

THINGS MONEY CANNOT BUY.

Brains, Good Conscience, True Friendship and Health Are Not The Servants of Gold.

Money is a useful and necessary thing. It can do much for ourselves and others. But there are many things, and the things of greatest value, that money cannot buy.

One of these things is intellectual power. A fool's money can buy diamonds, palaces, titles; but it cannot buy an ounce of brains; and he must submit, if he be a wise fool, to use throughout his lifetime the brains of others. Gifted ignorance is still ignorance; and Mind remains Master though clothed in rags.

Money cannot buy a clear conscience. Gold is no shield against the shafts of remorse, and great wealth cannot silence the soul's condemnation. Conscience has never been bribed, and no success, however great, can efface the stain of sin. The pain may be softened down, but it brings no ease to the heads that wear the devil's crown. True happiness flies when conscience frowns, and no golden lure can bring her back.

Money cannot buy a happy home. Sometimes it almost seems as if wealth were inimical to home happiness. It cannot buy selfishness, and it cannot buy the forbearance that is a necessity to happiness. Children are not the happier because they have no ungratified wishes and men and women do not love each other because they are less necessary to each other. The happiest homes are seldom found where wealth is great.

Money cannot buy friendship. Some will perhaps take exception to this and claim that money does attract friends. The difference lies solely in what we mean by "friend". Money attracts those that money can buy, but true men are not for sale. Those whom my money attracts are my money's friends alone, and I am still as lonely as ever.

Money cannot buy health. It may secure the amelioration of sickness and the lessening of pain, and in exceptional cases it may mean restoration to health, but in the vast majority of cases the reverse is true, and the rich man in his suffering looks with longing eyes upon the poor man's rugged health, and feels that it would be a good exchange if he could secure that health even at the sacrifice of all he has.

Money cannot buy the saving of the soul or the safe guarding of those spiritual interests that are dearer than life itself. There are doors that swing open at the touch of gold, but not these doors. There may be crowns that are for sale, but not the crown of life. Earth's gold is less than tinsel here. The power of money reaches no higher than some paltry six feet from the ground. Sometimes earthly justice has been for sale; and the judge's ermine has been soiled, but there is no spot upon the great white throne. All the wealth of all the ages could not buy forgiveness of sins.

Corruption Funds and Benefits.

The Republican National campaign fund expended by Chairman Cortelyou, for the Roosevelt election is reputed to have been a little more than $4,000,000. Where and how did they get it? The official evidence in the Life Insurance investigating showed that part of it came from the trust funds of policy holders that should have been assured to widows and orphans; that Harriman, who the President now charges is an undesirable citizen, gave $50,000; that the discredited Dewey gave $25,000, and his friends in Wall Street about $100,000 more. That Mr. Rogers, of the Standard Oil Trust and Mr. Stillman, President of the National City—the Rockefeller—Bank and a number of other trusts and corporation magnates were also subscribers and charged and not disproven, and where the other millions came from is not certainly known, but large amounts were undoubtedly paid by the protected trusts which have always been liberal producers of corruption funds to keep their Republican friends in office. That is the chief reason the tariff has not been revised. The other contributors have also had their quid pro quo, for no one seriously believes that the Standard Oil Trust will ever pay the fine assessed against it. We know that Harriman will get immunity. We know that Dewey was elected Senator by the aid of the Administration. We know that the Standard Oil banks have large government deposits without interest, and when the names of the other subscribers are divulged there will probably be no difficulty in tracing favors received. Does not this evidence of the trusts and corporations having paid these large sums to the Roosevelt campaign fund plainly show that the charge made by Judge Parker just before the election of 1904 was true, although President Roosevelt denied it. Yet no restitution even of the widows and orphans funds, has ever been made by the Republican National Committee, and President Roosevelt has never made the amend honorable to Judge Parker, or even a poor excuse which would be better than none. It is quite probable that the same dastardly tactics will be resorted to in coming elections, and this evidence of Republican corruption and dishonor is produced to prevent voters from being again deceived in the same or some similar manner. When you see or hear of large amounts of money being expended at some future election, just ask yourself the question, "Where and how did they get it?"

Protests of the Past Against Railroads.

Old Jonas's objections to a railway were not amenable to reason or argument; it was sufficient that they were satisfactory to him. He had them all catalogued and numbered. There were six of them, and they ran about as follows:

1. A railroad would add to the racket and riot of the neighborhood, when, as things were, it was a difficult matter for decent people to sleep in peace.
2. (This objection was impressive on account of its originality; no one had ever thought of it.) The passing of railway trains would produce concussion, and this concussion, repeated at regular intervals, would cause the blossoms of the fruit trees to drop untimely off, and would no doubt have a disastrous effect on garden vegetables.
3. The railroad would not stop in Shady Dale, but would go on to Atlanta, thus making the little town a way-station, and drain the whole country of its labor at a time when everybody was trying to adjust himself to the new conditions.
4. Instead of patronizing home industries and enterprises, people would scramble for seats on the cars and go gadding about, spending anywhere but at home the little money they had.
5. Every business and all forms of industry in the whole section adjacent to the line would be at the mercy of the road and its managers.
6. What did the people want with railroads, when a majority of the loudest talkers had earned no more than three dollars apiece since the war.—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine for October.

Longing.

It's lonely since you left me, dear;
The hours go silent slow;
I wait in vain to hear
A stir where once you trod.
Days—days—days—
And never your footsteps come;
Oh, that I knew a call for you
To turn your wanderings home!
It's weary watching for you, love;
The twilight is a ghost;
The shadows breathe and move.
Sighing of something lost;
Dark—dark—dark—
And never your face for light—
Divided... Nay, a world away;
Heart of my heart, good night!
—Nancy Byrd Turner in July Lippincott's.

Who is the Afrikan.

Here's another question of veracity, amenability or something of that sort. The Mansfield, Ohio, Daily Shield says: "Official prevaricator, Loeb, says the President is taking no part in the Cleveland campaign, although Burton, whose veracity is not questioned, said, in effect, that Roosevelt had urged him to run. 'Either somebody has lied or nobody has told the truth, in either case, the Ohio Republicans will be deceived; but nobody else will.'

THIS MOVING PICTURE MACHINE IS A GREATER INVENTION THAN THE PHONOGRAPH

The films which reproduce the wonderful pictures shown by this machine are thirty-two pictures to the foot, popular standard size. This is the size endorsed by the leading moving picture entertainers who make thousands of dollars a year showing excited audiences pictures of momentous events. The films are all contained on a 16-foot endless chain. These films are taken one after the other and catch the moving objects in the different stages of action, thus presenting them to the eye as if the objects were really alive before you.

You don't need to do much traveling when you have a good moving picture machine in the house. You can sit right in your own parlor and look at scenes from all over the world just as if you had traveled thousands upon thousands of miles and were looking at the real scenes themselves. The moving picture machine keeps the entire household in a continual round of laughter when the funny pictures are shown. Mail the coupon.

For instance when you are looking at a horse on which a hunter is riding taken a tumble when he jumps the fence it is funny to see the rider roll over and over on the ground and then get up and for the jump on his head. The machine is very popular when there is a party at your house.

Every Home may be turned into a regular gold mine by giving moving picture shows. For instance there is no one who would not be willing to pay to see President Roosevelt delivering one of his speeches. It is so real you can almost hear the words and all one has to do is to read the speech he is delivering and you can see every gesture he makes. Boys, it is a sure thing. The live boy with one of these machines can make plenty of money—all he wants to spend. Send coupon.
