the baby's bowels get loose use less cream in the milk.—Salisbury Post.

What a Man of 45 Ought to Know.

Dr. J. C. Stull, D. D., Vir Publishing Co., Philadelphia, 24 pp., price 1.00. It has been aptly said that a man at forty-five is either a fool or a physician. In the earlier books of the self and sex series, the author, Dr. J. C. Stull, D. D., has sought to save young boys, young men and young husbands from mistakes which can only be avoided by intelligence. Few men know that great physical changes await them at middle life. Perhaps it may be truthfully said that most of forty-five are as ignorant of the nature of the changes through which they are passing as boys at the period of adolescence. In this book, Dr. Stull, in that honest, frank and fearless, but pure and matchless way which distinguishes his earlier books of the series, sets forth the character of the changes which occur in the physical life of both men and women. The author makes out a clear case; applies to men of what all intelligent physicians admit prepares his readers to solve the mysteries of these changes and by intelligence to escape the sad consequences of ignorance. To many men the guidance of this book will be a timely benediction.
